Overture, "Massaniello"—Auber
Song, "The Old Sexton"—Mr. RAINFORD (by special desire)
Selection, "Traviata"—Verdi
March, "Cecilia"—Godfrey.
Professor Russell will preside at the piano.
Doors open at 7; commence at 7.30.
Questions answered at the close of the Lecture.

SUNDAY LECTURES FOR RATIONALISTS.
GAIETY THEATRE.
"Reason—mighty, strong, and effectual."—SHAKESPEARE.
TO-MORROW (Sunday) EVENING,
Mr. CHARLES BRIGHT will deliver a Lecture entitled
JUDGE HIGINBOTHAM AND HIS CRITICS.
"No utterance upon such a theme of a man so honest, able, and widely respected, could be other than influential and deeply interesting. . . . . For himself, I feel, God knows, nothing but affectionate respect. He has done for us what so many of our critics refuse to do—he has told us, in plain and unmistakable words, what are the grievances under which he feels himself to labour."—BISHOP MOORHOUSE, of Melbourne.
"I readily leave the Judge to the admiration and laudation of Freethought, when he is extolled as an historian and as a philosopher. Amid the storm of words which his utterances have called forth it must afford deep and true consolation to Mr. Justice Higinbotham to be assured that he has the sympathy and support of Mr. Charles Bright, and of those who are like-minded with him."—BISHOP PEARSON, of Newcastle.
MUSICAL SELECTIONS under the direction of Mr. CHAS. AUSTIN
1. Overture—"Toreador" ... ... Adam
2. Ballad—"Let me like a Soldier Fall" ... By Mr. Harrison
3. March—"Prince George" ... ... Carter.

MEMORIAL OF THE LATE T. S. MORT.

Mr. J. HORBURY HUNT desires to inform those few working men who contributed a sum of money, and left the same with him, to be devoted in some simple way to show their appreciation of the late T. S. Mort, that it has been expended in purchasing some fine steel engravings, which are being framed with solid oak frames. The subscribers will also be pleased to learn that Mrs. T. S. Mort and Miss Annie Mort assisted Mr. Hunt in making a suitable selection. Each picture will have printed in small neat type the following:—

"Given to this Hospital for Sick Children by a few working men, in memory of THOMAS SUTCLIFFE MORT,—1883."

NOTICE is hereby given, that if CHARLES ROBERTS does not return and continue the works at the Congregational Church, Redfern, within three days from this date, we intend to enter and take possession of the building, and complete the same at his risk, by virtue of the authority given us under the 16th clause of his contract conditions.

GAS STOVE "VICTORY."

Before you buy an English Gas Cooking Stove, lined with white tiles, read the following letter. It may save you some trouble and disappointment:—

"Hudson Bros., Redfern Works, "Sydney, August 24, 1883.

"Mr. M. Raleigh, Elizabeth-street.

"Dear Sir,—As you are aware, I purchased some months ago, an English gas stove, with tiled sides, which was strongly recommended to me. This stove had a fair trial, when it was found not to answer for either roasting or baking. I sent the stove to you to be altered into a Raleigh stove, and I have now had it in use in my kitchen for some weeks in its altered state, and I think it only fair to tell you that whilst in its original condition it was almost useless to me, it now answers admirably for all purposes, viz., baking, roasting, grilling, toasting, and boiling.

"Yours truly, "JOHN J. WOOD."

CHALLENGE. In order to prove the Superiority of the "VICTORY" over all other Gas Stoves, English or Colonial, the inventor is prepared to Cook a Dinner for any number of persons with 40 per cent. less gas than any other gas stove to be found in the world.

Here is a chance for the importers or agents of other stoves to distinguish themselves.

SYDNEY PRODUCE EXCHANGE, 95, 97, 99, Sussex-street.

Established in the centre of the Produce Emporium of New South Wales, and close to the Principal Steamship Companies' Wharfs.

Having secured the adhesion of the principal steamship companies and shipowners, and the support of commercial houses of the western part of the city, the Exchange may be considered open to members for general use.

The advantage of the Exchange to the general commercial world may be fully understood by a visit to the establishment, all possible mercantile information being therein obtainable without leaving the Exchange room. The telephone is connected with every commercial house in the city, and the best accredited market reports and the leading commercial papers from all the Australian colonies are daily filed. The Shipping and Trade Protective Gazettes are constantly exhibited. Sailing dates and destinations of intercolonial steamers are shown in a case fitted up by the steam companies for the convenience of shippers. Any further information can be obtained by personal inspection, or from the secretary.

SEASON 1883-84.

HILL, CLARK, and CO., SYDNEY.

TO THE WOOL GROWERS OF NEW SOUTH WALES AND QUEENSLAND.

The rapid approach of the incoming wool season reminds us to tender our thanks for the very liberal support which has been accorded to us during past years; and while doing so we take the opportunity to solicit a continuance of the same support in the future which we have enjoyed in the past.

On referring to our circular issued last year we find that we therein anticipated a large increase in the quantity of wool which would be sold in these colonies, and the result proved that we were correct. We also predicted that the prices obtained in the colonies would be in favour of those growers who sold in the LOCAL MARKET, and this also has been fully borne out by facts.

We are also glad to say that this market all through the last season was extremely active, and the large quantity of wool sold proves that SYDNEY is fast becoming what it is destined to be in future the WOOL MARKET OF AUSTRALIA.

We have therefore no hesitation in urging upon growers the advantage of first offering their wool here, where buyers from all the manufacturing countries of Europe and America attend to supply their wants from FIRST HANDS.

Failing sales in Sydney we are prepared to ship to our London Agents, making liberal cash advances.

When sales are effected OUR CHARGES are made on as low a scale as possible, and all wool offered in our Warehouses, and not sold, is subject only to the nominal charge of ONE SHILLING PER BALE, which covers receiving, delivering, weighing, and storage accommodation.

Our Warehouses are particularly well lighted, and are most conveniently arranged for the display of wool in any quantity, to the greatest advantage.

The most careful attention is given to the valuing of every lot both large and small, so that nothing will be sold under the full market value.

Way-bills and all further information forwarded upon application.

IMMENSE AND UNPRECEDENTED SUCCESS
of the
HAPSBURG PIANOS
HAPSBURG PIANOS
HAPSBURG PIANOS
HAPSBURG PIANOS.
SPONTANEOUS TESTIMONY.
INCONTESTABLE PROOFS.
FREE-WILL CERTIFICATES.
UNIVERSAL SATISFACTION.

The marvellous success which has attended the introduction of these splendid instruments may be estimated by the fact that they are MORE imported and SOLD THROUGHOUT AUSTRALIA than those of ANY OTHER MAKE WHATEVER. From all parts of the colony have been forwarded to us testimonials which declare as an IRREFRAGABLE TRUTH the VAST SUPERIORITY of the MAGNIFCENT HAPSBURG PIANOS over all or any others in the market. Declarations such as the following are superior to all Exhibition awards, which can at all times be purchased by chicanery and back-stairs influence. The first, last, sole, and sufficient award which we seek is PUBLIC PATRONAGE.

REFERENCE may be made to those who have already obtained a HAPSBURG, and we shall be happy to submit great NUMBERS of certificates, besides the few which are here selected, to indicate the WONDERFUL and QUITE UNPARALLELED POPULARITY which the HAPSBURGS have already in so short a time attained.

HAPSBURG PIANOS are the SWEETEST
HAPSBURG PIANOS are the CLEAREST
HAPSBURG PIANOS are the LOUDEST
HAPSBURG PIANOS are the SOFTEST
HAPSBURG PIANOS are the HANDSOMEST
HAPSBURG PIANOS are the STRONGEST
HAPSBURG PIANOS are the BEST FINISHED.

CERTIFICATE.

"I have subjected Messrs. BEALE and CO.'S HAPSBURG PIANOS to the severest tests, and am greatly delighted at their MARVELLOUS SWEETNESS and POWER. I cordially recommend them.
(Signed) "ALICE CHARBONNET-KELLERMAN,
of the Conservatoire of Paris."

"Sydney, 7th March, 1883.
"I have tested the HAPSBURG PIANOS, imported by Messrs. BEALE and COMPANY, in ALL the VARIOUS GRADES, and am EXTREMELY PLEASED with the SWEETNESS, FULLNESS and POWER of the instruments. The TONE and FINISH are ALL THAT COULD BE DESIRED. The proper balancing of base with treble is strictly adhered to. Generally I consider them UNSURPASSED by ANY INSTRUMENT hitherto introduced.
(Signed) "CHARLES PACKER,
"Royal Academician,
"Composer of the Oratorio 'Crown of Thorns,' &c."

[Copy.]
"I have used Four Hapsburg Pianos at one of my BEST CONCERTS, and it gives me pleasure to state that the uniformity and roundness of tone gave every satisfaction. I consider them excellent.
(Signed) "J. RANDOLPH ARNDELL.
"West Maitland, 14th April, 1883."

All our pianos may be purchased at low prices for cash, or upon easy terms of time payment, to suit all customers.

ONE GREAT POINT IS THAT WE HAVE NOT, NOR SHALL WE HAVE, SECOND-HAND PIANOS for sale. All our instruments are entirely new, and their high qualities may be appreciated by hearing and examining them. We have no old-fashioned stock to get rid of, for the pianos are made expressly to our order, in the very latest style, and with all improvements.

An important advantage with the HAPSBURGS is that they require tuning only at long intervals, which fact not merely saves money, but is a great boon to purchasers residing in the country. Their immense strength, already described, renders them safe for carriage to long distances. No matter in what part of the colony you live, we are willing to supply you with a HAPSBURG PIANO upon easy terms of payment.

Messrs. NICHOLSON and CO.
desire to draw particular attention to the fact that their
MIGNON PIANO
is the outcome of very many months of labour and great expense in the perfecting of the instrument by our Mr. Nicholson, during his sojourn in Germany. Every improvement of value has been introduced, the very best materials and workmanship only used, and we can say, without fear of contradiction, that the
MIGNON PIANO
is the most perfect instrument of its size and value ever manufactured, and NO OTHER HOUSE CAN OFFER AN INSTRUMENT at all APPROACHING the MIGNON PIANO.

This model is the only one yet made bearing the name, and we beg to CAUTION our friends and the public in general against unscrupulous and unprincipled imitators.

Do not be misled by the advertisements of other houses offering rubbishing instruments, and pretending they are
MIGNON PIANOS.

THERE is BUT ONE
MIGNON PIANO,
and in Sydney can only be had at our warehouse.

Also, we beg to repeat that the
MIGNON PIANO
IS NOT a PIANETTE, or SMALL PIANO,
but is an ordinary-sized cottage instrument, and that it contains all the valuable improvements to be found in Pianos costing twice the price. We invite the strictest possible examination of this model, from either professional or mechanical men. Every facility will always be offered, and the instrument thoroughly exposed, so that every individual part of the piano may be seen.

For quality of tone, the
MIGNON PIANO
IS UNRIVALLED BY ANY SIMILAR VALUE INSTRUMENT, possessing, as it does, great volume, richness, fine singing quality, purity, exceedingly symathetic, and perfectly even. As to touch, the
MIGNON PIANO
has a most elastic one, pliant, not too light, nor yet too heavy, exceedingly agreeable to play upon. As regards durability there can be no question; we will guarantee the stability of the instrument, and we have no fear in sending the
MIGNON PIANO
to any part of Australia. The instrument is a marvel, splendidly and perfectly made in every little detail. All that ingenuity could devise has been done to give our Australian public the best and cheapest piano that it is possible to produce, AND WE DEFY ANY OTHER FIRM to show such a good value instrument as our
MIGNON PIANO.

THE MIGNON IS GUARANTEED for FIVE YEARS.

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUES with lowest CASH Prices, and also prices and particulars for Time Payment, may be had on application.

NOTICE to QUIT our STORE
at 56, Clarence-street, having been given by Lister Henry, in consequence of his requiring more room, we are COMPELLED TO SELL
Our Large Stock of over
200 PIANOS and ORGANS
before the end of this month.

This is the more unfortunate, as we have only just landed some beautiful instruments, which, by reason of their excellence of finish, would command high prices, but which we must turn over even at lower rates than our competitors ask for inferior goods.

Careful inspection and trial will infallibly bear out the truth of our statement and those of many eminent authorities who have seen our instruments, that
They are UNEQUALLED in AUSTRALIA for VALUE, MAGNIFICENCE of FINISH, and RICHNESS of TONE.

Those who wish to see the most beautiful Model Pianos in Sydney are cordially invited.
No one is pressed to buy.
OUR PIANOS and ORGANS SPEAK for THEMSELVES.

THE SMITH ORGANS,
from 11 to 90 guineas, will be sold during the month at liberal discounts.

DAVID LEE says:—"By far the finest instrument of the kind I have ever seen."

JULIUS HERZ says:—"The nearest approach to the pipe organ which ever came under my notice."

J. CHURCHILL FISHER, the eminent Professor of Music, writes:—"I am happy to testify to the excellence of your Smith American Organs. The one in use in the Public Training School, Fort-street, has given general satisfaction. Its tone is pure and pipe-like in quality, the Kalophon especially being an exquisite solo stop."

A Clergyman says:—"During the last three days I have visited every music store in Sydney, but have found your instruments far superior both in quality and cheapness."

ANCESTRAL ESTATE
ENGLAND.
An old ANCESTRAL ESTATE, which has been in the family of the present owners for over 400 years, will be SOLD BY auction in the SPRING of 1884, unless previously disposed of by private contract. The Estate is situated in one of the prettiest parts of the County of Buckingham, within two hours' journey from London, and in every way will prove a most charming home. The Estate comprises 1600 acres, is in a ring fence, and the entire village goes with it, so that the purchaser will be the absolute owner of every house in the village. The Estate is surrounded by the family properties of neighbouring noblemen and gentlemen, and the owner of this Estate must necessarily take a high social position in the County. The Estate affords first-rate shooting and fishing—a river runs through it—and it is in one of the best hunting counties in England. The Estate is of great commercial value, consisting of grazing and agricultural farms, the land being very good. The rental is over £3000 a-year, and could no doubt be easily raised if the Estate were properly developed, and money spent upon it. The timber on the property is exceptionally fine even for Buckinghamshire. The mansion-house was pulled down some years ago; but the old walled gardens and their grounds remain, and there is a comfortable house on the premises, which would serve as a residence pending the erection of another mansion house on the old site.
The owner will now accept £100,000 for the whole Estate, including everything. A few years ago before the agricultural depression in England he was offered and refused a much larger sum. Apply to

R. TODD, Parramatta-road, Petersham, has for SALE, a new SHOP in Parramatta-road, containing 3 rooms exclusive of shop, brick on stone, back entrance, and without doubt one of the best business centres out of Sydney.
Price, £800. £200 deposit
Balance in 8 years, at 7 per cent.
Also, HOUSES, 4, 5, and 6 rooms
COTTAGES, 3, 4, and 5 rooms, small deposits, balance as rent.
As I have a large list of properties on hand, it is impossible to do justice by advertising; and as buyers are always conveyed round to inspect, thereby saving them a great amount of time and trouble in finding the property they want, what is saved by advertising purchasers receive the benefit.

BISHOPSCOURT, WAVERLEY.
HOW TO GET A HOUSE OF YOUR OWN.
Suppose you are now paying £80 a year rent, in eleven years you will have paid your landlord more than the value of the house, and not a brick of it will belong to you.
If you have only £50 YOU NEED NOT PAY RENT ANY LONGER. You can buy land at Bishopscourt to the value of say £200, and build a nice house upon it for say £600 more, making altogether £850.
The Company will advance you £720, repayable by weekly instalments of £1 19s 7d, which in 11 years will amount to ... £1132 11 ...
Deduct from this what you would pay as rent for same period ... 880 0 ...
Leaving ... £252 11 ...
So that for £252 11s 0d, or less than 10s per week for 11 years you would become the owner of a property which to day is worth £800; but who can tell what its value will be 11 years hence? in all probability double.
Remember, the Australian Mutual Investment and Building Company, Limited, is the most liberal of Building Societies.
NO FINES, NO ENTRANCE FEES, and NO MORTGAGE FEES.
INTEREST IS CHARGED ONLY UPON THE BALANCE OWING FROM TIME TO TIME.
Loans may be repaid at any time, with interest to date of paying off only.

cannot be surpassed. The estate is elevated, level, good building land, grassed, and planted with ornamental trees. There is not likely to be another such chance offering for some time, as this is one of those few choice estates which were never intended to be subdivided.
The allotments have good frontages and long depths, and are all pegged out and numbered.
Already several first-class villas are being erected upon the Estate.
Bishopscourt is only six minutes' walk from the Waverley tram terminus.

OUR PARIS LETTER.

PARIS, Aug. 25.

I do not think you are likely to be troubled by French annexation schemes in the Pacific for some time to come. Australians may set their minds at rest on that subject for the present. France has quite enough on her hands to occupy the minds of her statesmen without going farther a-field in search of new enterprises. Now she is beginning to reap the bitter fruit of that stupendous folly which for several months past has characterised her foreign policy. Her army has just suffered a serious defeat in Tonquin—the second reverse since the campaign was entered upon; her relations with England have been gravely compromised by the Madagascar invasion and the incomprehensible imprudence of Admiral Pierre; and lastly, the anti-German agitation organised by a noisy section of the Paris press has aroused the irritation of Germany and provoked Prince Bismarck to address, through the medium of his organ, the North German Gazette, some words of warning to this country, which have produced an impression here that almost amounts to dismay. In fact, this newspaper article is regarded as even more serious than the news from Tonquin. The French, who seem to think they can afford to treat the Chinese, and even the English, with contempt, become highly nervous and excited when the German Sphinx breaks silence and utters a word that can be interpreted as a menace. Nothing more is needed than this to revive the recollection of all the horrors and humiliations of 1870-71. Such being the case, it is indeed strange that the Gallic cock cannot restrain his inveterate propensity to flap his wings and crow in the face of the whole world. The evil, however, lies in a nutshell. There is no public opinion in France to curb a few score of mischievous politicians who have forced their way into positions which they are not qualified to fill.

Very threatening indeed are some of the passages in the article of the North German Gazette, and sufficient to account for the effect they have produced here. "The impression," says the writer, "caused by these attacks (upon Germany), renewed with ever-increasing violence, even among cool observers in France, if any such exist, is that France by the extreme violence of the apostles of revenge, and in view of the response they meet with not only amongst their own countrymen but also amongst the agitators in Alsace-Lorraine who share their opinions, appears the only State that threatens the peace of Europe. While recognising this fact one must necessarily arrive at the conviction that such a state of things cannot last without seriously compromising peace—the aim of all prudent politicians. The more the tide of passion rises amongst those who are never tired of provoking a perfidious agitation, the more difficult it is to foresee if and how long those passions may be kept within the limits of international peace. Here we may quote the popular German adage, 'If you continue to paint the devil on the walls he will at last appear in person!'"

All this is characteristically Bismarckian, and there are no illusions in Paris respecting its authorship or the source of its inspiration. The Evenement, which has been all along at the head and front of the anti-German agitation, and which for some days past has been counselling France to withdraw as soon as possible from all warlike enterprises in distant parts, and prepare for the coming struggle with the arch enemy beyond the Rhine, in an article headed "Une Querelle d'Allemand," says:—"The Evenement pointed out yesterday the difficulties surrounding our situation abroad. An intelligent patriotism ought not to be alarmed at the prospect of possible complications, but ought to be prepared for them. An article in the official North German Gazette has just proved that we were not mistaken in calling the attention of the country to the events which are preparing in Germany. This provocation is published at the same time that an Austrian journal announces the renewal of the Triple Alliance, and a portion of the Italian press treats with disdain the ardent manifestations of sympathy in France for the victims at Ischia. Are we about to witness a fresh campaign against France undertaken by the valets de plume in the pay of M. de Bismarck? We have not forgotten that it was the North German Gazette which gave the signal for a similar campaign in 1875. It is as certain now as then that this paper interprets the thoughts of the Chancellor. Now, as then, it speaks in the interests of peace. Peace represented by Germany. The rhodomontades of the North German Gazette show how hostilely disposed is the Cabinet of Berlin towards us. Once more it is clear that a movement is on foot to drag us into a quarrel with Germany. We must remain calm in face of these provocations; at the same time we must risk no more soldiers and money in far-off expeditions. The worst enemies of France are at her gates."

The Voltaire, which represents the policy of the Ministry, denies that the attitude of the French press has offered any just cause of resentment to Germany, and describes the article which has produced this commotion as calumnious. It goes on to say:—"The work of colonial expansion to which France is devoting herself proves in the most conclusive manner that she desires to remain aloof from all European intrigues. Although we perceive alliances being formed around us, the country remains firm to the line of conduct which it has marked out for itself."

The Orleanist Soleil says:—"The French press has afforded so little justification for this great explosion of wrath on the part of the North German Gazette that we have no right to conclude that the publication of this article in the Bismarckian organ forms part of a new system of intimidation directed against France. The attacks of the Gazette coincide with the opportunity offered by the Emperor William for a meeting of kings simultaneously with the solemn inauguration of the statue of Germany and the renewal of the treaty uniting the three great monarchies of Central Europe. Let us profit by the information afforded us. Let us be calm, and at the same time ready for emergencies."

The Pays (M. Paul de Cassagnac's paper) says France is quite unprepared for war. "She has neither the money nor the men to face such an eventuality. Germany, on the other hand, is thoroughly prepared. She has taken formidable military measures, and her diplomacy, which is never idle, has secured for her allies everywhere. "She has put on the armour of the triple alliance, and she is about to obtain the co-operation of England whom we have affronted and irritated on every occasion." The France says:—"A limit must be set to the extravagant aims entertained in some circles for a colonial policy." To-day's Journal des Debats says:—"France has a perfectly easy conscience. She has neither threatened nor given cause of provocation to anybody. For the last twelve years her single thought has been her own security, and her only wish has been to remain mistress of her destinies. A nation that after having been stricken by adverse fortune is capable of following such a policy cannot be placed at the mercy of a neighbour's bad temper—a neighbour whose susceptibilities seem to become more active with the accession of power, instead of being ruled by the calm judgment that belongs to real strength."

The Republique Française observes to-day:—"We are simply watching what takes place in Europe, and it is this that the North German Gazette cannot tolerate. But its ill humour will not make us discard the policy of reserve and reparation which we have adopted as the only one consistent with our interests and the dignity of our country. People are apt to talk of the isolation to which our defeat has condemned us. 'Tempora si fuerint nubila solus eris.' We are aware of the endeavours made to increase this isolation by advances made to States little and great. Then! We shall increase our vigilance and watchfulness. These are not simply negative virtues; they will bear their fruit one day or another. We must be prepared for this—the calmer we are the more we shall be exposed to agitation around us. This, however, we are powerless to prevent."

The French press naturally endeavours to minimise the importance of the reverse sustained by the French forces in their attempt to make themselves masters of the high ground at Song-Tai. The country, however, is much excited by the bad news, and when the intelligence received from English sources is officially confirmed, the impression will be deeper. The Temps blames the military authorities for attempting so much with such meagre forces. It says:—"The feeble effectives of the expeditionary corps have appeared to be inadequate for an attack directed upon several points simultaneously. It is to be regretted that we have once more sinned by excess of confidence. It is obvious that the check sustained between Hanoi and Song-Tai will outweigh the moral effect produced by our capture of Hai-Dzuong. It will increase the confidence of our adversaries, and will doubtless diminish in very sensible proportions the movement of the Tonquinese to lend us, as they did in 1874, the invaluable aid of numerous and acclimatised troops. It may well happen that, finding no reserves at his disposal, General Bouet may find himself compelled once more to remain inactive, to the great moral and material detriment of our soldiers." The Temps realises the necessity of sending a fresh expeditionary corps to Tonquin, and strongly recommends the War Office to select the troops mainly from the African regiments, who are best fitted to cope with Orientals and a climate like that of Tonquin.

The death of the Comte de Chambord at an early hour this morning is a surprise to no one. So distressing have been the bulletins from Frohsdorf during the past fortnight that it is almost with relief that one hears that the agony is over. Other circumstances of grave import distract the public mind from the political consequence of the Comte de Chambord's death. Moreover, the lingering illness of the deceased Prince, accompanied as it was by the almost absolute certainty of a fatal termination, has led to a premature and voluminous discussion of the situation now created. It may be stated with confidence that the death of the last direct descendant of the Bourbon Kings of France will have no immediate influence upon politics in this country.

LATEST.

General Bouet's official report of the engagement at Song-Tai is published to-night. It is as follows:—

"HONGKONG, Aug. 23.

"On the 15th August I pushed forward in the direction of Song-Tai with the forces at my disposal, amounting to 1800 men and 14 pieces of artillery. The left, commanded by Colonel Revillon, attacked the entrenchments of the enemy, defended by 4000 or 5000 Chinese well armed. They returned in the evening after fighting the whole day. The centre (Commandant Coronat) occupied the fortifications of Phu Hoi, and established themselves before the enemy's centre. The commandant passed the night in his position, and returned the next evening. The right (Colonel Itchot), after having skirted the river under the protection of the gunboats, carried a fortified pagoda, shelled the enemy's batteries in combination with the fleet; but, in consequence of the dykes having burst, the colonel was obliged to embark a portion of his men on board the gunboats. I hold the pagoda, which will be fortified. The gunboats are moored alongside. In consequence of this important affair, the enemy has evacuated his positions and fallen back upon Song-Tai. In this offensive reconnaissance we lost two officers and ten men killed, two officers and 47 men wounded. Three hundred of the enemy were killed and wounded."

The FACTORIES of MELBOURNE and SUBURBS.

(From the Argus, October 4.)

A number of interviews were held with the Trades Hall Committee, which regulates the trades in Melbourne, with a view of ascertaining how far the metropolitan manufacturers had complied with the requirements of the Factories Act introduced by Major Smith, and passed in 1874. It was ascertained that in the city proper the requirements of the Act were in the main fairly observed, and that the regulations issued by the Central Board of Health under the Act had also been enforced, a fact largely due to the efforts of the City Council, the nuisance inspector (Mr. Evans), and the health officer (Mr. Girdlestone). These regulations apply mostly to such important matters as ventilation of workshops, amount of working space, and sanitary arrangements. But it also transpired that, while many manufacturers were ready and willing to obey the regulations, large numbers were not so well disposed to them, and they avoided them by giving up their places of business in the city and removing outside the boundaries into the suburbs. Here they were, to a great extent, at liberty to conduct their factories as they chose. The provisions of the Act are almost entirely neglected outside the city limits. It often happens that the members of the suburban councils, which are also local boards of health, are themselves manufacturers, and when the election of a sanitary inspector comes round they take care to appoint a man who will not pry too closely into the mysteries of their workshops, nor be too energetic in the application of the restrictions imposed by the Act. Thus the Act is almost a dead letter in the suburbs, and it was found by the commission that manufacturers paid very little regard to the ordinary sanitary requirements. The clause which was inserted in the Act by the Legislative Council, exempting workshops at which less than 10 persons were employed, has been found to be a fertile source of evasion of the Act. While the larger, older, and more respectable establishments are found to be very careful to employ no boy or girl who is under the school age of 15 years, unless a proper certificate is produced, showing that a good education has been received, this precaution is altogether ignored in the lesser and more recently established house. In order that something might be earned for the family, parents instruct their children to tell their employers, and anyone else who may inquire, that they are older than they really are, and, as a consequence, the commissioners found it most difficult to get any child, however young, to acknowledge that he or she was less than 14 or 15 years of age. Instances, however, occurred in which the commissioners took the children by surprise, and under circumstances when no previous "coaching" as to the falsification of age could have been given, and it was then found that boys and girls of 9 or 10 years old, and sometimes younger even than that, were working in factories during the full hours that adults were employed. This was done with perfect immunity, because no such power is given to prosecute these employers of juvenile labour as is possessed by the inspectors in every other part of the civilised world where labour is so largely employed as in Victoria. In connection with this point the commission consulted with various medical men, including the health officer of the city, and the universal opinion is that all factories, whether large or small, should be licensed annually. The fee would be a nominal one, and instead of acting as a penalty it would serve rather as a convenient means of effectively keeping the various establishments under control and supervision. If this proposal were adopted, it would be necessary for every manufacturer before engaging labour of any kind to obtain a certificate from an officer appointed by the Board of Health, stating that the ventilation and sanitary requirements had been observed. If it were found at the end of the year that an employer had not complied with the Act, a report would be made to the proper authorities, and he would run the risk of having his license cancelled until the objections were removed. It was discovered by the commissioners that without any supervision whatever a system technically known as "sweating" is carried on to a considerable extent, both in the city and suburbs, even by large manufacturers, some of whom have spacious and well-ventilated buildings in which to carry on their business. A good number of hands are employed in the clothing factory to cut out and "tack" together large quantities of work, which are then sent out to be put together. On its return the work is put into the hands of the finishers, who complete it. This plan necessitates the work being taken into the private dwellings of the workers, and the commissioners ascertained during the present week that a woman took work from one of the large clothing warehouses in Melbourne to her own home, where it was made up by herself and her two daughters, both of whom were under school age. The three were busily employed from 8 o'clock in the morning till half-past 11 at night, every day except Sunday, with intervals of about 20 minutes for dinner and 10 minutes for tea. This case is merely one example of a host of others which the commissioners are gradually unearthing. The worst and most alarming feature of this system is that if any contagious disease breaks out in one of these dwellings, the fact is carefully concealed from the manufacturer. An instance of this came under the observation of the commissioners a few weeks ago. One of the children in a "sweating" house died of fever, and subsequently the mother died of the same disease, but no mention was made of these circumstances for a long time, and in the interval large quantities of clothing had been taken to the fever-stricken house and returned to the factory. The opinion of the medical authorities is that by this means fever is not only distributed among the factory hands, but carried to the purchasers of the garments. In making their inquiries the commissioners have had to exercise considerable caution. They found that if the manufacturers had any hint that a visit was likely to be paid to their establishments they immediately set about preparing by putting their workrooms in the neatest order, by improving the ventilation as far as possible, and by temporarily getting rid of the juvenile hands. In some cases where the commissioners surprised the manufacturers by an unexpected visit, the children were put over the back fences. Great difficulty was experienced in getting at the real facts. Witnesses who were called before the commission by summons were prepared with their evidence, and it was found that the only way to overcome the difficulty was to examine them without notice on their own premises. This will explain why the commissioners were not accompanied by the representatives of the press in their visits.

A reporter of the San Francisco Chronicle is burdened with the heavy responsibility of having added a serious item to the list of evils and terrors that afflict humanity. Examining with a microscope an antiquated brickbat, taken from a building that was being torn down, he found each pore inhabited by a rod-like animalcule. "Their motions," he says, "when they were exposed to blows, were as the link of a chain, reminding one of a system of joints to be extended and contracted. They were semi-transparent, with a light scintillating column nearly two-thirds their length, extending from nearly their heads to their pointed tails, probably their spinal column." It is probable that San Francisco will find it desirable to have all bricks vaccinated, as the reporter's discovery would seem to show that germ-propagated diseases spare not even the walls of the houses. The case finds a parallel only in the Arkansas village, where the houses are reputed to be protected against chills by mixing quinine in the paint with which they are covered.

THE INTERNATIONAL FISHERIES EXHIBITION.

(WRITTEN SPECIALLY FOR THE SYDNEY MORNING HERALD.)

VII.

LONDON, Aug. 24.

Having in previous articles directed the attention of our readers to those matters connected with the International Fisheries Exhibition in London which we considered might be most advantageously dwelt upon with a view to the development of the fisheries of New South Wales, we now propose to give a brief view of the Exhibition as a whole, and of the sections representing different countries of the world.

It is certainly the most extensive and complete exhibition of its kind that has ever yet been carried out in England or any other country. Amsterdam may claim the credit of being the originator of fisheries exhibitions, as that city as long ago as 1861 instituted one, with the practical object of showing the people of Holland the various methods used by the different peoples of the world in capturing fish, and in the hope that the Hollanders might learn some "wrinkles" worth their adoption. Boulogne and Burgen followed suit in 1865, and then a decade seems to have elapsed without such an exhibition, till Havre organised one in 1875. In the following year, Finland was to the fore in this line; and after that in 1877, a movement was made in a similar direction in England. This was by the managers of the Westminster Aquarium, who instituted a "Maritime and Piscatorial Exhibition," very much on the basis which has been followed and expanded by organisers of subsequent displays. Berlin held its great Fisheries Exhibition in 1880, and great credit is due to an inland city of a country with a very limited seaboard for the extensive and admirable exhibits it got together. In the following year Norwich opened an Exhibition which, though of less magnitude than that at Berlin, was very complete in its various sections, and turned out in all respects a great success. The Edinburgh Fisheries Exhibition in 1882 also fully realised the expectations formed of it, and in the same year Denmark held an exhibition of fishery produce, apparatus for artificial fish culture, and utensils of every description employed for fishing purposes, in conjunction with the Agricultural Exhibition held at the same time at Svenborg, in the island of Fuhnen. This, with one or two minor exceptions, comprises the list of previous Fisheries Exhibitions; but it may fairly be said that the London Exhibition has taken precedence of all its predecessors. It is no reflection on these that it should be so, as London is the capital city of the greatest nation in the world. Indeed, London pays former Exhibitions a compliment by following in their wake; and if it shows improvement on their organisation it is to the lead they gave that its anticipated and even realised success will have to be attributed.

The ground space covered by the Exhibition occupies no less than 23 acres. It is surrounded on three sides by the permanent buildings of former Exhibitions, which embraced various subjects; and the inner space, which constitutes the gardens of the Royal Horticultural Society, is to a great extent covered with temporary erections, which cover an aggregate area of 80,000 square feet. Visitors on entering the Exhibition find themselves in a spacious double vestibule, the walls of which are covered with pictures relating to fish and fishing, fresh water and salt. There may be seen here a series of pictures of ancient and modern masters never hitherto collected in such large numbers, conspicuous among which are masterpieces by Isaac Van Dagnen, and Arnold Van Haeken, and eminent English artists, such as Rolfe and Targett. The vestibule leads us into the largest gallery of the Exhibition, containing exhibits illustrative of the British fisheries. These we have anticipated in our previous articles on fishing nets and fishing vessels; but they are supplemented with an infinite variety of exhibits of improved capstans, compasses, barometers, telescopes, lights, lamps, foghorns, and gear of all kinds connected with sea fishing.

The English colonies and foreign nations which have sent exhibits to the Exhibition, and are represented there by their "special commissioners," are:—The United States of America, Austria, Hungary, Bahamas, Belgium, Canada, Ceylon, Chili, China, Denmark, France, Germany, Greece, Haiti, Hawaii, Heligoland, India, Italy, Jamaica, Japan, Morocco, Netherlands, Newfoundland, New South Wales, New Zealand, Norway, Persia, Russia, Salvador, Spain, Straits Settlements (including the Malay Straits), Sweden, Tasmania, Tunis, Venezuela, and Zanzibar.

To give even a brief description of the sections represented by all these countries in the space of a single article would of course be impossible, and therefore we can only note a few of the most striking characteristics of some of them. The Chinese section is a large one, and highly interesting, though there may not be much to be learned from it of practical utility in a general way. An official "Yellow Book" compiled by authority of the Chinese Government contains a special catalogue of the Chinese collection, which is intended to illustrate principally the Swatow fisheries, and, in a secondary degree, the life and industry of the Tchang, Ningpo, and Takow fisher-folk. We have all heard of the countless families of Chinese who live constantly afloat, and whose very infants, like unfledged ducklings, take naturally to the water. Such early recollections of our early geographical school lessons are awakened by a sight of the wonderfully instructive assemblage of models and illustrative examples. The ingenuity of the Chinese appears in an admirable light in this varied display. One of the most striking peculiarities, to any English fisherman, is the lightness, fineness, and apparent as well as real strength of the Chinese fishing nets. Some of these are of silk, more delicate in texture than the nets which a few years ago were in fashion for confining women's hair. But, being hand-made, these fishing nets are almost as difficult to break as a spider's web, which may indeed be swept away, but which will resist any effort to snap it fairly, either at cross-juncture or in the middle of a thread. Something like the instinct, indeed, of spiders, ants, and bees, appears in the "unscientific science" of the Chinese workman, who unerringly does what is right and true in workmanship, probably without being able to explain its principle or theory. The bamboo, which is so prominent an object in Chinese decorative art, finds a multitude of useful applications in Chinese mechanics. For framework of all kinds it is unsurpassable in strength and lightness. Being hollow, divided into compartments at every joint; and, impervious to water, it is unrivalled as a material for rafts, and its fibre is well adapted to rope-making. The Chinese fishmongers use baskets of bamboo for crab-boiling, and bamboo trays for the display of fish. Those actual forms of fish, countless in their variety, which are seen in a dried state, are repeated with accurate knowledge, either in positive semblance or in grotesque distortion, on screens and other painted or embroidered surfaces. Skins are distended, and in that condition are dried, to be hung up as lanterns or symbolic ornaments. Models of the fisherman's temple, the fisherman's guild hall, the fisherman's hut, illustrate his religion, his life as a citizen, his life at home. There are models of all kinds, in short, showing the national existence and character, under the very hand of the national art. A model of a boy fishing with bamboo spring hooks, a model of a cuttle-fish boat, of an ice boat, of a boat for night fishing, of a small boat carrying a passenger, of a bamboo raft for shallow water; models of a fisherman, a mandarin, a gentleman, a woman of the middle class, a soldier, a bridge, a boy, a girl, an idol, speak by force of character an unmistakable truth. The Chinese collection, as it was the first to get into order, so is sufficingly illustrative in its completeness.

The models and examples arranged throughout the Indian department are as instructive as those in the adjacent Chinese Court. The Governments of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay have spared no pains to make this gathering complete. Fish and fishing are fully exemplified, and there is an instructive display of pearls other curiosities. Hindu mythology as well as caste may be studied in models, such as "the Fish Incarnation of Vishnu," and "the Turtle Incarnation of Vishnu," and the "Churning of the Ocean by Gods and Demons."

The Government of the Straits settlements, uniting with the Maharajah of Johore, and the native rulers of Kedah, Perak, Selangor, and Sungei Ujong, have furnished an interesting and well-filled museum of nets, shells, corals, traps, hooks, fish, models, and curiosities, illustrative of the fisheries of Singapore and Penang, with certain strips of territory on the mainland of the Malay Peninsula. The mixed population of Chinese, Malays, natives of India, and Europeans in a comparatively small proportion, is largely dependent for subsistence on fish and rice. As the waters of the colony teem with fish, many families meet their own requirements; but in addition there are 10,000 persons who are wholly occupied in fishing operations, large quantities of the produce of their labours being salted for export. The space filled by the Straits Settlements is even larger than that occupied by India.

There is but a small display of objects from Ceylon, which island is more richly endowed by nature with variety and abundance of fish than any other part of the world; but it cannot be said that this natural wealth, even to superfluity, of marine products is turned to as profitable account as it might be. No ships of any size are employed on the fisheries. The katamarans are log-rafts, carrying a sail, but seldom more than five men. Boats of various shapes and names—the larger kind being called pada-boats, and the smaller ballams and canoes—are logs hollowed out by fire, and afterwards rough-hewn with an adze.

Next to Ceylon stands the very respectable contingent furnished by the Hawaiian Archipelago, otherwise the Sandwich Islands, to this exhibition. Hawaii abounds in fish, and the natives are expert fishermen, boldly attacking and capturing the sharks which abound on their coasts, the oil extracted from these sea-tigers being of great value. Bonita and the dainty mullet are common in the Polynesian waters, as are flying fish, albicores, eels, and a species of mackerel, together with all kind of crustaceans and molluscs, the common oyster alone excepted. In a simple and primitive but sufficient manner pisciculture is practised by the Hawaiians, who enclose ponds or stews, somewhat like the "viviers" on the French coast. The native names of all the fish exhibited here are given; so that the visitor may learn how those which are most familiar to him in shape and appearance are called by the people of the Sandwich Islands. Beche-de-mer and edible algæ, gathered from fresh as well as salt and brackish water, are additions to the food obtained by fishing.

Close to the Hawaiian collection is the interesting display which represents the abundant and immensely varied fisheries on the extensive coast of Chili. Included in the collection of specimens are many from Juan Fernandez (Robinson Crusoe's island), the sea around which teems even more plentifully than the bays of Chili herself with excellent fish. So large a choice of sea and river fish does Chili afford that the trade of preserving and "tinning," for export, is greatly on the increase. Specimens of the bacalao, or rock-cod, which grows to an enormous size, and is caught at a depth of more than 70 fathoms, will here be seen. Corbina, a kind of white salmon, not unlike the calipeva of Jamaica in flavour and firmness, is one of the favourite fish of Chili; and other species in request are the pescada, or Chilian haddock, with all the delicacy, when fresh, of a whiting; the lenguado, a sort of flounder; and the pichihuen. The lakes and rivers of Chili are well stocked with trout, and there is a fresh-water fish, called the pejerrey, which is peculiar to that country, and which is most esteemed of all fish that inhabit its waters. There are two kinds of pejerrey, both of which are here exemplified, but there is no very material difference between them. The lake Aculeo for ten months of the year is the great fishing-ground for the pejerrey, which furnishes the tables of Valparaiso, Santiago, and Rancagua with a delicacy which to English and antipodean epicures would give quite a new sensation.

Various objects in connection with the French section are interesting. It is a cheering sign of revived activity in the sardine trade, which has flagged so seriously in the past few seasons, owing to the mysterious departure of the favourite little fish from the bays on the French coast. It is well known to consumers that the sardines packed hermetically in olive oil improve by keeping up to five and even six years, provided, of course, that an equal and moderate temperature be secured. The more gelatinous the oil is found to be on opening a tin box of these now popular fish, the more satisfied may we feel that the sardines have long been pickling in the rich fluid. The avidity with which all classes of English received the tinned French sardines almost on their first introduction, about 35 years ago, disproves the assertion that there is a national repugnance to oil as to natural and unfortified wine, such as that which Australia now produces. The only reason why the English people as a rule forswore olive oil in past years was that they could not get the real thing. That same oil in which sardines are put up happens to be at its best and cheapest in districts adjacent to the sardine fisheries. "Huile de Provence," and all the French oil expressed from olives, is as fine as that of Lucca itself, and is even preferred by many good judges. As for the general exhibits of piscatorial products and appliances in the French section, all who have visited that well-known port of the French coast, Boulogne-sur-Mer, and who have seen its fish market and its quarter wholly occupied by fisher-folk, will find their interest awakened by this demonstrative collection.

The Spanish Court is well worth attention, being well filled by aid of the Naval Museum at Madrid, the Fishermen's Association of Bermeo, Lequeitio, Mundaca, and Ondarrua; the Royal Naval Observatory of San Fernando; the Lifeboat Society of San Sebastian, and many private exhibitors and manufacturing firms. Life saving appliances, centrally displayed, will be first seen on entering this national section, and next occurs the array of objects lent by the Naval Observatory. The middle of this long court is occupied with a trophy, flanked with a display of ropes at one end, the nearest to the entrance, and of barrels beyond. A fishing boat, nets of all kinds, ropes, lines, and other gear, fishing tackle, models, and museum objects of natural history, are ranged along the sides of the court. It is to be observed that this carefully constituted show illustrates a fishing industry which is only now returning to Spain and her dependencies. There was a time when Spain was a dreaded as well as a great power, and when, having the chief dominion of the seas, her fisheries were the most important and far-extending of any in the world. Geographical discovery, in which the Spaniards have to be credited with a full share among civilised nations, was largely augmented by the national enterprise in connection with deep-sea fisheries. The long torpid spirit which accompanied the decadence of the nation has recently awakened; and though it no longer possesses the support of a powerful despotism, it is fortunate in its revival at a period of the world's history, when peace and commerce are not so dependent as they have been on great demonstrations of armed force. A Spanish company is working with success the chief shoals of that archipelago on the west coast of Africa known as the Canary Islands, and not counting these efforts or the fishing enterprise of Spanish colonies, the mere coast fishing of Spain herself is carried out so far from shore as to vie with the deep-sea fisheries of other maritime countries. The trade in tinned fish, so lucrative a branch of commercial industry with all countries possessing an extensive seaboard or great rivers, such as the salmon-fishing grounds of America, is cultivated by Spain, in illustration of which is the varied display in this court, comprising the specimens of sardines from the Santander factories of several large firms, the tinned bream, conger, lobster, lamprey, cockles, oysters, turbot, red mullet, perch, and cod. This array opens a wider choice of preserved fish food than any to which London at large has hitherto been accustomed. The Catalan's fashion of pickling lobster is here introduced, and might become, as it deserves to be, a successful speculation. The same may be said of the Coruna trout in oil, of the cod with green sauce, of the fried perch, and of the bream in tomato sauce, which materially serves to recommend a fish generally accounted poor. Cockles artificially bred in the park of Burgo are shown in bottles, where they have been enclosed three years, by no means to their detriment, if we may judge from results in other similar examples. The exhibition of useful fish-oils in the Spanish department is likewise interesting and instructive.

Sweden and Norway, united under one Government, have a most suggestive display, including, near the entrance, collections of stuffed aquatic birds from Bergen, Trondhjem, and elsewhere, with fine specimens of the seal and polar bear. The Norwegian Fisheries Improvement Association has contributed in a notable degree to the fine show of piscatorial objects in all their instructive varieties. Models of fishing-boats, specimens of fish nets, and lines, everything relating in fact to the great subject under illustration, will here be found. Professor G. O. Sars, of Christiania, exhibits his work of 56 coloured drawings, made during his visit to the Lofoden Islands, illustrating the development of the cod. Amid the many signs of advanced knowledge and ingenuity in Norwegian fishing, it is curious to note the antiquated implements shown by the Bergen Museum. Among them are the ancint bow and arrows used to kill the whale. By far the greater quantity of the fish caught by Norwegian fishermen is cured, but a trade in fresh fish is gradually, though slowly springing up. At present it is not much more than a hundredth part of the export of dried, salted, pickled, spiced, and smoked fish. The Swedish department affords manifest proof of an assiduous governmental regard to the fishing interests of the kingdom; nor is private enterprise weakened in any degree by such paternal supervision. Besides the coast and sea fisheries it will be perceived that fish culture in the inland waters is largely carried on. Sweden has a greater area of lake and river than any other country of Europe, Finland alone excepted, and the natural advantages thus afforded are turned to good account.

Russia, owing to the ice, was late with her contributions, but they now form a goodly show; the Archangel Statistical Committee, the States Domains Ministerium, Prince Nicholas Enikeeff, Dr. Oscar Grimm, Dr. Ovsianikoff, the Piscicultural Establishment at Nikolsky, Baron F. Linder of Finland, and the Administration of States Domains in Astrachan assisting in the display. The renowned caviare, which even in Shakespeare's day was deemed an "acquired taste" among English folk—some fancying "the flavour exquisite, and some intolerably nasty"—is extensively "sampled" in the Russian Court, as a matter of course.

Most worthy too of notice are the several courts of Belgium, the Netherlands, Denmark, and Newfoundland. The King of the Belgians, following his father's course, has exerted his utmost influence in the promotion of the national fisheries, which have been encouraged and developed in every possible way by the successive Governments for 50 years and more. The towns of Blankenberg and Heyst-sur-Mer contribute models and examples of objects employed in sea fishing, and there is here a noticeable illustrated series of marine plants. The Netherlands Court comes next, and is admirably filled with objects and models suggesting the picturesque as well as the practical aspect of Dutch fishing; and of Holland may be said that the marine painters have made its coasts their happy hunting-fields, Scheveningen. Pisardingen, Maasluis, Rotterdam, Bergen-op-Zoom, Flushing, Moordrecht, and other Dutch places, are as well known in pictures and water colour drawings as in books and reality. From the Netherlands we pass pass to little Denmark, a bower of fishing nets, full of illustrative exhibits. Newfoundland has its Court next to Denmark, and makes a good show of natural history as well as of fishing implements, partly by help of the Newfoundland Commission.

Canada and the United States, together or separately, afford piscatorial information of the highest character. For completeness of representation it is difficult to award the palm between them. For the most part, the collective exhibit of the United States is the property of the Fish Commission and the National Museum at Washington, whose assistant director, Mr. G. Browne Goode, has prepared a condensed account of the fisheries, illustrated under different heads. There are aquatic animals or plants beneficial or injurious to man; fishing grounds and geographical distribution; apparatus of sea and freshwater fishing; fishing-boats and their fittings; dress and economic condition of fishermen and anglers; apparatus connected with the whaling and sealing industries; products of fisheries and the method of their preparation; fish-culture; deep-sea research; and the literature of fish and fishing. It is manifestly impossible to enumerate the objects illustrating all these divisions. Among them are casts and preparations of reptiles and batrachians, fishes, mollusks, and seaweeds; the apparatus of fishing, from the clubs, spears, darts, and other primitive implements used by Indians, to the most approved gear, lines, nets, seines, fishing-rods, and reels of modern invention; vessels and their fittings likewise varied in their range of development; models of fish-hatching apparatus; objects in connection with the admirable life-saving service of the United States; and specimens of the various means and results of preparing fish for commerce.

Canada, which extends over half the American continent, and which, besides her maritime provinces, each with its important sea fisheries, includes the vast inland province of Ontario, the new province of Manitoba, and the whole of the Great North-western territory, has vast lakes and rivers, teeming with illimitable stores of choice food-fish, the benefit of which to the settler is beyond all estimation. It is obvious that statistics can only deal with commercial transactions, and must leave untold the boon of popular sustenance which the resident draws at will and requirement from the waters within sight of his home. Since the operation of tinning salmon and lobster has been perfected, the Dominion of Canada has made this an extensive and lucrative branch of industry, and now the annual number of cans packed for Great Britain and the United States is about 20,000,000. Canada sent no less than 600 of exhibits to South Kensington.

These brief remarks on several courts or sections of the Exhibition can only give but a faint idea of the ground covered by the almost numberless exhibits; but under the circumstances, perhaps, they will be sufficient to convey to our readers some conception of the gigantic nature of the enterprise in question. Its success as merely a commercial venture continues to exceed all anticipations from week to week. At the time of making these notes, in the third week of August, the receipts have not only been sufficient to cover all expenses, but there is a considerable balance of profit in hand, and this will go on increasing till the end of October, when the Exhibition will close. Already nearly a million and a half of persons have visited it.

We propose in another article to deal specially with the New South Wales and Tasmanian sections at the Exhibition.

PROTECTION THE ONLY JUST METHOD OF INDUCING IMMIGRATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Your leader on the Granville banquet (given by Hudson Brothers) of July 28 astonished the colonists when it attributed the prosperity of that firm to the personal efforts of those gentlemen instead of to the protective tariff in their favour. This astonishment was genuine enough, considering that other members of eminent manufacturing firms display equal perseverance with members of the above firm, and yet without protection they are doomed to grovel along, with their noses to the grindstone, competing in a new country like this with all the imported manufactures of foreigners. Seeing such views as those in the article alluded to and entertained by you, I had given up as hopeless an otherwise pleasant task when great public facts are adhered to, and have not asked the favour of being read in your columns. With reference to your leader of yesterday, and the answer to Mr. Clements' letter—approved of at the last meeting of the Protection and Political Reform League—I may inform you that the answer sent bearing on the paying the "current rate of wages" is meant to cover more ground than that which called directly for such a reply. For if you refer to a report in your columns of the 17th of August—made of the league's proceedings by your own reporter—you will see that another "Clarence Farmer" asks the league to advocate the introduction of Indian and other cheap labour. And now for that to which you take exception, the paying the current rate of wages, and of the league advocating a higher duty on sugar for that purpose. Most certainly, more duties, if we wish to succeed as an independent people, capable of inviting the willing, able labour of the world to come to Australia. As an individual member of the Protection and Political Reform League, I maintain that the wages paid to immigrants brought here at the public expense are not the "current rate of wages," but on the contrary, a reduced price, for which the whole people are taxed for the benefit of that which is very properly termed "free trade the exterminator" of colonial industries. Protection, as in Canada and in the United States of America, attracts, without public expense, all the most manly labour of Europe, and these take their wives and families. There is no scarcity of labour there, nor of work for them to do, and higher wages are obtained than in Australia. The same stream of immigration—at the immigrants' own cost—would flow here if the immigrants' labour were, by a protective policy, secured to them when they come as in the countries above named. It is useless to say that the distance is greater to our country, and try and persuade ourselves that the people would not pay for coming here. The price is as low now for coming to Australia as that paid 20 years ago for going from England to America, and at that time people paid their passages, and would pay to come here also, if those at home once knew their labour was of as certain a value as in the United States and Canada by protection. Your leader of to-day refers to 2s. per 100lb. being recommended on imported wheat in Victoria. Try the same here, and protectionists know that the loaf of bread would be cheaper throughout New South Wales, and our mercantile business greater through exportation of wheat.

I am, &c.,
R. C. LUSCOMBE.

OUR MELBOURNE LETTER.

MELBOURNE, OCT. 2.

I think divorce cases ought never to be made public. They ought to be tried in private, and with all such precautions as should prevent at least the details being made known. It may be generally assumed that in actions for divorce it will be found that somebody has done wrong, and somebody has been wronged. It is easy to say that the wrong-doing person ought to be punished by having the wrong publicly known. But what of the wronged person? He or she, as the case may be, does not desire it to be made known that his wife or her husband has been untrue. Taking marriage as a civil contract, as the Chief Justice in the Bolam case particularly insisted it should be regarded, why should a dissolution of such contract be made the subject for everybody's prurient comment? Business contracts are being dissolved every day, and the particulars of the separation between partners are not published in the newspapers. As between a man and a woman, the interest is purely personal. Whatever offence is committed, it is an offence whose effect is limited to themselves and their children, and publicity only causes the innocent to suffer. Apart from this consideration of the case, the Bolam divorce action has disclosed some unpleasant particulars. It is a noisome business. There is nothing of romance in it. The poetic element has no part in it.

Mr. Bolam is an Inspector of Public Schools, and this fact naturally reminds me that I have had some reason to know of the qualifications of the young men and women who are, every year, sent out of the Training Institution of that Department, and I am obliged to say that, for the most part, they are not the sort of persons who should be employed in this way. I speak of them intellectually, and, taking them as a whole, they are of a low range in respect of mental qualification, especially the men. The women have the advantage; but even they cannot boast of a high degree of sufficiency. There are exceptions to this rule, but of the rule there can be no question.

Arising out of the Bolam business is a moan made by the jury, who did not agree upon a verdict. They say that the jury-room is a filthy dust-hole, and that they were treated a great deal worse than prisoners. Perhaps this bad accommodation is the reason why they did not agree. But the wonder is that no complaint of this kind has ever been made before. The jury-room has always been dirty, and ill-ventilated, and generally comfortless. It is the rule to look upon a jury as persons in custody, and to treat them as felons. The wonder is that jurors, as a body, have not risen long ago to protest against such treatment. In effect, a jury is the most important element in a court of justice; but, in practice, it is regarded as a subsidiary institution to be endured rather than encouraged. Consequently this jury has done a wise thing in crying out against its bad treatment, and it may be something will be done in the interest of jurors generally.

Politically we are again compelled to grieve over the absence of anything strongly interesting; but, as I said last week, there is an election afoot, and there is quite a long list of candidates, amongst whom are now not only Mr. David Gaunson, but Mr. W. M. K. Vale, two men who probably in their time have made more unpleasantness in the Legislative Assembly than any other two dozen of the most eminently unpleasant. If either of them is elected for Emerald Hill there will no longer be peace in our lower House of Parliament. And this prospect gives us hopes that the political dulness cannot last for ever.

And, speaking of Emerald Hill, it no longer exists. It is now, and for all future time, to be known as South Melbourne. Electorally it was South Melbourne a great many years ago; but they changed the name for no reason that I remember, and now it will be municipally South Melbourne, and electorally Emerald Hill. There is a curious craze in fact, for changing the names of places in this colony, and they change, as it seems to me, very often for the sake of change. I can understand well enough the desire to alter Murderer's Flat to Lilyville, or Dead-dog Gully to Violet Vale, but why Emerald Hill, which has done good service for thirty years, should be abandoned for the inexpressive South Melbourne, which might mean any part of Melbourne at the southern border of the city, passes comprehension. But the current of events has not been entirely unvaried from the muddy stream of the Bolam action. Yesterday a man named Thomas quickened the pulses of the clerks and customers in the Bank of Victoria, by firing off a revolver several times, the while declaring he was bound to have somebody's blood, for some wrongs he had suffered. He ended by doing his best to have his own blood, but he did not shed much of it. He handled his weapon unskilfully, and sent the bullet under the skin, and not into his brain. It seems to me that De Quincey might have reckoned suicide as well as murder among the fine arts, considering how few people study it from the fine art point of view. This man, evidently, had gone about his work most inartistically. There was nothing dramatic in his operations. On the stage he would have been hissed by the gallery boys. If men will indulge in what is known as sensation situations, they ought to consider them beforehand from an art point of view. Thomas, if he do not die from erysipelas in the Melbourne Hospital an inglorious death, will be brought up before Mr. Call and cautioned not to do it again. No man ought to fail in what he proposes to himself.

At this moment a number of imbeciles, who call themselves by military names, are seen running about the streets, bawling out The War Cry. It may be that the sale of The War Cry is a profitable venture, and, remembering how prevalent is human folly, it is not unlikely that the War Cry pays. I have never read the War Cry, but I think I shall, some day, spend a penny for the purpose of reading it, and reviewing it.

It is to be recorded that a number of the sons of labour are daily hanging about the doors of Government offices asking for work. There is plenty of work in the country districts, if these horny-handed persons would go and accept it, but they are understood to like Government work best. They can work at Government work as they like. They can do what is vulgarly termed "the Government stroke," and the Government stroke is not exhausting. So they come up every morning to the top of Collins-street, and accost the Minister of Public Works as he comes to his office, entreating him to give them employment. Naturally one's gorge rises at the sight of a number of men, calling themselves men, humiliating themselves in this fashion. But I am obliged to confess that the race of manly men has gone out of date. For nowadays men do such poor, paltry, contemptible things in order to gain their several ends, that I am afraid the true man is extinct, or that he exists only in such limited examples as to prove the constant rule of contemptible humanity.

AUSTRALIA AND AMERICA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I have read with much interest both of the letters which have appeared in your columns under the above heading, as well as the able article in to-day's paper.

Whilst being fully aware that a more intimate knowledge of and connection with America would be more beneficial to Australia, I cannot see how Mr. Kahl's scheme, even if it could be carried out, would bring about the desired object. There are many difficulties in the way of forming such a company. They lie, as you say, at the very threshold. Though we have many representative men who would do honour to the colony if they went, I fear they would consider it infra dig. to become members of the proposed party.

Such companies as Mr. Kahlo suggests are sometimes formed, but we generally find them hail from China, Japan, or other half-civilised country, and leave their home with the object of becoming acquainted with the manners and customs of other people. Everything they see on their tour is of interest to them, and it is very proper that the party should be headed by an able representative of the country they are visiting to act as cicerone.

Not so with Mr. Kahlo's party; every member of it would have a different object in view. That which would greatly interest Mr. Hudson as manufacturer would have no attraction for others. It would consequently become impossible for them to keep together and go through the States as a representative body. This union seems to be one of the main objects; for Mr. Hudson specially points out that a representative body would enjoy greater privileges than individuals. This I very much doubt; for many of us know from experience that the true American is always ready to entertain strangers, from whatever nation they may come. I fear our cousins may look upon Mr. Kahlo's assurance that a representative body would be received by them with outstretched arms, as an uncalled for guarantee of their hospitality.

Many of our leading men have already been introduced to the American people, and received with every attention and courtesy, and though this kindness would no doubt be repeated, surely there can be no necessity for them to go in a body with Mr. Kahlo, or any one else, as master of ceremonies.

TASMANIA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

HOBART, SEPT. 28.

For some time past we have been wooing New South Wales, but we have not received the notice that we expected or deserved, and the ties between the two places have not been drawn so closely as they ought to and might be. During the last two or three years the trade between Tasmania and New South Wales has shown a very perceptible and steady increase, and it is bound to go on increasing so long as the latter adheres, as we may hope that she will adhere, to that policy of free trade which is bound to be triumphant in the end, whatever the boasts of Victoria may now be. Our early relations were mainly with Victoria. Her goldfields attracted our youths, and for years we have tried to do business with her. Her proximity leads to large quantity of goods being transhipped to this colony, their value being about 61 per cent. of the whole of our imports thence, and yet we find ourselves shut out from the market, and our products refused an outlet in a colony which sends us hosts of travellers to solicit our orders. This is more than we are disposed to bear. Already it has been openly declared that our business is to let Victoria go alone if she wants to, and that we must look to New South Wales as our natural market, and with which we ought to deal much more largely than we do, if only we did the best for ourselves and our neighbours did the best for themselves. During the last decade our exports to New South Wales formed 21·15 of our whole exports; but in 1882 they formed 35·40; thus showing a very large increase. Our exports to Victoria during the decade were 27·38 of the whole, whilst last year they were 32·79, so that our exports to New South Wales now exceed those to Victoria. Our imports from Victoria, however, still exceed those from New South Wales, but not to such an extent as is generally supposed. Deducting the transhipments, we find that the total imports from Victoria in 1882 amounted to £397,397, whilst the imports from New South Wales were £107,221. Surely, these figures show that Sydney merchants are not using properly their opportunities.

The three main subjects with which our Parliament is dealing are the reduction of Customs duties, railways, and a new land bill. The colony is disclosed to be very prosperous, so much so. that the Treasurer is afraid that he will have such a large surplus as that he may be tempted to be extravagant, and there are four millions in the banks, against £60,000 odd only a few years ago, therefore, we can remit duties, and we can make railways, say the active ones, whilst the ancient dwellers shake their heads and do not quite believe it all. It is conjectured that the timid 16 in our Upper House will say that the making of railways and the remission of taxation do not go together, and, if so, then something may happen, if there is any public opinion, and anybody dares or cares to give it voice. In the meantime, the Assembly has passed about £700,000 for railway purposes, after some little debate; but with fewer wry faces than was confidently expected. The lines agreed to are:—To New Norfolk, St. Mary's, including Fingal, to Scottsdale, and one from Oatlands Station to Oatlands, a little line moved for by a private member. At Fingal there is said to be a large quantity of good coal, concerning which there is some doubt. On the whole, the lines are about the best that could be selected, and if they are agreed to by the Council will undoubtedly greatly help to develope the large, but unused, resources of the colony.

The Land Bill is an attempt to make a new departure, and is likely to be opposed. It allows any person to buy 320 acres at the upset price of £1 per acre and no more, and if he chooses to pay cash for it he can do with it as he pleases. If he requires credit, which he can get for a term of years, he must personally reside on the land, and cannot occupy by agent, tenant, or even by his own son. It is provided that agricultural areas shall be proclaimed in connection with which roads and bridges are to be made, and land in these areas is to be open to selection in lots of 160 acres, at the upset price of £1 per acre. The land is to be paid for at the rate of sixpence an acre for the first two years, and a shilling a year for the next seven, and two shillings an acre in the tenth year, after which there are to be no further payments if the conditions have been complied with. These relate to cultivation, building a house, and improvements; but the main condition is that the selector must personally reside for ten years. He has the consolation, however, of knowing that if he has behaved himself properly for five years he may select another 160 acres, on which he need not reside; but there is no escape from personal residence on the first selection. The bill has been referred to a select committee, but what its fate will be there I shall not undertake to prognosticate.

The Treasurer has just brought forward his scheme for the remission of taxation, which is regarded as another dangerous innovation in some quarters. He proposes to reduce the duties on tea and sugar to one-half, to repeal the stock tax and the duty on imported meat, to admit machinery of all kinds free, to repeal the duties on about 80 miscellaneous articles, and to reduce the duty on white pepper from 4d. to 2d. a pound. A protective duty, for it is nothing else, of 1½d. per lb. on confectionery is proposed, for the benefit of a would-be local manufacturer, which was rejected by the Upper House last year. One novelty is, an export duty on timber of various kinds, the plea for it being, that our valuable forests of pine are being destroyed for the benefit of Victoria, mainly, which decidedly refuses to give us anything in return. It is confidently predicted that these duties will not pass, and I am strongly inclined to believe that the predictions have much truth in them.

In the matter of earthquakes we have had a very lively experience; indeed, we are going through one still, and nothing is more curious than the very little attention it has attracted, either here or elsewhere. When the first shocks were felt, and the unpleasant rumblings were heard about three months ago, there was a little consternation on the East Coast, the scene of the disturbance, for nobody was able to guess what might happen. The only earthquake shock previously on record, dated some 20 years back, and was known to very few persons, so that the recent convulsions had all the power of novelty, and all the mystery of a danger to which people are not accustomed. People have got used to be shaken up in their beds. They do not mind earthwaves so long as they are no worse than those yet experienced, and shocks of earthquake on the East Coast, and even in Launceston, do not now attract so much attention as an unusually high tide. Shocks are frequently felt two or three times in the course of a day, generally once or twice a week, but as they do not appear to be dangerous they are merely recorded as matters which it is as well to mention, but about which it is not worth while to make a fuss. There is a theory, said to have been imported from the northern island of New Zealand, that these slight shocks indicate that there is no great danger, as the subterraneous forces are, as it were, gradually letting off the steam, and thus there will be no serious shock, and the terrors will gradually die away.

Bishop Sandford has been duly welcomed. He has made the usual speeches, and he is, of course, very complimentary to the country in which he has taken up his abode. He has lately been on a visit to Launceston, and he has been carefully dividing the honours between the two places. The north in this happy land is rather jealous of the south, and does not like to see too much made of this end of the island. There is a river there, and there is trout in it, if not salmon, and it is necessary to be struck with admiration of that river, albeit it is muddy at low tide, and often impassable for the Melbourne steamers. Bishop Sandford was impressed; nay, more, he discovered that the people of Launceston are too modest to praise adequately their natural advantage. In Hobart, at the enthronement ceremony, the Bishop mildly intimated that he should be ready to give encouragement to those who kept to the things prescribed in the Prayer Book, a hint which shows that he has learned something about the doings that have been going on here in the direction of ritualism. Indeed, it is said that there was a little scene just before the enthronement ceremony began, in the course of which one authority said, "Take away that bauble," in Cromwellian fashion, meaning thereby a certain symbol or symbols on or above the altar. It is said that the Dean demurred, but had to yield, because the ceremony would not have been legal without the presence of the objecting authority, who was, we are told, an archdeacon.

The arrival of the Bishop has got the local paper, the Mercury, into a trouble about how he is to be addressed. There are many persons who insist that he is not entitled to be called "My Lord," because he represents no territory, and is not even appointed by royal patent. These folks favour "the Very Reverend," and persist that this is the correct and only reasonable way of addressing or of speaking about the new dignitary. There is, however, so far, no distinct authority on the point, and so the bias is towards "My Lord," as a matter of courtesy.

NEW SOUTH WALES AND THE POSTAL UNION.

We have been favoured by the Postmaster-General with the following copy of a letter written by his direction in reply to the questions asked by the Secretary of State for the Colonies, as to the date at which admission into the Postal Union is desired by this colony, the rates of postage proposed to be levied, and the equivalents in local currency for the sums of 5, 10, and 25 centimes. The substance of this letter has been transmitted by His Excellency the Governor in a despatch to the Secretary of State for the Colonies:—

"General Post Office, Sydney, 8th September, 1883.

"Sir,—I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of a copy of a despatch, dated the 10th July last, from the Right Honorable the Secretary of State for the Colonies, covering an extract from a letter from the General Post Office, London (herewith returned), inquiring the date at which admission to the Postal Union is desired by this colony, and suggesting, as a suitable time the 1st January, 1884, also desiring information as to the rates proposed to be levied here on Union correspondence, and the equivalents in local currency for the typical sums of 5, 10, and 25 centimes, respectively.

"The Postmaster-General thinks that it would be better (in order to obviate the possible delay of further reference in the event of the colonies proposing different dates) to leave the date of entry of this colony into the Postal Union to be fixed by the Postmaster-General, London, he providing for reasonable notice being given to this colony, and on the express understanding that such entry is to be subject to the resolutions (copy enclosed) agreed to at the Postal Conference held in Sydney in May last.

"With regard to the rates of postage to be charged in this colony, it is proposed, after joining the Postal Union, to levy the rates provided for in the Paris Convention of the 1st June, 1878, these rates being for extra colonial correspondence as follows:—Letters, 5d. per ½oz.; postcards, 1½d. each, or when sent to or through England, 2d.; newspapers, 1d.; packets, including patterns and printed papers, 1d. per 2oz., or when sent to or through the United Kingdom via Brindisi, 1½d. per 2oz.

"With regard to local and intercolonial rates, as the present rate for letters is lower than Union rate, and as newspapers are transmitted free, the Postmaster-General believes that under the Paris Convention no alteration is necessary; but in the case of packets, on which the present charge is 1d. per two ounces for inland, and 1d. per ounce for intercolonial transmission, it would seem that under the Union the intercolonial packet rates would have to be altered from 1d. per ounce to 1d. per two ounces, unless, under the provisions of the convention, the local and intercolonial rates and regulations (as not concerning the Union generally) could be left to the Australasian colonies themselves to arrange.

"The following are the current rates on other local and intercolonial mail matter:—Town letters, 1d. per ½-oz.; inland, 2d, ditto; intercolonial, 2d. ditto; newspapers (under local laws) free.

"It is proposed that the extra charge for registration should be a uniform rate of 4d.

"The equivalents in local currency for the sums mentioned in the concluding portion of the despatch are as follows:—5 centimes, ½d.; 10 centimes, 1d.; 25 centimes, 2½d.

YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

An important change has recently taken place in connection with the Young Women's Christian Association, Loma House, Wynyard-square. Miss L. Smith is no longer secretary of the association, having resigned that position; and Miss Fox, a lady well known for the active interest she has long taken in work of a similar character, has been appointed general secretary in her place. This institution supplies a great social want in Sydney, and is already largely appreciated by the young persons for whose special benefit it was inaugurated. The following is a brief summary of what has been done during the past year:—"The first effort made was in the beginning of October, when a mission school was established to take the place of the evangelistic services that had been held weekly for women during the previous three months, this being thought a more hopeful means of reaching the young girls who work in the factories. At first only one evening was occupied, when reading, writing, singing, and a short Bible lesson were taught. In the beginning of the year it was found that a second evening for needlework would prove attractive, so the use of the Wentworth-lane schoolroom was secured for two evenings a week; subsequently a third night was added, as the interest of the girls was found to increase. The average attendance has been from 15 to 20, and is still increasing. This work is necessarily of slow progress, but if an efficient staff of teachers can be kept up it will be ultimately a means of much good. A concert, given about two months ago, was attended by about 50 girls, and was greatly enjoyed. At Loma House, the various classes connected with the institute have been kept up with a steadily-increasing attendance, the number having benefited during the year being 45. The library has also proved a means of great attraction, over 100 standard works having been added during the year; the circulation averages 70. The Y. W. C. A., based on a prayer union, has gained 30 additional members. In connection with the association nine monthly meetings have been held. At four, addresses were given by clergymen; on three occasions, by lady friends; and at the others, papers written by member were read and discussed. In addition to these a course of five 'Lectures on Health' was given by Miss Wright. These were well attended, and were greatly appreciated. During 11 months 80 different boarders have been in the house, a number of whom have found here a permanent home from which to go daily in pursuit of their various avocations; many have also, after a temporary residence been helped to find situations in and around Sydney, and with many of these constant connection has been kept up by means of correspondence. Within the past few months, on the arrival of immigrant ships, the single women have been visited at the depot, and have had the object of the Y.W.C.A. and institute explained to them. A considerable number of girls gave in this way been brought under the care of the institute. In March, as a means of drawing members and others into friendly contact with one another, a conversazione was held, attended by about 150 young women. Music, singing, microscope, electric battery, &c., were provided for the entertainment of our guests, and the gathering was most enjoyable."

THE CHANNEL TUNNEL PROJECT.

A general meeting of the Channel Tunnel Company, Limited, of which Lord Richard Grosvenor, M.P., is chairman, was held on August 8, when a report from the directors presented said:—"The feeling of the House of Commons having been unfavourably expressed, giving effect to the opinion of the numerical majority of the joint committee of the Lords and Commons, notwithstanding the great weight of the evidence given in favour of the scheme, and the report drawn up by the chairman (the Marquis of Lansdowne), and supported by three other members of the committee, Lord Aberdare, Mr. Baxter, M.P., and Mr. Peel, M.P., your directors felt bound to acquiesce in the course proposed by the President of the Board of Trade, to withdraw the company's bill for this session. Still your directors cannot but think that ere long the military authorities may, upon reconsideration of the subject, revert to the favourable conclusions expressed by the War Department in 1875, and that a change of opinion among that portion of the British public who have hitherto been adverse to the tunnel is to be anticipated. In this case Parliament would, no doubt, sanction the undertaking, which will effect unbroken railway communication between England and the Continent of Europe, so vital to the activity and supremacy of British commercial interests. The testimony received by the committee of the advantage to British trade and interests to be derived from the construction of the tunnel so far outweighs the apprehensions of the military authorities, which are confined chiefly to the danger of a coup de main, that your directors are encouraged to maintain the position of the company, and to continue to take all necessary steps with the object of renewing at the earliest fitting moment the application to Parliament. They believe that the growing necessity of improved intercourse with Great Britain demands and must obtain increased facilities of communication. Whether those facilities are to be derived from a subway beneath the Channel, or from increasing the capacity and depth of the harbours, or otherwise, is the problem to be solved; but your directors are prepared to show that the tunnel, with, according to military parlance, its limited 'frontier,' would involve the necessity of less costly naval and military defences than any other methods projected or contemplated, and this quite independently of the destruction of the tunnel by scientific measures. Large harbours and facilities of landing on a coast necessarily involve extended fortifications and means of defence; seizure by a coup de main may be effected under any circumstances, and is not a danger to be apprehended as applicable alone to the existence of a tunnel. The idea of a Channel tunnel was first presented to the public in a practical form so far back as the year 1867 by the chairman of this company, Lord Richard Grosvenor, M.P., and his French and English associates. The present Channel Tunnel Company was incorporated in 1872, and the consent of the English and French Governments to the undertaking was procured in 1875, when this company obtained its first Parliamentary authority to develope the enterprise. In 1882 the company again applied to Parliament for further powers to construct the tunnel. Their application was postponed by Parliament until the present session (1883), and a renewed application led to the appointment of the Joint Legislative Committee. The directors submit that, during the proceedings of the joint committee, so far as any expression of opinion could be gathered, the plans of this company, prepared by Sir John Hawkshaw, C.E., and Mr. Brunlees, C.E., for the construction of the tunnel to more nearly meet the requirements of the military commission than any others; and your directors remain of opinion that the relative merits of their own scheme over the recent project by which it is opposed can best be left for future discussion before a Parliamentary committee."

FIJI: ITS IMMIGRATION ORDINANCES.

Whoever has had any experience in coloured labour, or has thought much upon the subject, knows that almost insuperable difficulties surround it. In relation to Fiji, it is safe to say that the question of native labour, whilst less difficult, is immeasurably more important than that of imported labour. And it will be well carefully to consider which of two possible courses the Government ought to take. If Fiji is to be retained for Fijians, nothing is more obvious than that the native people of the country must be allowed to feel their personal rights, liberty, and value. To think of retaining them in savagedom or serfdom is to think of a course which can have only one end, and that not very distant. On the other hand, to introduce into Fiji hordes of savages from other South Sea islands, or aliens from India or China, is to attempt the formation of a people who in blood, manners, language, and religion must always be divided. And yet, in the present state of Fijian interests, there is little hope except from importations of savages or aliens; unless indeed, and that is likely, the conditions of their importation are such as to make them practically prohibitive. It must be borne in mind, on the other hand, that no one is obliged to go to Fiji and to invest money. Planters are not the creatures of fate in this matter. If an abnormal number of such gentlemen go to Fiji, so as to embarrass the infantile Government of that land, so much the worse for the planters. The matter hinges here. If by any action of the Government planters are encouraged to settle in the country, then to that extent it is the duty of the Government to study their interests with as much regard to honour and justice as they study those of coloured races. And, further, if Fiji is suitable for the development of specific interests, gentlemen able and willing to make the venture should, for the sake of the country, be encouraged. Just here planters have raised their standard; and here also the standard of the Government is raised. War is imminent; and on the planters' side the plea is that all danger might easily be averted if a powerful and equitable arbiter were at hand, as near, say, as Sydney, instead of London. What justice there may be on each side a brief review of present immigration ordinances and regulations may aid us to understand. It is as well to premise that the difficulties of the subject are such that coloured immigration must be under Governmental control. Not the shadow of an argument can be adduced to show that such immigration should be free, either to employers or to immigrants. And, such being the case, it is so much the more incumbent upon the Government to do all things with scrupulous care and high honour.

Referring to immigration ordinances, the first point is that of recruiting labour. For this work the legislation which experience has suggested is now in force, and it is the belief of a few persons that abuses are not now possible. Wiser folk believe nothing of the kind. For example, is it likely that a Polynesian who does not know the language in which he is addressed will understand an agreement to which he is supposed to assent? The fact is he understands neither the nature of the work to be done, nor the value of the remuneration to be given. Perhaps this is the least evil incident to his case. For if he is a man in health, and free to leave his home, since he is to be placed under competent oversight on his arrival in Fiji, he loses nothing through his ignorance. The mischief arises if in any way he has been deceived, has been led to believe that he was going to a state of things totally different from the stern realities which await him. If so, the fault cannot be charged to planters, but must be laid at the door of agents who are appointed by the Government. A much greater evil arises from engaging unsuitable persons. Emigration from any group of South Sea Islands is sufficiently like the same thing from the old countries of Europe to Australia to admit of comparison. If a free passage were offered from Europe here to all comers, the first to embrace it might not be the best; most certainly many of the worst classes would come. If returns could be obtained of the mortality ruling in depots and in transit to plantations, it would be possible definitely to examine this part of the business. And if an abnormal mortality takes place up to the point of immigrants reaching a plantation, it is very likely to extend on into the first year of indenture. No exact conclusion can be reached unless we have exact returns of mortality from the time when immigrants leave their homes till they return again. Then it would be seen how far the scheme, as a whole, is answerable for deaths, and how far plantation life per se is responsible. It is commonly supposed that women and children should not be recruited. In the importation of coolies a fixed proportion of women must be indentured. This is one of the greatest difficulties in all the business. Only those who have had experience in plantation life can form more than an approximate idea of it. To forbid women immigrants is, if possible, a greater evil than to indenture them. If immigration from any country having coloured labour to spare is to be allowed, planters and philanthropists will have to look in the face of this problem. So far as coolies are concerned, on the general question there is hardly the shadow of an advantage on their side over that of kanakas. The allegation of planters is, that having no control of the recruiting part of the business they are not responsible for any of its failures; and that there is some injustice in their being burdened with all the expense, whilst being deprived of all voice in its management. And this theoretical objection, reasonable as it is, presses less heavily than the fact that recruiting is now done under such conditions as to make its cost above what any planter can hope to be able to bear. Whatever may be the truth about these matters, it is indisputable that not a little irritation exists on both sides; the stronger party rules, and the weaker goes to the wall.

There is every reason why the allotment of immigrants should be in the hands of the Government. This is necessary, if only for carrying out section 14 of the ordinance of 1877, which provides that families shall not be separated. Their detention in the depot is duly provided for, but it is reported that life there is not paradisiacal. As soon as possible employers and employees are brought face to face, the former having no choice of his man, the latter having no choice of his master. On the score of likes and dislikes not much is lost by this, and whatever advantages there may be are on the side of the servant. It may happen that an employer has obtained a sorry lot of hands, feeble, unwilling, worthless. But he must take them. He has no power to refuse to take them, although the Government has power, and properly so, to refuse to make an allotment if good reasons against it are believed to exist. All costs of entertainment of immigrants between the ship and the plantation are chargeable to allottees; and whilst this is reasonable enough, there is scope for not a little abuse. There does not appear to be any relief provided for a planter who may suffer, or who may think that he suffers, from the rigour of these rules. In the West Indies it is possible for an immigrant to be allotted to other than plantation work if he lacks fitness for it, but has aptitude for something else. And if, after trial upon a plantation, an immigrant proves unfit for the work, his indenture may be cancelled. It appears that a provision of this kind is imperative from the fact that sometimes notoriously incompetent persons are taken to the country, and in not a few instances downright idiots are sent. If relief cannot be applied through the Government agent, who travels with a recruiting vessel, it ought to be applied at the depot; and if it were, more care would be taken in selecting immigrants. Fewer persons might be obtained, but they would constitute a superior class, and we should hear less about abuses in plantation life, and less could then be said against the whole system. It is on the plantations themselves that high life for all parties begins. Most elaborate regulations are made for the accommodation of immigrants, and, truth to tell, they need it. They must be housed and fed, clothed, and nursed, married, and buried according to law, and very severe are some of the penalties prescribed against defaulting employers. So far as can be learned from the Planters' Association, these sanitary and sumptuary laws—that is, most of them—are not objectionable. It is the way in which they are enforced that gives so much offence. Inspectors are appointed who may visit plantations at any hour of the night or day. The privilege is not allowed to lie dormant. Gentlemen privileged to make these nocturnal inquisitions fully avail themselves of that singular privilege. It is perfectly right that they should have full liberty to visit plantations without being accompanied by master or manager. If they could not do so, a visit would be worthless. But that they should have liberty to make visits at night, and should make free use of their opportunities, looks uncommonly like creating one evil to check another. If known and trusted men are employed, they may not abuse their liberty; and planters complain, apparently with show of justice, that very unsuitable men have been appointed, and that some of them have greatly abused their power. The Governor defends their conduct, and lays himself open to the suspicion that he does so because he had made the appointments. Amongst the regulations for plantation life is one relating to discharging patients from hospitals. A master's discharge is sufficient for a seven days' detention, but for a longer period it must be given by a doctor. If one is not at hand all parties must wait. By a little scheming a cunning patient who ails little or nothing can get into hospital and remain there ever so long. The grievance about food is real enough on both sides at times, no doubt. But plainly it is as much the interest of an employer to keep his men in health as it is the duty of the Government to see that such is the case. At the same time it is quite certain that some of the overseers may be men not fit to be trusted with brutes; there are such men everywhere. They abuse a master's confidence, and damage his interests as much as they wrong a labourer. Such things, as we have said before, are incidental to the system, but are not an integral part of it. The Government surely is bound to do its best to meet planters fairly at all these crucial points, and not to harass them as if they were the natural enemies of mankind. Some of the provisions of the Ordinance of 1883 appear to be unnecessarily harsh. Section XXIII. provides that when an immigrant shall have died while under indenture, the estimated cost of a passage to the place where such immigrant was recruited, shall be paid by the employer. Provided that it shall be within the discretion of the Governor to remit the liability in case of a general epidemic. An immigrant may die the day after his allotment, and still his employer is liable. It is reasonable that some note should be made on the subject. It is a part of the agreement that an employer must pay the return passage of immigrants. A temptation to get rid of a labourer might present itself to a bad man. If the time of an indenture has nearly expired, it is a small loss to a master if he has to pay this money, but it is a hard case if he loses his servant at the outset, and has to pay all expenses just as if the man had lived. Reports say that the Government itself is not faultless in its manner of spending the money of a returning immigrant. With the financial results of three years' labour in his pocket an immigrant is taken to a store and supplied with such things as are on sale whether they are suitable and of good quality or not. That is a capital plan for clearing off old stock, but it never gives satisfaction.

The subject of re-indenture is open to review. At the end of three or five years there must be some of these men who know well what they are about in making a new bargain, and who simply need to be protected, not guided in what they do. The commissioners who, 10 years ago, reported upon this subject in its relation to coolie labour in Demerara, said:—"It would seem to be a concession that immigration, so far as the coolies are concerned, has failed to fulfil its first purposes if, after being acclimatised, after learning their work, and after paying their passage out, they must still be brought under indenture after indenture, and not encouraged to take their station in the country as free labourers." In Trinidad this is provided for by law, and the arrangements are said to work well. In Fiji it is provided that the Agent-General of Immigration, on the request of an immigrant who has completed four consecutive years of service under indenture, may deliver to such immigrant a certificate that he is an "old immigrant," and is at liberty to work where he pleases within the colony. But no hiring or contract for service of any old immigrant, except by re-indenture, shall be taken for more than a month. This is equivalent to saying that in future he may enjoy the small boon of choosing his master. The result of such a regulation is to keep the man in a perpetual tutelage detrimental to himself and to the best interests of the country. A review of these ordinances suggests that there are provisions in them which are not sufficiently elastic. Their administration may relieve the pressure a little, but is more likely to make it worse. The chief sufferers by all this are immigrants and native labourers. The loudest complainants are the planters, simply because they have better means of making themselves heard. And the greatest misfortune of all parties appears to be that there is no one to hear them when they cry. H.

PACKING WOOL IN JUTE-WEAVINGS.

Mr. Carl L. Sahl, acting German Consul-General, has received from Berlin a copy of a translation of a communication made by the Berlin Chamber of Commerce to the Chancellor of the German Empire and Minister of Trade, Prince Bismarck, respecting the packing of wool in jute-weavings. The document, which has been forwarded to Mr. Sahl with a view of bringing the complaints mentioned therein to the knowledge of those interested in the wool trade, is as follows:—

(Translation.)

"We have received circulars from the Chambers of Commerce in Roubaix, Tourcoing, and Elbeuf, in which complaints are put forward arising from the present mode of packing wool in jute-weavings. The fibres of the jute stick very easily to the wool, become mixed with it during the spinning process, and are conspicuous when dyed, because they are unsusceptible to the colours of the wool, thereby causing defects in the goods manufactured (particularly in those of dark colours), which even with the utmost carefulness can hardly be avoided. In consequence of the representations of the above Chambers of Commerce we have made inquiries in our own and other districts, and have learned that the grievances mentioned are also keenly felt by our combers, spinners and manufacturers. Everywhere a movement for bringing about a better mode of packing wool would be welcomed. However, the damage arising from the packing of wool in jute-weavings is, according to information received, further aggravated by the mode of tying a jute string round each single fleece contained in the bale of raw wool. It often happens that the strings surrounding each fleece are cut before the packing up in order to free the wool from the belly pieces. In this way, and particularly if the string is cut several times, the wool becomes mixed with small pieces of string, which even by the most careful sorting cannot all be removed. It also happens that the wool-sorters, in preparing the wool for manufacture, cut the strings which are pressed deeply into the wool, and small ends of string remain in the wool, which cause great damage, and in the combing process combine with the wool.

"The combing establishment at Dohren states that with some wools women have to be employed behind the washing machines, who have nothing else to do but to watch for such strings. Nevertheless it happens that some strings pass unobserved on to the carding machine, which divides them into hundreds of fibres causing the defects above referred to.

"We believe that it would be feasible that, with those wools which are shipped in pressed bales, the single fleeces need not be tied at all. The fleeces would nevertheless be separated from each other in the bales, and could be taken out one by one.

"The two largest wool-combing establishments in Germany, the wool-combing establishment at Leipzig, and the wool-washing and combing establishment in Dohren, near Hanover, as well as other manufacturers and merchants in the raw wool business, therefore suggest that the wool should in future not be packed in jute-weavings, and that the tying of the single fleeces with string should be discontinued. The difficulty certainly seems to be that it is not easy to find a suitable material in place of jute. No woolbuyer likes to pay anything for the woolpacks, and on the other hand the wool prices are so low that much cannot be expended on the packing by the exporters. However, there seems to be a way out of the difficulty. By some jute manufacturers an improvement has been brought about in so far as the jute-weavings by a certain process are singed with gas, thereby minimising the unravelling of the jute considerably. Where the wool is packed in such covers, complaints arise merely through the hooking of the bales on the transport, the fibre of the jute getting mixed with the wool through the rents made by bale hooks.

"We consider the drawbacks referred to of great importance, and think a remedy highly desirable. The discontinuance of tying the single fleeces with strings would be an improvement easily achieved. And if jute as a packing material cannot be discarded on account of its cheapness, the wool manufactures and merchants on the Continent would consider it a great boon if jute would only be used as packing material for wool, after it has been singed in the manner above mentioned."

No less than 40,000 decorations have been distributed by the Czar Alexander III. in memory of his coronation, and almost as many honorary titles; but those marks of distinction have not much weight in Russia, where the former can be won only on occasions of ceremony and the latter can be claimed as right by all who have filled any kind of official situation for a certain period of time.

EPPS' COCOA.—Grateful and Comforting.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage, which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Made simply with boiling water or milk.—Sold only in packets labelled—"James Epps and Co., homœopathic chemists, London."—Also makers of Epps' chocolate essence.—[ADVT.]

NAUTICAL SCHOOL SHIP VERNON.

The following is the annual report of the Nautical School Ship Vernon for the year 1882:—

"The Superintendent N.S.S. Vernon to the Under-Secretary of Public Instruction.

"Sydney, 4th August, 1883.

"Sir,—I have the honor to submit the usual annual report of the institution under my charge, for the year ended the 30th June, 1883.

"A quiet, uneventful year offers me little matter for report, so far as the ship is concerned. The institution has peacefully travelled through its sixteenth year of existence, undisturbed by internal troubles of any kind. The staff of officers remains almost unchanged from its composition last year, and they continue to afford me the same cheerful assistance to which I have alluded in previous reports. Willingly giving up portions of their own time, limited as that time must necessarily be, when the comfort or well-being of the inmates would be served by their so doing,—preparing and delivering lectures on subjects suited to the boys' comprehension, and entering generally into the scheme of rewarding for good conduct and deprivation of privileges for misconduct, laid down as the system upon which the lads are trained—they have in no slight measure raised the tone of the boys and contributed towards the healthy morale now prevailing. I gladly avail myself of this, which seems a fitting occasion, to bring their conduct under the notice of the Minister. Officers performing their duties in a merely perfunctory manner are worse than useless in establishments of this kind, and form a fatal bar to success.

"The sanitary condition of the vessel continues to be satisfactory. The cases under treatment during the entire 12 months were made up as follows:—Low fever, three; ophthalmia, fourteen; rheumatism, one; heart disease (chronic), one; chronic disease of the urinary organs, one; skin eruptions, six; epileptic fits, one; gastric irritation, three; exhaustion through want of nourishment, two; pneumonia, one; wounds, two. Six of the boys under treatment for ophthalmia arrived on board ill from that complaint; two of them had entirely lost the sight of one eye each, and the disease spread very quickly to eight others, but within four weeks the complaint was quite stamped out, and no recurrence of it has taken place since March last. The epileptic boy, who was also an imbecile, was sent to the Newcastle Asylum. Most of the other cases mentioned were contracted on shore prior to arrival, including the two boys suffering respectively from heart disease and disease of the urinary organs. These latter arrived on board suffering from disease, and appear to be incurable, as both have been under hospital treatment ashore, and have been returned to the ship just as bad as when they left it. Those referred to as suffering from want of nourishment and who were also suffering from ophthalmia were found wandering about in the country half starved and sent here. Under treatment they soon recovered, and are now quite well. Their father is in gaol serving a sentence of two years. No deaths have occurred during the year, and the list of sick, as will have been seen, is but a slight one, although the number of boys on board has been considerably greater than in any preceding period of like duration. Altogether 328 lads have at one time or other been inmates of the institution during the twelve months. It may not be out of place to point out, as evidence of the healthiness of life like this for boys, that, notwithstanding the unwholesome condition in which many of the lads arrive, only one death has taken place in a period of eight years, viz., that of a boy who arrived on board suffering from advanced disease of the heart, of which he died. At the present time we have 216 on board, and (with the exception of the two chronic cases before mentioned, who are, however, not laid up and who attend school, &c.) a clean bill of health.

"The admissions and discharges have each been more numerous than in any preceding year. The discharges will be referred to later on. The admissions amount to 140, 122 of which are new commitals; five are readmissions from Biloela, to which place they had been temporarily sent until they attained a certain age; three have been removed from masters who were not properly fulfilling the conditions of contract; five have been returned from the Wolverene for the purpose of being discharged to their relatives; and five have been returned for alleged misconduct and other reasons.

"Amongst the boys on board no grave misconduct has taken place, and their behaviour generally has been such as not to cause me any uneasiness. Recruited as we are from amongst those whom their fathers and mothers declare to be utterly beyond control, from the incorrigibles of other institutions, and at all times numbering in our ranks lads of tender age, who have been five and six times convicted of various crimes before being sent here, it might be imagined that disorder and wrong doing would occur pretty frequently on board, but so far from this being the case the very opposite prevails. I have always found new comers, no matter how bad their antecedents, amenable to discipline and disposed to copy the example of those who have been a longer time on board and who have attained a certain preferment simply by reason of their own good conduct. Of course a certain amount of impatience at restraint is manifest amongst recruits for a period, varying more or less in its duration with the age and disposition of the boy, but this is only naturally to be expected from youngsters who have been used to what may be termed 'the savage liberty of the pavements' up to, in many cases, an advanced age, and who now, for the first time, experience control, and that of a sharp kind. I have, as a rule, found that the boys who most strongly resent this interference with their liberty turn out ultimately our best successes, not only on board but after they leave. I have not so much faith in boys who tell me, upon arrival, that they like being sent on the Vernon. Few boys now come here who have not been convicted of at least one offence prior to being apprehended under the Industrial Schools Act, and the ship has practically become a reformatory, inasmuch as its business of late years has been to a large extent directed to dealing with young criminals or the associates of criminals. Rarely from Sydney do we obtain a "destitute" child in the ordinary acceptation of the term, but from the country occasionally a few are sent who have not been apprehended for any criminal offence, but who have been found deserted, or have been locked up for protection in consequence of their parents being in gaol. The boys sent from the country are more trouble than all the rest put together. For the most part they present an uncouth, uncivilised demeanour for some time after arrival, are dirty in their habits, and have the smallest idea of keeping themselves or their clothes clean or tidy, and are very slow at acquiring any useful information either in school or elsewhere. This is attributable to the fact that only the worst and most neglected come here; but when in addition they arrive on board suffering from disease (five were sent suffering from ophthalmia), the officers find their duties considerably augmented.

"In view of the large amount of attention now being given to the question of dealing with juvenile offenders and destitute children, it may not prove uninstructive to look back upon the work done by the Vernon. The institution is now in the 17th year of its existence, and a fair idea can therefore be gained as to the merits of its particular system and the success attained. In some respects the Industrial Schools Act, under which this vessel has its present being, differs from those in other parts of the world, notably in two important particulars: the age at which boys leave the institution, which is here much younger, and the period of detention. The large majority of lads are only kept on board for twelve months and are then apprenticed out until the age of 18, so that as a matter of fact the time spent on board is but comparatively small, the greater portion of the period for which the State acts to them in loco parentis being passed at service in various occupations. The conditions under which the boys are apprenticed are that they be found in food, clothing, lodging, bedding, and all other things suitable and needful, that proper attention be paid to their moral and physical necessities, and that they be regularly sent to school (if under 14) until they attain the age of 14, or if over 14, their master must guarantee that the boys will be encouraged to improve themselves in their education. In addition, wages are paid them at the rate of 1s. weekly during the first year (if they are 12 years old), and this rises by yearly increases to 6s. or 7s. 6d. weekly the last year. This rate of pay is made higher in the cases of older boys. To show the demand for apprentices under these conditions, I may state that I have now sufficient applications undisposed of to absorb all the boys likely to be available for the next two years. The conditions introduced at the commencement of January last, that boys under 14 should be regularly sent to school, forms no bar to our boys under that age being apprenticed."

After describing at considerable length individual cases of boys who have passed through the institution, and have turned out well in after life, Captain Neitenstein goes on to say:—

"Although a daily average of 13 more than last year has been maintained, the total cost has only been £177 more. The gross expenditure was £4891, and this gives the cost per head, £25 1s. 8d., which, reduced by the contributions of parents, brings the net cost down to £21 3s. 2d. This is the lowest yet arrived at in the history of the ship, with the exception of one year, when it was slightly less. In this, it should be mentioned, are included costs of repairs, painting and other items, not, as I am given to understand, usually found in reports of this kind. Owing to the high rate, as compared with previous years at which the contract for provisions was taken, the cost per head for this item shows the large increase of £2 5s. Salaries come to nearly 13s. more, accounted for by the addition to the staff of another teacher, and by certain increases of pay. In each of the other items a reduction is shown. In connection with the charge for "salaries," which may seem somewhat high, it may be pointed out that the boys are not left night and day without supervision, and this renders a larger staff necessary than would otherwise be the case. An officer is always in charge of them at night when they have gone to bed, and this does not mean that a person sleeps within call (indeed, we all do that), as is the practice elsewhere, but that an efficient watch is maintained by officers, regularly relieved at intervals through the night, to ensure wakefulness, and who are constantly moving about amongst the hammocks, and so greatly reduce any possibilities for misconduct.

"The school routine has been conducted without interruption upon the half-time principle, and this gives to each boy on board at least three hours daily; but the younger lads, and some of the more backward amongst the elder ones, attend more frequently. The system is identical with that pursued in the Public schools ashore, and is carried out by duly certified teachers.

"Of the boys admitted, no less than 72, more than half, were totally unable to read or write; and of the remainder, 60 could read and write but indifferently. Since my last report, another teacher has been appointed to assist the schoolmaster, and much greater progress has in consequence been made than was the case formerly. Very much cannot be hoped to be accomplished, when it is considered that the vast majority only remain on board 12 months, and that they arrive here quite deficient in the most elementary education.

"During the year fair work has been done in the various departments of drill, and these exercises have undoubtedly conduced to the healthy condition the lads have at all times presented. Manning yards, bayonet drill, cutlass exercise, manual and platoon exercises, pulling in boats, exercise at quarters, and light infantry drill have been regularly engaged in, and in addition the boys have been kept pretty well employed in keeping the ship, &c., in good order. Carpentering, tailoring, and shoemaking are the only trades practised on board; and although there is no outlet for boys as apprentices to trades (master tradesmen here, I find will not care about indoor apprentices), still it is handy for the boys to acquire a little rough knowledge of these handicrafts, and they are necessary to effect repairs on board.

"The necessity for recreation has not been overlooked. The providing rational amusements is a very important part of the system pursued on board, as the experience of some years has proved that it is much more essential to encourage boys to behave well by conferring upon them certain privileges and enjoyments as rewards for good and steady conduct, than the old custom of ignoring good behaviour, and punishing them when misconduct takes place. No flogging has taken place for years; and although the cane has occasionally to be brought into use, for the most part it has been found that curtailment or deprivation of privileges has been amply sufficient to deal with offences. This plan, originated by me in 1878, is peculiar to this ship, and is as follows:—The whole of the boys are divided into seven classes; No. 1 being the highest, and No. 7 the lowest. All new comers are placed in No. 7, where they receive no privileges, are liable to corporal punishment, are not permitted to skylark, and are always available for any dirty or unpleasant work that may have to be done. No boy need remain longer than a week, and by getting a certain number of good marks from his officers can rise to class 6, where he will find his comfort materially increased. It should be stated that the officers have separate books, in which they place 'marks' as each considers a particular boy to have behaved, and these books are sent to me weekly, in order that the total number of marks to each lad's credit may be ascertained and promotions take place as deserved. A list of promotions is read out every Monday morning, in the presence of the whole ship's company, and two large class lists are constantly exposed in prominent parts of the vessel, showing the conduct of every boy on board. Class 6 enjoys the following:—Allowed to attend church on shore, exemption from cleaning brasswork, &c.; permission to skylark on board in play-hours; pudding and other extras on Sundays, Wednesdays, Fridays, and on holidays. Class 5 has exemption from corporal punishment, except for gross misconduct, admission to library and dissolving view entertainments, &c.; to land for playing, to attend regattas, fishing excursions, picnics when practicable, and all privileges of class 6. Next rank, class 4, has all the preceding rights, wear stripe on arm, pay at 1s. monthly, and allowed to fish at the gangway (the latter a much prized enjoyment). Class 3 enjoys all privileges of former classes, and wears decoration on arm, rates as captains of tops, and receives pay at 2s. monthly. Class 2 exercises all the foregoing rights, and in addition wears two stripes and decoration on arm, rates as coxswains of cutters, and receives 3s. monthly. Class 1 enjoys all preceding privileges, and rates as boatswain's mate, wearing the usual naval badge, and receives 5s. monthly. The foregoing is copied from the class list, on which also appears the following:—'A certain number of marks, gained by industry and good conduct, will raise any boy in rank in the institution. Bad conduct and idleness will cause him to be reduced, and deprive him of the privileges he has earned, with, however, the power of re-earning good marks and regaining his position by subsequent good conduct. Each boy must bear in mind that the many privileges of the ship are accessible to all on board, are earned by simply behaving in a proper manner, and so gaining the respect of the officers.' It may be stated that all boys in the first four classes rank as boy-officers, and have command over the others, go away in charge of working parties, command boats, keep 'misconducts' up to their work, and are responsible for the proper performance of various duties. Being trusted and placed 'upon honour' undoubtedly tends to raise the status of the lads and improves their self-respect. During the summer the various regattas were attended, a racing party as usual being provided by us on most occasions, and a fair share of prizes borne off. Net fishing excursions up Middle Harbour also frequently took place, and enormous quantities of fish on several occasions were caught. An enjoyable trip also took place to the Weatherboard Falls, by direction of the Minister of Public Instruction, whose kindness was much appreciated by the boys and officers. Cricket and football have been played with success. The Museum and Art Gallery have also occasionally been visited. In winter the usual indoor amusements have been prosecuted, foremost amongst which may be mentioned the weekly lectures given in the schoolroom every Wednesday night, which are illustrated by means of high-class photographic views projected on a screen by the ship's oxy-hydrogen lantern. Lectures upon ship-building, astronomy, celebrated authors, natural phenomena, the British Isles, foreign countries, the Tower, &c., have formed a combination of instruction and amusement highly relished by the boys. The ship's library, a well-lighted, commodious apartment, now contains over 300 volumes, and is well supplied with chess, draughts, dominoes, and other games. The band, under the efficient charge of Bandmaster Orrell, has made much improvement, and has frequently played in public at the Botanic Gardens, at regattas, on three days at the Engineering Exhibition, &c. Music of an evening on board is much relished, and has a great refining influence.

"In conclusion, I beg to express a hope that I may be pardoned for carrying this report to so unusual a length. Feeling that the Vernon is to a certain extent upon her trial as an implement for reforming vicious boys, I have judged it but fair that I should take this, the only opportunity that offers, of setting down a plain statement—firstly, of the system pursued; and, secondly, of its effect in after-life upon those who come under its operations. So much ignorance prevails of the working of the institution, and so many opinions have been offered by ladies and gentlemen interested in this important topic of 'children of the State' who, I regret to say, have not been on board, at all events during my 10 years of service, that a desire to place the real facts on record must form my excuse for being somewhat more lengthy than has hitherto been the case with my annual reports upon the Vernon. I have, &c.,

PICNIC TO MRS. HAMPSON.

A complimentary picnic to Mrs. Hampson, the lady evangelist, took place at Clontarf yesterday. It was originally intended to have held the picnic on Saturday last, but the weather was so exceedingly unpropitious that the affair had to be abandoned. The promoters of the picnic, who had entrusted the management of it to the Young Men's Christian Association, would have liked to have arranged for the picnic to have been postponed until to-day, but, finding that they were unable, they were compelled to hold it yesterday. It was unfortunate that the picnic was held yesterday. A very large number of those who would doubtless have liked to have gone were present at the [illegible] which was held on Monday, and if they had attended yesterday's outing would have had to suffer the loss of two days' wages. Many gentlemen engaged in mercantile pursuits, and who had manifested an active interest in Mrs. Hampson's mission, were, too, prevented from attending by reason of the fact that a mail from Europe arrived on Thursday, and preparations had to be made for another mail which is to be despatched to-day. But what probably militated most against the success of the picnic, so far as numbers were concerned, was the state of the weather. The sky was overcast, and [illegible] with the wind betokened rain, which, however, did not fall until late in the evening. Between 150 and 200 persons visited Clontarf, amongst the number being the Revs. J. Bennett, J. D. Langley, Penman, Oram, Wilkinson, [illegible], Clarke, Stretch, N. Bowen, and George Brown, and Messrs. John Kent, J. H. Goodlet, E. Vickery, and D. Walker. The day was spent in an exceedingly quiet manner. A number of young people seemed to extract a deal of amusement out of a game called "bingo," and getting tired of that they started for partners for the game of twos and threes, whilst others spent the earlier portion of the day in playing "rounders." Those who did not participate in the foregoing games either rambled about the grounds or scrambled over the rocks and went in search of wild flowers. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon a gathering of a religious nature was held in the pavilion, and all the arrangements were suspended until the close of the meeting. After singing and prayer an invitation was given for converts to go forward and testify of the good they had received by forsaking their former ways. The invitation was repeated several times, and seven or eight converts responded. One of these was a reformed drunkard. Afterwards the Rev. Mr. Tress announced that it had been arranged that the meeting that afternoon should take the form of a conference as to the best means of following up the mission work which had been begun. Mr. Short suggested that one way of strengthening the work would be the maintenance of the Christian conferences which had for some time past been held on Saturday afternoons at the Temperance Hall. Mrs. Hampson suggested that it would be wise to appoint a band of workers for each district of the city, some of such bands to consist of those who had acted as "workers" during the mission, and the others to consist of converts. She thought these bands would be able to secure cottages in different parts of the city in which to hold services.

According to the Novoe Vremya, Russia in several of her provinces is threatened with deforestation. The reckless cutting down of trees is threatening to convert into barren deserts some of the best wooded provinces in Russia. A wood famine is threatened in Viatka and Kostroma, and the wood merchants, to satisfy the wants of the southern districts, have recourse to the province of Perm, where the destruction of forests will gravely compromise the development of the mining industry. Since 1864, the Ministry of the Domains has made many attempts to lay down general rules for preserving the forests; but all these attempts were paralysed by the obstinate and constant opposition of private interests. M. Ostrovsky has now a new project to submit to the Council of the Empire. It is time, in M. Ostrovsky's opinion, to go back to the doctrine of Peter the Great, who placed the Russian forests under Imperial administration. This arrangement was abrogated by Catherine II. in favour of the nobility; but experience proves that this was a mistake. If the forest question is not speedily dealt with, sooner or later it will be found that the destruction of forests is complete in the centre and south of the Empire.

REVIEW.

THE MAORI AND THE BRITON.*—II.

The London Spectator was just in its inference that Mr. Rusden's main object has been to show the reckless cruelty and injustice of the treatment which the Maoris have constantly met with at the hands of the Europeans." To quote himself:—"With whatever motive anyone might undertake to write a history of the English occupation of New Zealand, he is no sooner confronted by the facts with regard to the Maoris—their polity, their laws, their sagacity, their cannibal rites, their bloodthirstiness, their heroism, their generosity, and their eloquence—than he finds that among them, and not among the invaders of their country, will be found the chief interest and most lasting interest of his work." These words explain the extraordinary limitation of Mr. Rusden's history. He is never happy except when he is telling the story of the "invasion"—that is to say, quoting and expatiating upon the agrarian conflicts of the two races. He can only "spread himself" when he is detailing the "reckless cruelty and injustice" which, in his jaundiced view, the Maori has received at the hands of the Pakeha. All the wonder of the colonisation of two islands so remotely situated from the civilised continents of the world—a wonder that will hereafter be set forth as one of the characteristic achievements of the latter half of the 19th century, the century of fearless industrial adventure—does not seem to have touched his imagination. A Macaulay or a Froude would find infinite inspiration in the study of the growth of a Greater Britain in the uttermost parts of the earth. A Rusden has only found infamous trickery in the dealings of the strong race from the north with the aborigines of the south. He professes to write a dispassionate history, but, blinded by his craze, he cannot see that the central interest of the story lies with his own countrymen, and not with the sulky savages whom they have partially dispossessed. The heroism of the Maoris was dazed into invisibility by the heroism of the first generation of New Zealand settlers, who were as brave and patient and intelligent and honourable a body of pioneers as ever sought fortune in a foreign territory. The record of the Englishman in New Zealand is, broadly speaking, a noble one. The best qualities of the grand old race were carried to that colony, and the first half-century of English enterprise there is a chapter worthy of its place in the history of the world's greatest empire.

"Reckless cruelty and injustice!" Is this an accurate summing-up of the treatment which the Maoris have received from the English settlers? We say it is not. It is the very reverse of the fact. Let the impact of colonisation upon the Maoris be looked at in its widest aspect, and the alleged cruelty and injustice will be found to have no foundation whatever. There are aboriginal peoples in these Pacific lands that stir contempt in the Europeans who have come into contact with them. For they are savages, and nothing more. They appear incapable of connecting themselves with the civilisation which has approached them. They seem to be past recovery. The strong wine of highly developed life does not inspire, it kills them; and it is better they should disappear from the world than that they should continue to exist in their half-brutish half-devilish condition. But the Maoris were not such a people, and the settlers never treated them as if they were. The English pioneers found savages, but something more. They found men who could drink the blood and swallow the eyes of their enemies, but they were clothed with a hauteur which indicated that they were not destitute of the natural royalty of manhood. They were dowered with a subtle and vigorous intellect. They had a legendary literature which was rich in pathetic poetry. They drew a manly inspiration from the traditions of the big-brained, brave, passionate, masterful men, who led their tribes to conflict and victory in the former days. If the early settlers erred, it was in taking too sanguine a view of the original possessors of the country. They were fascinated by the romance and the strength of the Maori nature, and were too often rudely awakened to the savage. How was it that the Maori got so wonderful a reputation in the world? How was it that he was universally spoken of as an exceptional savage? The pioneer settlers were responsible for the enthusiasm with which he was regarded. There was plenty of room in the marvellously fertile islands for both races, and the Englishman sought to dwell in peace with the Maori. He prided himself upon treating him as an equal. The Maori was not the Englishman's slave, but his companion and friend; and that remarkable personage, the Pakeha-Maori, was the true product of the early relations between the two peoples. But the Maori of general repute is made up of fiction as well as of fact. The poets, orators, and journalists of the old world wanted a noble savage, and the Maori seemed to supply the want. Forthwith his virtues were exaggerated and his vices minimised. But those who imagined him to have been uncorrupted by the great world on the outermost rim of which he lived, without guile or hypocrisy, gentle as brave, and as proud, sensitive to goodness as to injury, chivalrous towards the weak, incapable of treachery, frank and truthful, would have had some difficulty in matching such a creature in New Zealand at the beginning of this century. The pioneers certainly did not certainly under estimate the character of their aboriginal acquaintances. There was no contempt, no antagonism. The resources of civilisation were not drawn upon for the "dispersion" of the Maoris. There was no "wiping out" by the settler. The darkest incidents of Australian history had no parallel in the history of New Zealand.

As the number of the settlers increased, and the power and superiority of civilisation became more apparent, the Maoris became jealous, as was perhaps natural to savages who were too proud to admit inferiority, and too ignorant to understand and float upon the advancing wave which, as they thought, threatened to engulf them. In 1860 this unfortunate estrangement broke into the hostilities which beat down the pride of the Maori, and retarded for many years the progress of the colony. It is in the cause and conduct of this war that Mr. Rusden finds the "reckless cruelty and injustice" of the Europeans. By multitudinous quotations from official and unofficial documents, woven together in a narrative, from which the dispassionateness of the genuine historian is conspicuously absent, he seeks to make the impression that the blame and shame of the war lie at the door of his own countrymen. Without following him into his interminable quotations, we flatly deny the accuracy of his general statement.

Mr. Rusden's Maori is a patriot of the purest type. The land is his first and last love. All the traditions of his race compel him to hold fast his rights in the soil. That is his religion. For the forests and mountains and rivers and swamps his fathers looked upon he is willing to die. But there are three great facts which Mr. Rusden fails to make clear, but a full perception of which is necessary to a clear understanding of the Maori-European difficulty.

One is that the Maori was too lazy to cultivate the soil he was so eager to die for. Therein he was akin to the meaner Pacific savage. The North Island is for the most part wonderfully fertile, but during the long Maori tenancy nature was left very much alone. She produced her magnificent pines and exquisite ferns with no assistance and little appreciation from the Maori. The soil was a battle ground, but neither a farm nor a hunting field. The pride of the eye was fed by the splendid scenery, but that was about all. A few acres were tilled for food. To an idle temperament it was much more agreeable to catch fish than grow potatoes. Many a single farm in California probably shows more agriculture than 100,000 Maoris could have exhibited in the year 1801. The element of civilisation for which the Maori has always exhibited his infinite contempt is work. He believes in eating, sleeping, squatting in the sunshine, and fighting, but is profoundly sceptical as to the advantages of labour. The trading Pakeha Maori who came first was often as lazy and sensual as himself, but the energetic farmer who came next was a natural enemy. A sprinkling of the former, with their muskets and tobacco and blankets, were welcomed as gods; an army of the latter was hated as wreckers of the old order of life. There is an inherent antagonism between savage and civilised life which a philosophic historian should not possibly overlook, and which must be taken into account in a fair appraisement of the quarrel between Englishman and Maori.

The second fact is that if the land sometimes supplied bona-fide reasons for fighting, it much more frequently was made to yield excuses for the appeals to arms which were the passionately-loved excitement of the race. The Maoris were never a united people. The King is a recent institution, and alien to the temper and traditions of the tribes. He could never become more than a ghastly shadow of royalty. Tribal dominancy, maintained by incessant warfare, never reduced to the monotony of peace, always alert and aggressive and cruel, was the ideal life. The advent of the English agriculturist was the laying of an axe at the root of all that. The Maori was virtually asked to become a new creature, and any man who has personally known something of both military and agricultural life will apprehend the tremendous significance of this question. Can it be wondered at that the Maori declined on the appeal of the example before him to become a new creature—to study the science of tillage rather than of fortification, to throw away the spear and tomahawk of his fathers and adopt the spade and plough of his white neighbours, to exchange the fierce intoxication of blood-shedding and the delicious triumph of successful stratagem for the quiet inspiration of watching the alchemy of nature and the tame comfort of a well-appointed home? He hugged the old life to his heart. Here is a picture from the authoritative pen of Judge Maning of one of the fierce intertribal struggles:—

"This time, however, the Marutuahu soon began to avail themselves of their position, with the purpose of establishing themselves in the Waikato country, and taking permanent possession, not only of the lands of the expelled Ngatiraukawa tribe, but also those of the Waikato people at Horotiu and the surrounding districts, to which they had only been permitted to come to reside in the character of friends and allies while absent from their own proper district. Before long the country was commanded by not less than 20 Marutuahu fortifications; every village had its stockaded and rifle-pitted pah, and the fierce and encroaching Marutuahu commenced a series of aggressions on the Waikato people, plundering their villages, driving them from their cultivated lands, and doing everything possible to provoke war, in which the Marutuahu hoped, no doubt, to oust the Waikato tribes from their large and fertile country. The Ngatihaua, against whom these aggressions were chiefly made, were justly famous for their valour; no tribe in New Zealand had ever or has ever outshone them in barbaric courage or warlike ability, not excepting even the formidable Ngapuhi; but they had no name for patience under injuries. Fierce reprisals were commenced; murders, skirmishes, battles, and massacres became ordinary and common events, and so this state of things continued for a length of time without either party having gained any marked advantage over the other, until at length the Ngatihaua, by what is stigmatised by their enemies as a treacherous stratagem, or kohuru, succeeded in surprising a Marutuahu chief named Takurua in his village and massacring him and nearly all his people, men, women, and children, to the number of about 200 persons, at a place called Kaipaka; where, deceived by the artful pretences of the Ngatihaua and their chief Te Waharoa that they were tired of war and anxious to enter into terms of peace and reconciliation, the Marutuahu chief and his people had relaxed that incessant vigilance which was necessary to the preservation of life. Furious at this loss, and if possible more so at the disgrace, most deeply felt, of having been outdone in deception, the Marutuahu sought revenge by isolated murders, in night attacks, in open battles, and skirmishes, by every effort of force and stratagem, and notwithstanding some reverses, unprejudiced Maori authorities have held that, previous to the final battle of Taumatawiwi, the Marutuahu had balanced the loss and obliterated the disgrace. The end was, however, drawing near, at least on that stage, and the final conflict on which this claim is founded. No human flesh and blood, however hardened, could endure much longer the excitement, privation, danger, and unrest which the equally balanced force and ferocious courage of the contending parties had now protracted to several years' duration on that small spot of the earth's surface, and between two petty divisions of the human race. War had attained its most terrible and forbidding aspect; neither age nor sex was spared; agriculture was neglected; the highest duty of man was to slay and devour his neighbour; whilst the combatants fought in front, the ovens were heating in the rear; the vigorous warrior, one moment fighting hopefully in the foremost rank, exulting in his strength, laying enemy after enemy low, thinking only of his war boasts when the victory should be won; stunned by a sudden blow, instantly dragged away, hastily quartered alive, next moment in the glowing oven; his place is vacant in the ranks, his very body can scarcely be said to exist. While his flesh is roasting the battle rages on, and at night his remains furnish forth a banquet for the victors, and there is much boasting and great glory."

It may well be asked whether the alleged delicate sensitiveness of this people in their agrarian bargains with the European immigrants is more than a convenient fiction. And it might reasonably have been predicted that such a people would be disinclined to permanently exchange the blood-heating excitements of war for the blood-chilling pleasures of peace. The wonder would have been if two essentially dissimilar races could have met on the same soil without the barbarism and civilisation which they represented coming into deadly antagonism.

The third fact is that the Maori has always been peculiarly susceptible to religious fanaticism. Imagination is a large element in the Maori intellect, and consequently has had large influence in making and marring Maori history. The very readiness with which this people flung aside their own mythology for the theology of missionary and settler foreshadowed a possible abandonment of the new faith—for it was the poetry rather than the morality of the European religion that effected their nominal conversion, and another successful appeal to their powerful but wayward fancy had always to be counted as a possibility. Amongst such a people there is a constant danger that a madman may be regarded as a prophet.

Now see how these three facts touch the recent war between Maori and Pakeha, and, for the sake of brevity, let the consideration be limited to Taranaki, the province in which the hostilities originated, and raged longest and fiercest. We shall do Mr. Rusden no injustice by this limitation, for he takes interminable pains to show that the most patriotic natives and most wicked settlers dwelt in Taranaki. First, then, the Taranaki Maori was and is just as abominably and fatally lazy as his countrymen north and south. Work was the devil whom he hated and fled from. Travellers in New Guinea have painted some charming pictures of the industrious Papuan, but no such pretty plantations tempted the artist in Taranaki. Probably the English reader of Mr. Rusden's book gets the idea that the Maori population of that province was exceedingly numerous, and that the aggressive settlers ousted their coloured neighbours from neat villages and ploughed fields. Nothing of the kind. The piece of land—the purchase of which from the chief who was honestly believed to be the owner nominally caused the war—was not a thousand acres in extent, and what was not swamp was, some ten acres or less excepted, covered with fern, and probably had been covered with fern for centuries. The province of Taranaki has a coast line of more than a hundred miles, and contains more than two million acres of land. Probably less than a thousand acres were cultivated by the couple of thousand natives. Luxuriant forest and fern attested the fertility of the soil, but the attestation would have had no significance to the end of the world if the soil had remained in the aboriginal ownership. The dispossession of the Maori is really a fiction. He would fortify a hill, and look proudly upon and talk eloquently about the surrounding country, but never put a spade into it. The possession of his native soil was little more than a sentiment. On the other hand, the Taranaki settlers were as moral and industrious a body of pioneers as ever emigrated to the southern world. Mr. Rusden exhausts his copious invective in attempts to describe and anathematise their "rapacity," but the invective only illuminates his ignorance of the men he clumsily vilifies. What was the unscrupulous rapacity complained of? Simply that when these Devonshire immigrants, who had with indomitable courage and energy made homes for themselves on the harbourless coast of an island which was literally the antipodes of England, found their sons growing up with no opportunities for making themselves similar homes, because all the waste lands of the province were held by the few Maoris, they petitioned the Government of the day to purchase some of these lands from such natives as were willing to sell them. For this natural and constitutional action they are now execrated by Mr. G. W. Rusden.

The broad assertion that the land was often made to yield not a reason, but an excuse, for an appeal to arms was vividly illustrated in the origin of the Taranaki war. The Waitara block, the alleged casus belli, lay to the north of the town of New Plymouth. The natives to the south of the town were an entirely different tribe, and never pretended to even a shadow of ownership of the disputed land. But no sooner were the soldiers and natives in conflict at Waitara than the southern tribe, in the lust of blood and the lust of plunder, plotted the massacre of every man, woman, and child in New Plymouth, and the confiscation or appropriation of all the European property. They were bravely fought and their infamous design defeated when they were within only four miles of the little town. Mr. Rusden utterly fails in his attempt to gloss over this bit of real Maori history. There are tribes who would murder and plunder to-morrow if they dared. As Judge Maning showed, such was their national character. The war wave would never have rolled from Taranaki through the other provinces of the island—through Auckland, Wellington, and Hawke's Bay—if it had not been liberally fed everywhere by the rekindled heathen passion. The Irishman longing for the Saxon to tread on the tail of his coat as an excuse for a little shillelagh exercise is akin to the Maori who made a small land purchase in Taranaki the pretext for returning once more to his musket and spear.

The potency of religious fanaticism was also exhibited in Taranaki. In the years through which the disastrous conflict was continued the original motives lost their vitality and a new one was wanted to sustain and extend the struggle. The Waitara land was practically forgotten, the feverish pagan thirst for blood burned itself out, and then the racial hatred got another lease from an opportune outburst of fanaticism. The doings of the Hau Haus, as the fanatics were popularly called, and nearly all the rebels hastened to profess the new faith, will be one of the terrible memories of New Zealand. It was the great religious ambition of the Hau Hau to drive the Pakeha into the sea. Thus the war was suddenly lifted to another plane. Soldiers and settlers had to fight with madmen. It was pitiful and terrible. But Mr. Rusden is evidently ignorant of the importance of this ghastly episode in Maori history.

Indeed, the conviction is forced upon anybody really conversant with the colony, the natives, and the settlers that Mr. Rusden has not the intimate knowledge of the country and the two races which alone would justify him in posing before the world as the historian of New Zealand. He will have to take his place among the literary pretenders of the century. His quotations, repetitions, and imputations will become a byword. His name will come to represent in literature almost everything which history is not. He will possibly achieve immortality by means of his book, but it will be of the melancholy sort that makes literary aspirants shudder to think of.

PROTECTION AND POLITICAL REFORM LEAGUE.

The Protection and Political Reform League held its first meeting under the newly-elected president, Mr. William Richardson, at the Temperance Hall on Thursday evening. After the usual adoption of the minutes of the last meeting, the secretary, Mr. R. C. Luscombe, read a report of the proceedings he had taken, in accordance with instructions. The report was adopted. Mr. J. Gardiner was duly elected a member of the league. Letters were read having reference to league business from Mr. H. J. Byrne, J.P., of Parramatta; Mr. A. Hutchinson, of Glen Innes; and Mr. J. G. Griffin, of the Australian Club; and answers to the same were authorised. The notice of motion given on last Thursday by Mr. Isaac Laver for an alteration of the day of meeting lapsed through the absence of that gentleman. The next business, that of ways and means for advancing the interests of those engaged in colonial industries, and the progress of the league, was then entered on, and a long discussion ensued, in which nearly every member took part. The importance of the subject brought out many suggestions. Reference was frequently made to the various exhibitions of foreign industries, and of the manufactures and productions of every portion of the world, and that not one solely devoted to the exhibition of our own productions had been set on foot in New South Wales. Mr. J. B. Douglass moved, and Mr. J. M. Fearnley seconded the following resolution:—"That this league take measures for holding in Sydney a public exhibition of manufactured and unmanufactured articles of every description, the productions of New South Wales only; that a committee be appointed for maturing the project, and then wait in deputation on the Government, and ask for a vote of money towards a public exhibition of colonial industries." Carried unanimously. From the members present the following were elected a committee:—Messrs. Douglass, Walsh, Gardiner, Westlake, S. Brown, J. M. Fearnley, G. Brown, Luscombe, and Richardson. Mr. Luscombe suggested that it would be necessary to appoint a permanent chairman and secretary to this committee, as the correspondence was likely to be extensive, and his own services would be taken up with the executive portion of the work. Mr. J. B. Douglass was therefore elected chairman, and Mr. G. Brown (of Whitely and Brown, George-street) secretary to the committee. A progress report was requested to be made by the committee on Thursday, the 18th instant. The next business had reference to some irregularities said to be carried on in connection with the Government railway works. After considerable discussion, the following resolution was carried, on the motion of Mr. Luscombe, seconded by Mr. Gardiner:—"That this league approves of the action taken by its delegate (Mr. J. B. Douglass) in trying to discover whether any political wrong is being done to the railway workmen." After receipt of subscriptions, and acknowledgment of the same, the meeting adjourned to Thursday, the 18th.

THE HOSPITAL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—A few passing thoughts in plain words, from a plain man, anent the agitation respecting our hospital, may be of some interest at present, and deemed worthy of space in your columns.

The present agitation is justifiable, if there is any danger of our accident hospital being removed to a greater distance from the wharfs, manufacturing centres, and the terminus of our great traffic, and perhaps it is as well "to lock the stable door before the horse escapes"—for Ministers are mortals, and fallible, liable to err like other men, and being a very important matter it demands serious consideration from them, and there can be no harm in their duly weighing and marking the various opinions that obtain on this question.

The hospital directors will not be offended when I say that in my opinion they committed a serious mistake when they decided upon erecting so extensive and costly a building on the Macquarie-street site, or any site; but if they are personally liable for this £12,000, which will only add a few more feet to the walls, I do not think the Government or the Parliament will see them mulcted in this sum, for those large buildings will be required for public offices. Better do this than pay £2000 a year rent for a single office, as is the case with the Mines Office.

For my own part, I was always of opinion that it is a grievous mistake to erect very expensive and permanent buildings for hospitals, and nothing has transpired to cause me to alter this opinion; on the contrary, many reasons have been shown why it should not be so. Nor do I think that it requires much scientific learning to arrive at a fair knowledge of the healthiest and most suitable buildings for that purpose. Common sense might tell anyone that the germs of disease and corruption must enter and permeate the walls and floors of a hospital; and the longer a hospital is used the more saturated it becomes, and hence the greater danger to the health and constitution of the ever-incoming and healthy patient. Far better to erect commodious, inexpensive, and comfortable, but at the same time temporary edifices, that can, after the lapse of a few years, be pulled down and destroyed.

Again, I am persuaded that a hospital or hospitals for chronic cases, or other ailments than accidents, should be out of town some considerable distance, and one or two accident hospitals in Sydney—say one at South Sydney, and another at or somewhere about Flagstaff Hill. Indeed I am somewhat inclined to the belief that one at the latter place would be sufficient, and there is not a more suitable place or site in the city; it is contiguous to the wharfs, where so many accidents ever occur, convenient to the large manufacturing suburbs of Balmain, Pyrmont, and St. Leonards; also to the traffic terminus and business centres, besides being elevated and surrounded by the harbour on two sides, the healthiest and coolest place in the city during the summer, and being so high over the immediate part of the city, any danger arising from the infectious air or wind would be remote. And another recommendation it has which should not be overlooked is that the view of the city and the country round from the South Head on the east to the Blue Mountains on the west, hence south and east to Botany Bay, is not to be surpassed; and this, simple as it may appear to some, would, I submit, be a factor in the means employed for the speedier recovery of patients.

Since penning the above I have perused the speeches of those who took a leading part in last night's meeting, professedly protesting against the removal of the hospital from its present site, and they argue as if there was no more suitable place for it, and that there would be no hospital at all if this everlasting castle is not completed as projected. But what I regret most at this meeting, and nearly all similar meetings, is the denunciation of the upper class—"mushroom aristocrats," as one speaker at that meeting euphoniously—at any rate to his audience—styled them. If ever such a result is to be brought about as that—

> "Man to man the whole world o'er > Shall brothers be, and a' that"— this is not the way to proceed. Let them not be offended, for what I say is in a friendly and generous spirit, and I am one of themselves—that is, of the working class—never was anything else, nor do I expect nor particularly desire to be otherwise; and I am persuaded there are few of them, indeed, who have worked harder and experienced so many trials, difficulties, and temptations during my working days of 45 years in this country.

Then the member for West Sydney (Mr. Abigail) must needs denounce the residents of Macquarie-street who would dare to suggest another—and perhaps more suitable—site, as if they were not human because they happen, or can afford, to live there.

I think it is natural to us all to feel interested in our own and families' welfare in the first place, if we are ever so generous, especially if we can serve our fellows and humanity in another and less objectionable way.

Trusting my ideas thus expressed may be of service in the settlement of this important matter, and tending to the forbearing of one with another, and that they will be received in the spirit in which they are given,

I am, &c.,
Sydney, Oct. 4. W. FRASER MARTIN.

LAW REPORT.

INSOLVENCY COURT.—FRIDAY.

(Before the CHIEF COMMISSIONER.)

In the matter of Samuel Simonds Howes, an adjourned application for a certificate. A further adjournment was directed to 11th instant.

In the matter of Thomas Cooper Neaves, third meeting. Five debts were proved, no directions were given, and the meeting terminated.

In the matter of William Howlett, third meeting. No debts were proved, no directions were given, and the meeting terminated.

In the matter of Harrison Waddington, third meeting. Three debts were proved, and directions were given that three others stand over for further consideration, as objection was taken to them by Mr. Nash, for the official assignee. The claim of the Mercantile Bank against the estate was again considered. Frederick A. A. Wilson, manager of the Mercantile Bank, examined by Mr. Nash, counsel for the official assignee, stated: My affidavit seeks to prove for £19,010 3s. 11d.; my bank has been doing business with Mr. Waddington for some years, and he has during the course of that business endorsed to the bank a number of promissory-notes; there was no special agreement between the insolvent and the bank as to how those promissory-notes should be treated; I did not treat the bills as bills endorsed to me for collection, I treated them as bills for discount; I think it was about the middle or the end of March when I first became aware that insolvent was in financial difficulties; it may have been on the 17th March that I had notice from the insolvent that he had stopped payment; in insolvent's last bank pass book there are entries of two large sums of money representing bills discounted; those bills had been held by the bank for some time; the proceeds were not passed to Waddington's credit until after he had stopped payment, but we had paid the money before that by allowing him to draw generally against the bills; it is not necessarily the practice of a bank when discounting a note to place the proceeds to the credit of the customer at the time; there is a distinction between what my bank did with these notes and notes endorsed for collection; the distinction is that bills endorsed to us for collection are entered into a bill-collection book; bills for discount are entered in another book kept for that purpose; these notes were entered in the discount book, and Waddington knew they were so entered; there is no particular time for passing the proceeds of a discounted bill to a customer's credit, it depends altogether on the state of the customer's account; the practice is common with banks, but it varies in different banks; it is the custom to give to persons discounting a bill a discount slip after the amount has been passed to the customer's credit, but only when the slip is called for; Waddington's notes were discounted on the dates of the entries in the pass book; the bank may have collected some bills for insolvent, but that would be the exception and not the rule, and they were not for large amounts; at the time my bank discounted the bills insolvent's account was largely overdrawn, and it needed these bills to set it right; we have received £799 14s. 9d. as part payment of these notes, and partly as a compromise; we received this amount from the makers of the notes; we compromised because the persons who endorsed the bills informed us that they had not received all the goods for which the bills had been given; I have given the amount of the notes and the amount we have received in schedule F; I have not given any notice to the official assignee of cases in which I compromised; in any case in which I compromised, I reserved my rights against all others with regard to the full payment for the bills; in Long's case the notes represented £281 4s. 10d.; I think we released him on his payment of 2s. 6d. in the £; with reference to Kinloch's matter, I recollect some of his bills being discounted by Waddington; it is not true that the securities given were to cover the exact amount of Kinloch's bills; Waddington had large dealings with Kinloch about that time; he wished me to discount Kinloch's bills, and he told me that Kinloch had given him security for them and for the goods which he was to supply Kinloch with from time to time; I told him we would discount those bills if he transferred that security to the bank; he brought the security, and ultimately it was completed; he wanted some modification in the form of security, but I declined to agree to it; he was overdrawn at this time; his overdraft was covered then by bills which we held for discount, and which have since been paid; some of Kinloch's notes have not yet been paid. By Dr. Donovan (counsel for the Mercantile Bank): The arrangement made from the first by Waddington with me in respect of bills which he lodged with the bank was to bring his bill in for discount in order to have an overdraft, and I was to discount his bills from time to time at my discretion; I am sure with reference to what took place at the bank when Waddington executed the security that the bank refused to limit that security to the amount of Kinloch's bills then lodged in the bank, or to Kinloch's bills generally; it was clearly explained to Waddington on that occasion that the bank's security was to extend to the whole of his indebtedness to the bank, both then and at any future time; Waddington fully understood that, and agreed to it. By Mr. Nash: There are no other persons except those mentioned in my schedule F, from whom I have received sums in respect of promissory notes. His Honor directed that a further affidavit be made to amend the proof of the debt, and the meeting was then adjourned to the 19th instant.

In the matter of Henry John Withers, third meeting. No debts were proved, no directions were given, and the meeting terminated.

In the matter of John Stevenson, second meeting. Insolvent was examined, and added one debt to his schedule. He was directed to file his statement under Rule 20, and his six months' accounts; four debts were proved, and the meeting terminated.

In the matter of Ark Chow, a special meeting for proof of debts. Three debts were allowed, the consideration of one was postponed, and the meeting terminated.

In the matters of Daniel Innes, Joseph Donolly, and Peter O'Sullivan, first meetings. One debt was admitted in Innes' estate, and the meetings terminated.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT COURT.—FRIDAY.

(Before Mr. District Court Judge DOWLING.)

GRAHAM AND ANOTHER V. O'GRADY AND ANOTHER.

In this case Thomas and Isabella Graham proceeded against J. O'Grady and his wife, of Gladesville, for slander, but the Judge ruled that the case was beyond his jurisdiction.

PRICE V. LENNON.

In this case W. H. Price sued J. G. Lennon, of Woollahra, for damages for alleged false imprisonment and assault. Plaintiff's case was that defendant maliciously charged him with assault, upon which charge he was arrested, but on being tried, was discharged. Plaintiff also charged defendant with having assaulted him. It appeared that defendant had made a mistake with regard to the plaintiff's identity when he gave him in charge, it being proved that plaintiff was at work in a shaft connected with the city sewerage works at the time of the alleged assault. On the first count the Judge gave a verdict for defendant, and on the second for plaintiff, with a farthing damages.

METROPOLITAN QUARTER SESSIONS.

FRIDAY.

(Before Mr. District Court Judge M'FARLAND.)

Mr. P. J. Healy prosecuted on behalf of the Crown.

FALSE PRETENCES.

Clara Thomas, a young married woman, was charged with having, on the 29th May last, obtained by means of false pretences 16 yards of satin and other goods, valued at £6 4s., the property of Messrs. Thompson and Giles. The accused pleaded not guilty, and was undefended. The evidence for the prosecution was to the effect that about mid-day on the 29th May last the accused went into Messrs. Thompson and Giles' shop, and said she had a commission from Mrs. Sutton, of Five Dock, to purchase a dresspiece according to a pattern which she had with her. Mr. M'Dowell, one of the assistants, showed her some samples, and eventually she selected 16 yards of satin at 5s. 11d. per yard, and some gloves and other articles, the total value of which was £6 4s. She stated in the course of her conversation that she was a Miss Thorne, sister of Miss Thorne of Potts Point, and as she addressed Mr. M'Dowell by name, he concluded that she must be a customer at the shop. She requested him to send the goods to the Redfern station, in time for the 2 p.m. train, when she would take the parcel home with her. Mr. M'Dowell, knowing that Mrs. Sutton lived at Five Dock, and having no reason to doubt the statement of an apparently respectable young lady, ordered the goods to be sent in time to catch the train. Mr. M'Dowell said, "I am quite certain as to her identity, as I took very particular notice of her at the time of the purchase, because she called me by my own name, and because I could not recollect having seen her before; I am quite sure she is the person; I have no doubt about it." Mr. M'Dowell explained that he fixed the date from the entry in the shop books. Mr. J. H. Smythe, another assistant in Messrs. Thompson and Giles', and who was standing close to Mr. M'Dowell at the time he was serving the accused, was also positive as to her identity. He saw her again on the morning of the inquiry at the police court; she was then coming down stairs from Mr. Giles' office. In the course of time a bill was presented to Mr. Sutton, of Five Dock, when it was discovered that Mrs. Sutton had been absent from the colony for months, that nobody had been authorised to obtain those goods in Mrs. Sutton's name, and that they had never been received by any of the family. A warrant was then issued against some person unknown, and from the description given the police arrested Clara Thomas at her mother's house, North Willoughby. When taken to the police station both Mr. M'Dowell and Mr. Smythe positively identified her as the person who was supplied with the satin on the 29th May. Mr. Giles, member of the firm of Thompson and Giles, deposed that while the case was pending at the police court the accused came to him and asked him to forgive her and not press the charge against her, and she would pay him double the price of the silk. Mr. Giles replied that he could not do that, as he would be compounding a felony. In cross-examination by the accused, Mr. Giles admitted that had he received payment for the goods before the proceedings commenced he would not have prosecuted. Evidence was given to prove that the accused was no relation whatever of Miss Thorne, of Potts Point, and that she had no authority to get goods in Mrs. Sutton's name. The only witness called for the defence was a man named Duffy, who produced a diary containing an entry to the effect that Mrs. Clara Thomas called at his house at North Willoughby on the 29th May. He believed that the accused had dinner with him and his mother that day, and that she remained there two or three days. His Honor in summing up pointed out that both the shop assistants were very positive as to the identity of the accused. The evidence given on the other side was that of the man Duffy, but it was very singular that his mother, who was said to have been present on the occasions, was not called in corroboration of his story. The jury, after half an hour's consultation, returned a verdict of not guilty. His Honor, in ordering the discharge of the accused, said he understood that she had appeared several times before the Court on charges of this kind, and he hoped he would never see her in a similar position again.

FRAUDULENT REPRESENTATIONS.

Henry J. Hough was charged with having fraudulently represented to a man named Forbes that he and a partner named Barrett were carrying on a business as hotel brokers, which yielded a profit of £30 a week, and was so profitable that it would be worth the while of Forbes to pay a certain sum of money and give certain security to become a member of the firm. After the case had been opened by the Crown Prosecutor, his Honor said that it appeared to him that this firm did in reality exist, and, that being so, he was of opinion that as a matter of law the indictment did not lie, because, even assuming that there was fraudulent representation as to the profits of that business, that was not a subject for a criminal prosecution. It might or might not be the subject of a civil action for fraudulent representation, but not a criminal prosecution. Accordingly, under his direction and on his responsibility, the jury would return a verdict of not guilty. Mr. Wallace, who appeared for the defence, said that, even if the indictment did lie, he had sufficient evidence to prove that there was no fraudulent representation on the part of the defendant. The jury, as directed, returned a verdict of not guilty.

MALICIOUSLY WOUNDING.

Three youths named William M'Carthy, James Bourke, and George Edward Forster were charged with wilfully and maliciously wounding a man named French. It appeared that French and some friends were trying to get into the City Bank Hotel at 12 o'clock at night, when the prisoners came up and said they would go in at the same time. Some disturbance ensued, in which French took no part, and eventually the three prisoners started throwing stones, one of which inflicted a very severe wound on French. The jury found the prisoners guilty. Two of them had been three or four times convicted of police court offences, and Constable Sproule deposed that he had known them as companions for a long time, and in the habit of associating with thieves and prostitutes. His Honor characterised the assault as cowardly and dastardly. The prisoners were evidently larrikins of the worst type, and he was determined, whenever offenders of this kind came before him, to make an example of them. He sentenced them each to three years' hard labour.

The Court of Quarter Sessions will not sit till Friday next, when applications for roads and appeals will be heard.

POLICE.

CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

Mr. Clarke, S.M., presided on the bench in the Central Police Charge Court yesterday.

A number of cases of drunkenness were dealt with.

John Kelly, aged 33 years, on a charge of having assaulted Thomas Noonan within view of a police constable, was fined £5, or, in default, was sentenced to be imprisoned for two months; and on a charge of having assaulted Constable Hayes in the execution of his duty, was sentenced to be imprisoned for one month, with hard labour.

James Halloren, aged 27 years, was charged with having stolen an axe of the value of 4s., the property of Jacob Orth, at Sydney. The prosecutor on Thursday night lost the axe produced in Court, which had been found in the possession of the prisoner.

Wm. Burt, on a charge of having assaulted one Chas. Foreman, was sentenced to be imprisoned for three months.

Mary Ann Davis, on a charge of having no visible lawful means of support, was sentenced to be imprisoned for four months' with hard labour; and on a charge of having used indecent language in George-street, was fined £5, or, in default, imprisonment for two months.

Mr. Dillon, S.M., presided on the bench in the Summons Court.

A number of breaches of the Police Act were dealt with.

Mary O'Brien, alias Bridget Edwards, was charged with having sold liquor she not being licensed to do so. William Ellis, barrister-at-law, Inner Temple, London, deposed that he had just arrived in the colony and was at present staying at the Royal Hotel, George-street, on Friday evening, 28th ultimo, he met a friend and they went to the defendant's residence, Cleveland House, Buckingham-street. The defendant was there, also a young woman, they asked witness and his friend to take a glass of wine; they did so, and witness went into the next room and played a waltz, and then returning, they drank three bottles of champagne between the four of them; the bottles were taken out of a cupboard in the room where witness was sitting; they then said good-bye, and witness and his friend went outside, intending to go away, but someone shouted out something about paying for the wine; he said to his friend "Have you not paid?, let us return;" they did return, and witness went back into the room, and suddenly he discovered that the door had been shut on him and his friend had left him; the defendant was in the room, and another girl came in and said, "You have lots of money, you pay," and told him his friend had gone; they asked him for 30s., and he said he would not pay unless he was set free; the defendant used some bad language, took a bottle in her hand and sat beside the door, and said "You won't go out of this till you pay;" he still refused, but promised to pay if they let him go; he was detained thus for two hours, and he then offered to give his watch as security for the debt, but they refused it; he then made a rush and got out of the house, and his hat was handed to him over the rails; as he passed out he saw five or six men drinking porter in a room; he went to the police station and gave information, and next day, in company with Constable Carmody, went back to defendant's house; they were shown into a room on the left, and he there saw a female, and he asked her if she had any stout in the house, as he wanted a drink; she called out to another female, asking if there was any stout, and she replying that there was some in the house, witness ordered a bottle, and he and the constable went into another room, where they were joined by defendant and two other females, and five small glasses of porter were poured out; witness then said to defendant, when they had taken the drink, "I must be going; here are 30s. for the champagne last night, and what do I owe for the stout?" one of the girls said 5s.; he gave her three florins, and the girl gave him back a shilling, which he returned to the defendant on her asking him to do so; Constable Carmody announced who he was, and took the names of those present. Constable Carmody corroborated the latter portion of Mr. Ellis' evidence. The accused, after the case had been remanded, pleaded guilty, and was fined £30—the lowest penalty, it being a first offence—the fine to carry costs, £1 6s. 6d.

WATER POLICE COURT.

Messrs. Marsh and Addison, S.Ms., presided at the Water Police Court yesterday.

Thomas Blake, or Budd, was sent to gaol for two months for stealing a dress of the value of 12s. 6d., the property of John Williams Hadden. The prosecutor, who resides in King-street, saw the prisoner steal the dress off a clothes-line, and at once gave him in charge.

Alice Ridgley was sent to gaol for two months on the charge of stealing £5 19s. 6d. from the person of Daniel Donovan. The woman was seen following Donovan about, and finally in a public-house he missed his money, and gave information to the police. The woman was arrested, whereupon she gave Constable Saunderson Donovan's purse, and said that she had taken care of it, as the prosecutor was in bad company. Ridgley was afterwards sentenced to three months' imprisonment for riotous behaviour.

In the Summons Court, Inspector Seymour prosecuted 49 persons for breaches of the bylaws, and in the majority of cases fines were imposed. Elizabeth Donnelly, or Danielle, 100, Brougham-street, and Patrick Dogherty, 157, Duke-street, were each fined £5, with 5s. costs, or in default two months' imprisonment, for keeping their premises in a filthy state.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

The City Coroner held an inquest at Five Dock, yesterday, upon the body of woman named Kate Cahillane who committed suicide by drowning herself in an underground tank the previous day. James Turner, residing at Homestead, Five Dock, deposed that the deceased who was about 25 or 26 years of age, had been in his employment as a domestic servant; the papers produced with the deceased's hand-writing upon them were found, one upon the dressing table in the deceased's bedroom, and the other upon the dining-room table; he observed nothing strange about the deceased lately; she was missed on Thursday morning, and when witness returned from town on Thursday afternoon he found her dead. Constable Johnson, stationed at Five Dock, deposed that at about half-past 8 o'clock on Thursday morning a man named Henry Potter, who was employed by Mr. Turner, called upon him, and told him that the deceased was missing, and that he had reason to believe that she had done away with herself; witness went to Mr. Turner's residence, and upon searching an underground tank on the premises he found the body of the deceased; the body was fully dressed, with the exception of a hat. Dr. Jones, who had examined the body, deposed that death had resulted from suffocation by drowning. Elizabeth M'Rae, residing at Homestead, Five Dock, deposed that she had noticed that the deceased was at times very excitable, and at other times very melancholy, but she had never said anything which led witness to think that she contemplated suicide; the deceased told witness on one occasion that there was something preying upon her mind, and that she had been accused at the convent of not being a good girl, and that she had been accused wrongfully; during the past month the deceased had been in a despondent state; on Thursday morning, about a quarter past 6 o'clock, witness found the door of the deceased's bedroom open, and saw that her bed had not been slept upon; upon entering the room, she found a piece of paper with pencil writing upon it, and she subsequently found a similar piece of paper in the dining-room; witness could find no trace of the deceased, but on noticing that the lid was not on the tank she concluded that the deceased was there; she called a man, who subsequently went for the constable. This concluded the evidence, and the jury found that the deceased was found drowned in a water-tank, and that the drowning was her own act.

ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY.

A meeting of the managing committee of the Zoological Society of New South Wales was held at the society's room Moore Park yesterday afternoon. The chair was occupied by the president, Mr. Arthur T. Holroyd, and there were present Messrs. A. Harcourt, D. Holborow, C. Moore, W. Beaumont, Dr. Bennett, and the secretary, Mr. Catlett. The secretary reported that accounts amounting to £327 14s. 2d. had been paid. Accounts amounting to £110 9s. 8d. were passed for payment. The secretary reported that since the last meeting of the general committee the staff of workmen had been employed in filling up the ground near the new turnstiles to the level of the outside pathway. In doing this the work had been economised by excavating the soil from a spot which would make a good pond for the elephant to bathe in. The soil from the pond had also been utilised in top dressing the lawn near the band enclosure. A tender of £500 has been accepted for the erection of the monkey house, but that sum did not include the heating apparatus, which would probably cost another £100. A tender had also been accepted for the completion of the fence round the society's ground. The executive committee had increased the staff of workmen from four to nine, and a gatekeeper would be required as soon as the turnstiles were finished. The following donations were received during the past month, viz.:—A case of stuffed birds from Mr. James Hill, of Vaucluse; one volume of Griffiths' "Quadrumana" from Mr. Arthur T. Holroyd, of Burwood; a native bear and an opossum from Mr. Oliver Carter, of Golden Vale, Sutton Forest; a collection of gladioli and 12 double petunias from Messrs. J. Graham and Co., of the Sydney Markets; a collection of flower seeds from Mr. James Martin, of George-street; two young black swans, from Mr. John See, of Randwick; one parrot, from Mr. Brown, of Redfern; one mollyauk, from Mr. Frost, of 307, Elizabeth-street; one mollyauk, from Mr. Gale, of Paddington; 14 white rats, from Mr. G. F. Want, Potts' Point; one pair of cassowaries, from another contributor; one cassowary, from Mr. Bell, of Moore Park; one brown banded snake, from Mr. Affriatt Wilson, of the Blue Mountains; nine bantams, one pair of Rouen ducks, and one pair of Toulouse geese, from Mr. J. F. Walker, of Macquarie Plains, Tasmania; two pair of skylarks, from Mr. Bills, Circular Quay; one pair of white rats and one pair of black and white rats, from Mr. Walter Bradley, of Randwick; and one skin of emu, from Mr. S. M. Frankland, of Burwood. A letter was received from Mr. John Williams, offering the society 16 pairs of clam shells for the sum of £20. It was resolved that the matter should remain in abeyance. A letter was received from a subscriber at Toowoomba, offering to exchange a pair of whistling ducks and a white opossum for a pair of pheasants. The matter was postponed till after the breeding season. Mr. Samuel M. Frankland wrote asking for a pair of Californian quail. It was resolved to comply with the request. A communication was also received from Mr. Irving Winter, asking that he might be supplied with a few partridges or Californian quail. It was found that the request could not be complied with, as none of the birds could be spared. After the discussion of one or two matters of minor importance, the meeting was adjourned.

At a meeting of the committee of the Zoological Society of New South Wales, which was held some months ago, and presided over by Dr. George Bennett, a letter was read from Mr. Edward Moriarty, dated 1st July, stating that some time since Mrs. Moriarty had received a letter from a friend in England, making inquiries, on behalf of Lord Braybrooke, as to the possibility of obtaining some silver pheasants. As none of the committee could give any information, or had ever heard of the "Audley strain" in pheasants, Dr. Bennett wrote to Mr. W. J. Williams, the assistant secretary to the Zoological Society of London, to give him some information on the subject; and he received the following reply, dated 16th June, 1883:—"I am sorry to say I cannot make out anything of the 'Audley strain' of pheasants. I asked Mr. Tegetmeir, who is an authority on the gallinaceous birds, but he is unable to tell me. He has heard of an 'Audley strain' of cattle, but not of pheasants."

EVAPORATION AND IRRIGATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Now that the correspondence on evaporation and irrigation seems to be drawing to a close, I will call your attention to a few facts which seem to me beyond dispute.

We have in New South Wales about 100,000,000 acres of land along the eastern side of the colony with a sufficient rainfall to allow of profitable cultivation without irrigation. A similar area in Europe—say in France or Germany will support a population of about 30,000,000 of people. In France or Germany the rainfall is not greater than in the eastern half of New South Wales, and the mineral treasures which help to support population are not nearly so great.

We do not at present cultivate 1 per cent of this area, and I will ask is it not the very height of folly to be thinking of irrigating the far Western plains, either by artesian water or from the rivers, when we have made so little use of the land which Nature has furnished ready to our hands with a sufficient rainfall and with advantages of being near the sea coast, and which is already traversed by railways and roads? Until we have in New South Wales a population of at least 20,000,000 the question of cultivating the Western plains will not become a practical one. I have always held, and I think every one who knows the country will agree with me, that the only thing that can be done with the country lying west of the Darling, and some to the south and east of that river, is to increase its stock-carrying capacity; and the first thing to be done for that purpose is to make permanent water in some way. This is the only kind of irrigation required or possible for the next 50 or 100 years, or until population begins to press on the means of subsistence in the eastern half of the colony.

I am,
Wingen, October 2. W. F. ABBOTT.

The P. and O. Company's magnificent R.M. steamship Clyde left the harbour yesterday on her voyage to London, via Melbourne, Adelaide, and Suez. She hauled off from her berth at the company's wharf, Circular Quay, shortly after 12 o'clock, and was assisted to the stream by the steamer Commodore. The Heads were cleared at about a quarter to 3 o'clock. The Clyde took a very fair complement of passengers, a good proportion of whom were booked for the through voyage to London. She leaves this port in excellent trim, and no doubt the good reputation which she has well earned in the matter of affording comfort to passengers will be upheld in the run home. Amongst her cargo were quantities of wool, copper, pearlshell, and tinned meats, these being the principal exports taken by her.

The barque Alexander Newton came in yesterday with a cargo of sugar, most of which was consigned to the Colonial Sugar Company. She is from Port Mackay, whence a departure was taken on the 24th ultimo. North winds were met with until after passing Sunday Cape, when for two days (the 29th and 30th) a strong gale was experienced from the S.E., accompanied by a high turbulent sea. Afterwards light variables prevailed until the vessel had passed the Clarence River on the 3rd instant, and thence moderate northerly winds to arrival. The Heads were made at 2 a.m. yesterday, and the Alexander Newton came up to the Sugar Company's wharf later on.

The Messageries Maritimes Company's steamship Sydney returned from Noumea yesterday. She left at 7 a.m. on the 2nd instant, and being favoured with fine weather, she was able to make a good passage across. The Heads were entered at about 1 o'clock, and at half-past 2 the Sydney had brought up at the company's wharf, Circular Quay.

The Rodondo (s.) left Melbourne at 1.30 p.m. on the 2nd instant, and cleared Port Phillip Heads at 6 p.m. She passed Wilson's Promontory at 3.20 a.m. on the 3rd, Gabo at 10.25 p.m. same date, Cape St. George at 3.40 p.m. on the 4th, and entered Sydney Heads at 2 a.m. yesterday. She had moderate northerly winds to the Promontory, thence to arrival strong head winds and high sea.

The Platypus (s.) crossed the Macleay River Bar at 10.10 a.m. on the 4th instant, and arrived in Sydney at 3.15 a.m. yesterday. She experienced northerly winds throughout. On the passage down she called at Port Macquarie for passengers. Her cargo consists of 1400 bags maize, 30 hides, 60 pigs, 16 coops poultry, 10 case-eggs, and sundries.

The City of Melbourne (s.), cleared Port Phillip Heads at 5.20 p.m. on the 3rd instant, and rounded the Promontory at 1.25 a.m. on the 4th; Gabo Island was passed at 5.20 p.m., and she entered the Heads at 5.45 p.m. yesterday. Variable winds and thick weather were experienced to the Promontory, thence N. E. and strong northerly winds, with high sea.

Messrs. George R. Stevens and Co.'s steamer Suez, from Hongkong to Sydney, via ports, arrived at Cooktown on Thursday, and at 4 o'clock in the afternoon she resumed her voyage to Sydney, calling at Townsville and Brisbane. From Thursday Island she brings 88 cases of pearl shell. Her Hongkong cargo consists of 2044 tons, distributed as follows:—Port Darwin and Queensland ports, 480; for Sydney, 1420 tons; for Melbourne, 890 tons; optional cargo for either Brisbane, Sydney, or Melbourne; for Newcastle, 7 tons; for Adelaide, 46 tons. She brings 10 European and 14 Chinese passengers for Sydney, and 4 Chinese for Melbourne.

The C. and R. R. S. N. Company's steamer Coraki, which has been employed in the trade between Sydney and the Richmond River since 1879, was lately withdrawn, owing to her being too small to meet the increasing requirements of this service, and replaced by the Tomki, which was specially built for the trade. The company then decided to lengthen the Coraki and place her in the Macleay trade, her light draught rendering her specially suitable for the navigation of this river. On the 6th August she was taken over to the A. S. N. Company's Works, and cut in two from the fore part of the engine-room, and lengthened by 20 feet. The boiler and engines which were taken out of her were thoroughly overhauled, new pistons being supplied to the engines, and all minor parts replaced. The hull has been strengthened equal to a Lloyd's classification of 100 A. Four wrought iron box keelsons have been fitted into her; these run the whole length of the vessel, and owing to their rigidity and the manner in which they bind the hull, should minimise any damage likely to arrive from grounding when crossing bar harbours. Her passenger accommodation has been greatly increased and improved. The cabin now embraces the whole of the space from the break of the poop to the transoms, and is intended to hold 24 passengers. Sleeping compartments have been partitioned off from the main or dining cabin, which has been supplied with all conveniences, and is very neatly fitted up. Perfect ventilation has been secured by air shafts from the deck. On deck a house extends nearly the whole length of the poop; this contains the captain's cabin and a ladies' cabin. The latter should prove a great boon to lady passengers, whose comfort has evidently been the chief consideration of the directors in fitting up this compartment. A tiny lavatory is situated at the end of the house. Roomy quarters for the officers, and a mail and parcel room are under the bridge. The steerage has also been enlarged and improved. Substantial fittings are being constructed near the bows to hold 10 head of stock. The fore hatch has been lengthened to 20 feet, to enable her to ship logs or bulky cargo with facility, and at each hold a powerful winch has been placed. She has been supplied with new propellors on an improved design, which greatly lessens the vibration. The propeller shaft has been fitted with a sleeve coupling, which will greatly facilitate the removal of the shaft. A large water tank has been built into the run of the vessel, and this is supplied with water from the engine-room when required to give her an increased draught aft. The cargo-carrying capacity of the vessel has been increased to 280 tons on a draught of 6 feet inches, and 350 tons on 7 feet. Yesterday the engineer's trial trip took place and was a decided success, the performance of the vessel answering all expectations. The engines worked smoothly, and it was proved that a sea-going speed of 9 knots can be maintained, thus enabling her to perform the passage to the Macleay in 22 hours. The alterations—which were from plans prepared by Mr. White, the company's secretary—were executed by Mr. Davidson and staff in a manner which was fully appreciated and acknowledged by the directors who were present yesterday. The Coraki will leave for the Macleay on Tuesday morning, under the command of Captain J. H. Springall.

The agent of the Messageries Maritimes Company received a cable message yesterday morning advising him of the arrival at Marseilles on the 30th September of the steamship Melbourne, being three days in advance of contract time. The Melbourne left Sydney on the 18th August.

The Orient liner John Elder, from London, arrived at Melbourne early yesterday morning, and was berthed at the Williamstown Pier at 8 a.m.

The Chimborazo (s.) sailed from Cape Town on the 2nd instant for Australian ports.

The P. and O. Co.'s R.M.S. Mirzapore passed Gabo Island at 5.50 p.m. yesterday, and may be expected to arrive here shortly after noon to-day.

The German steamer Kehrwieder, bound to Banjoewangie, Java, in ballast, cleared the Heads at 8.10 p.m. yesterday.

The departure of the A. S. N. Company's steamer Cintra for Noumea, Suva, and Levuka has been postponed until Tuesday next.

The steamer Naples, which left Sydney on the 16th August, arrived at Hongkong on the 12th ultimo; and the steamer Whampoa, which left here on the 25th August, arrived on the 17th ultimo.

The American ship Ivanhoe, which arrived the other day with a cargo of lumber, was towed from the stream yesterday to Berry's Bay.

The French barque Gers will be taken to-day from Alger's Wharf to the stream, and the barque Thermopylæ from Johnston's Bay to Walker's Wharf.

New South Wales debentures, due 1902, seller 110; due 1896, 106.

In the Import markets the business of the day was not particularly active, although a fair number of country orders came forward for execution. The news from all the coast districts and the table lands of the colony is very favourable; but in places on the back country the prospects of the season are by no means reassuring, for the late rainfall was not sufficient to force herbage. The outlook therefore is not altogether bright, though the season on the whole, perhaps, cannot be regarded as a very unfavourable one. The loss, must affect trade with a considerable number of the graziers of the colony, whose obligations to the banks are not likely to be paid off so quickly as could be desired, and who in consequence will have to stint themselves until the return of better times. The opening wool sales of the season are to begin in a fortnight's time, and will impart activity to the export trade of the city. Many of the buyers are already in the market. Respecting actual transactions, we have to report a weaker tone in the flour market. Importers have not large stocks, and the trade only buy sparingly. A good quantity of breadstuffs continue to arrive from the country districts, showing that growers must have been holding back their produce. As the price has declined considerably during the past few weeks their market now is not so remunerative as if they had sent the wheat forward earlier in the year. Bakers' lots of flour are moving at, Adelaide town brands, £12; country, £11 5s.; New South Wales, £10 15s. to £11 10s.; and Victorian, £10 10s. to £11 5s. Buyers were indisposed to give so much for wheat, and as holders are yet not inclined to make the required concessions but little business has been done. For tea there has been a better inquiry, although the sales transpiring have not been on a large scale. To date the shipments from China continue to be much below the figures for last year. The trade in coffee is quiet; No. 1 Ceylon plantation is quoted at 10d: other descriptions at proportionate figures; Barry's chicory, 6d. For dried fruits there has been a fair inquiry; prices have been steady during the week; sultanas are scarce. In fish there is no noteworthy feature: the demand is not active, prices rule in favour of buyers. Queensland and Colonial sugars are arriving freely, and a good trade is being done in them, at prices a shade weaker than those ruling last week. Ration may be quoted at £23 to £24; yellow, from £26 to £31; low white, £31 to £32; medium to good white, £33 to £34 10s. Mauritius sugars scarce, and selling at £35 to £36 for fine white crystals. Rice of the common grades is selling at £14 to £16, and fine table sorts at up to £20, inquiries being chiefly for the ordinary descriptions. Sago and tapioca, 1½d. per lb., stocks being large. Pepper firm; white quoted at 13d. to 14d., black 10d. Coarse salt, 70s. to 72s. 6d., in ordinary lines; fine, 85s. to 90s; rock, 67s. 6d. to 70s. Candles are still scarce and dear, 10d. being quoted for D.R.J.'s; local manufacturers are full of orders for the month at 9½d. In other groceries we hear of no noteworthy change. Brewers still pursue a waiting policy with regard to hops; only a small business doing. In liquors the approach of the warm weather has stimulated inquiry, and agents are selling at their stock prices. Hennessy's case brandy worth 35s. 6d. and 48s., single and three star respectively; Lowndes' rum, 3s. 11d; Geneva, large contents, quoted to 12s., business having been done at a lower price; whisky has had a fair amount of attention at late rates. In metals there has been a moderate inquiry for galvanised iron of various brands, and £22 10s. to £24 15s. may be quoted as the range of values, the chief demand being for iron at from £22 15s. to £23. Sheet lead continues depressed in value, corresponding to the condition of the home market; £16 10s. is full value. Although there has been rather more inquiry for fencing wire, the demand cannot be called active. The tightness of the money market affects the demand for this article more than any other, the unsettled condition of the land question also having a detrimental effect on the trade. Except of No. 10 leading brands the market is well stocked, and low prices only can be obtained, Nos. 6, 8, and 10 of best wire being quoted at £12 10s., £13 5s., and £15. Owing to heavy shipments, muntz metal is lower, and 7½d. is value. Wire nails are rather dearer, and worth from 15s. 6d. to 16s. I.C. coke tinplates in trade lines are moving up to 19s. For whiting there was a good demand to-day, the market being rather bare; 75s. asked. Cement also continues low in stock, and up to 19s. 6d. was paid for small lots of best brands, but sales are making to arrive at 2s. below the spot price. Jute goods are unchanged in value and trade quiet. Beyond the despatch of contract orders for blasting powder, there is little doing in the article; 5½d. is the quotation for Hall's. There was a full supply of forage and produce at the Darling Harbour market this morning. The market was well attended, and a fair business was done. Quotations were as follows:—Clean straw, in bales, 1s. 10d. to 2s. 3d.; in bundles, 2s. 4d. to 2s. 7d. per cwt.; oaten chaff, 4s. 5d. to 5s. 7d.; mixed chaff, 3s. 6d. per cwt.; straw chaff, 3s. 6d. per cwt.; oaten hay, in bundles, 2s. 5d. to 5s. 8d.; in truss, 3s. 8d. to 5s. 7d. per cwt.; wheaten and oaten hay, in bundles, 1s. 9d. to 4s. per cwt.; new rye straw, in bundles, 2s. 3d. per cwt.; lucerne hay, in truss, 2s. to 3s. 2d.; potatoes, 8s. 9d. per cwt.; maize, 3s. 4d. per bushel. The sales along the wharfs this morning were well attended, and a fair business was done. Quotations were as follows:—Maize, 3s. 4d. to 3s. 6d.; seed and feed oats, 2s. 6d. to 2s. 8d. per bushel; Melbourne onions, £7 to £7 10s. per ton; lucerne, from £2 to £3 per ton; Circular Head potatoes, £3 to £3 5s.; New Zealand ditto, £3 10s.; Ballarat, £3 per ton; Victorian oaten chaff, £5 to £5 10s.; ditto, straw chaff, £3 10s. to £3 15s.; beeswax, 9d. to 10d.; honey, 5d. to 6d.; lard, in bulk, 5d. to 7d.; in bladder, 6d. to 8d.; ham, 7d. to 10d.; bacon, 6d. to 8d.; cheese, 6d. to 8d. per lb.; eggs, 1s. 8d. per dozen; butter, in keg, 1s. per lb. There was a good supply of Hunter River lucerne in the market.

Messrs. Mort and Co., Limited, Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Limited, Hill, Clark, and Co., F. L. Barker, John Bridge, and Brunker and Wolfe held their weekly sales of tallow and hides to-day. The market for tallow was scarcely so firm: best mutton worth £35 to £36, and prime beef £33 to £34 5s. Extra heavy hides were in good demand, a considerable proportion of the lots in the catalogue being sold. Extra heavy realised to 4¾d., other sorts selling from 3d.

The Mirzapore (s.), through misapprehension, was reported as having arrived yesterday. She left Melbourne yesterday, and may be expected to-morrow.

The R.M.S. Clyde sailed to-day for London, with 479 bales wool, 15 bales cotton, 11,303 ingots tin, 20,900 ingots and 3659 cakes copper, 44 cases pearlshell, 12 bales leather, 3183 cases meats, 4 bales furskins, 15 bales skins, 1 case books, 1 box jewellery, 3 casks bismuth ore, 95 bags gum, 6 cases wine, 31 cases exhibits, 13 bags minerals, and 10 packages.

The Customs receipts to-day were as follows:—Spirits, £1881 5s.; wine (still), £63 7s. 1d.; ditto (sparkling), £28; ale, porter, and beer (in wood), £8 15s.; ditto (in bottle), £280 4s.; tobacco and snuff, £179 4s.; tobacco (unmanufactured), £401 15s.; cigars, £428 11s. 3d.; tea, £455 0s. 3d.; coffee and chicory, £210 6s. 9d.; sugar (unrefined), £131 8s. 10d.; opium, £218 7s. 6d.; rice, £238 12s.; dried fruits, £281 18s. 4d.; nuts, £8 17s. 7d.; malt, £24 11s. 2d.; hops, £3 9s. 3d.; specific duty, £1241 17s. 3d.; Chinese restriction, £100; pilotage, £59 10s.; harbour and light dues, £29 17s. 4d.; fisheries royalty, £4 11s. 6d.: total, £5277 9s. 1d.

The New York Times publishes the result of a canvass of 38 States regarding the next Presidency. Three hundred and forty-four letters have been received. They report that Mr. Blaine is the first choice in 168 localities, and is specially strong in the Middle and Western States. Mr. Arthur is preferred by 64 centres. He controls the whole Southern organisation, but cannot expect the popular vote of a single Southern State. Mr. Edmunds has the suffrages of about 57 places pretty equally distributed among the States. Mr. Tilden is the favourite in 120 places, and is the first choice of the Democrats everywhere, except only in seven States. Senator Macdonald, of Indiana, has 72 centres in his favour, and Senator Bayard 31.

WORLD-WIDE HONOURS TO ST. JACOBS OIL.
The Great German Remedy, ST. JACOBS OIL, stands honoured with the highest distinction ever paid to a medicine. This is not only the case in this country, but abroad everywhere. At the New Zealand International Exhibition, 1882, it received the magnificent First Prize Medal, together with the Highest Diploma for being, according to critical tests, the Best Pain Curing and Healing Remedy known to mankind.
ONE OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST OARSMEN.
Mr. Edward Trickett, the celebrated oarsman, gave the following as his opinion.
"I have found St. Jacobs Oil a sure and certain cure, and one unequalled by any medicine. It cured me of severe pains in the back, brought on by over exertion in rowing. It is a pleasant, safe, and sure remedy, penetrating at once to the seat of the disease and eradicating the complaint without further trouble." And now he says that St. Jacobs Oil and good athletic training are what our young men want.

SOLID FACTS.
No excuse. If all that we hear and read about it is true, there is no excuse for being sick now, for every druggist and store in the country has a full supply of Emil Frese's Hamburg Tea. It is harmless, yet efficacious, and a complete medicine chest in itself. As they say in the advertisements, no family should be without it. To be had everywhere, in shilling packets.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1883.

A public meeting, under the auspices of the New South Wales Association for the Defence of Christianity, was held in the Protestant Hall on Monday evening last, and after the singing of the hymn "Work, for the night is coming," and the reading of an advertisement by the chairman, the Hon A. GORDON, Q.C., arose to move and defend a formal resolution,—"That this meeting approves of the objects and aims of the New South Wales Association for the Defence of Christianity." Mr. GORDON'S speech for the defence may be taken as summarising the aims of the society and the arguments used for their justification, and thus it need hardly be said that the arguments comprising the society's raison d'être were in a sense feebly or vaguely put. Mr. GORDON'S strong argument, however, may be reduced to two propositions—the first, that if they wished to maintain their position they must defend it; and the second, that their position was worthy to be maintained. The chief reason for the necessity of defence was that attack was being made. There is nothing to be gained by disputing that position. An attack is being made. Self-styled freethought has attacked the citadel of Christianity; but what fashion and to what result? Shall we appeal to statistics?—ask the census? The attack of freethought does not appear to have made many alterations there. The people are not rapidly deserting the old standards, or otherwise they are sadly ashamed of the new colours by which they have been lured, but under which they are not prepared openly to march. Any figures or facts that may be quoted go to show that the formidable nature of this attack is feared rather than perceived, and expected rather than felt. Still, if the premonitory warnings are recognised as good, it is well to see Christianity armed at all points to resist an approach; and the formation of this society may properly be regarded as the putting on of armour at a point suspected of weakness.

Mr. GORDON says, "If we wish to keep up our respectability we must defend ourselves." The Association for the Defence of Christianity is therefore a bulwark for the preservation of the respectability of Christianity. If so, would it not have been better to have stated so plainly? Would it not have been better, in any case, to have stated the exact point the new society was opposed to defend? The defence of Christianity is such an exceedingly comprehensive term, although it be left in its simplicity, and not tortured into a defence of Christianity's founder. We know that it is as necessary to defend Christianity now as it was to hold the faith in the fiercest and bitterest days of martyrdom; but against what foes? Is the cultured critic, the refined debater, or the blatant, illiterate, shameless assailant a dangerous foe, or is it necessary to build up a strong wall against the squalor of mesmerism, the deliration of rappings, rat and mouse revelation, thumps from table drawers, and black art"? Are there no worthier foes? The Christian Church, in using in its proper work to attack these things, is very much as a general advancing upon a fortress pausing to annihilate an ant-hill, or an explorer moving to the discovery of an unknown land turning to the idle pursuit of some querulously croaking crow. The Church should, in doing its ordinary work, be an association for the defence of Christianity, and every Church, if it will but look out, may see armies moving to the assailment, and not under freethought colours. Armies of ignorance, vice, and crime; armies intensely respectable, but in no sense Christian; armies rich and poor, maintained and officered by selfishness and ignorance, and utter disregard of all the realities and virtues of life, rather than by the principle of unbelief or freethought. These are the foes to be attacked. These are the foes Christianity has attacked from the hour of its birth, the foes in conflict with whom it has gained every victory that has established its own immortality, and in some measure redeemed the world.

Mr. GORDON is careful to state his belief that Christianity has done much for the redemption of the world. He points out that Christian civilisation "bears the palm throughout the length and breadth of the world." It is one of those things which go without telling. We are very poor Englishmen if we do not steadfastly believe that our type of civilisation is higher than was ever attained by Greeks or Romans, Assyrians or Egyptians; and very shallow historians if we do not acknowledge the part Christianity has played in our civilisation and development. We can Mr. GORDON, or any member of the society, point out in any period of the past an association formed for the defence of Christianity aiding in this good work? Associations there have been; every band of holy self-sacrificing men drawn together by a common belief, and welded by persecution, has been an association both for the defence and the advance of Christianity; they just the same weapons of holiness, self-sacrifice, and common belief will defend and advance Christianity still. Nor, defended by such weapons, will there be any fear of a loss or wane of respectability. From a proper standpoint, St. MARTIN appeared much more respectable in his half-cloak than did WOLSEY in his golden slippers.

These ancient illustrations, however, may be held out of date, and not in accord with the spirit, or adequate to the necessities of modern times. The pilgrim Christianity, who went to the world wrapped in one cloak and armed with one sword, has become a great nation, and it is utterly impossible that a great nation should march as did the pilgrim. Christianity now, with its churches and cathedrals, its mitres and garments, its high social position and manifold obligations, must be respectable. It must have a prompt and dignified reply, and its simple superiority will be the proper reply. Railing against railing is of no service, but the better life will speak to all time and all people.

Christianity is menaced beyond doubt. As an active principle of good in the world it is in perpetual conflict with an opposing spirit of evil, and evil is hydra-headed and many-tongued, and will enter wherever a breach is found. And where is the breach? Upon a solid wall battered by the popgun artillery of freethought, or where cathedral towers or chapel walls look down upon the abodes of drunkenness, whoredom, theft, and debauchery, upon the squalor of wretched homes in miserable streets, the sources of revenue, may be, of some amongst the most "respectable" of Christians? These are the breaches. These things are more disgrace and danger to Christianity than the secular lecture-room, or the avowed Atheist's coarse but cunning pamphlet. It is by vanquishing just such abominations as these that Christianity has overcome heathendom and heresies in elder days, and it is by similar efforts and victories that Christianity will stand comfortably and securely above the freethought heresy of to-day. Certainly the formation of this association is not a deed without a parallel. Again and again we have seen members of churches going out of their way to attack such apparent foes, and from the height attained by simple lapse of time, we are able to say that such movements have been backward steps, or at best pauses in an otherwise triumphant march. Fire of the enemy is directed upon the outwork; down it goes in dust and smoke. "All is won," shouts the enemy; "All is lost," mourn the feeble adherents; and only those who dwell securely within laugh composedly at the folly of the thing, and yet lament somewhat the undeniable loss.

Over-zealous defenders have one or two simple lessons to learn and to remember, and they may be very briefly summarised. Every weak defence is made another point of attack. The open and rational foes of the churches are prompt to recognise such points, and battering them down, to set up a shout of victory. The puny defence association is a mud hut erected without the impregnable citadel. Its existence matters nothing, its destruction matters nothing, unless it be granted, as indeed it must be, that there are people in the world so blind as not to discriminate between the mud hut and the citadel. There is but one bane at the life-roots of modern Christianity, and that is selfishness; there is but one antidote to that bane, and that is self-sacrifice; or to put the matter in a form yet more terse and intelligible, Christianity has been, is, and must continue to be its own best defence.

A little inquiry will show that the speakers at the banquet on Monday last hardly hit upon the chief secret of the success of the eight-hour movement. Whilst Mr. DALLEY eloquently dwelt on the necessity for giving the workman time and means for enlarging his knowledge and strengthening his faculties, Mr. FRANK DIXON referred in more homely phraseology to what he considered had been achieved by the advocates of the eight-hour system. But there was a point which the remarks of both speakers failed to touch. Neither Mr. DALLEY nor Mr. DIXON ventured beyond the part which the workmen had played in the movement. It was perhaps natural for Mr. DIXON to deal with the question from a workman's standpoint; but another aspect of the subject must commend itself to old politicians. All who have studied the question must have been impressed with the conviction that the improved condition of the working man of to-day, as compared with that of the working man of a few years ago, is due to the general progress of the community. Without this his persistent agitation would have afforded him little relief. The use of machinery has relieved him of a load of drudgery. It has placed powerful weapons in his hand for making more efficient use of the productive resources of the earth, opened up new avenues for labour, cheapened production, and placed within his reach home comforts, if not luxuries, scarcely dreamt of half a century ago. In the United Kingdom the same causes have been in operation. There, as here, there has been both social and material progress. Especially has there been this in the colonies, with their almost illimitable fields for industrial enterprise. And one important result is that those thrilling scenes which Mr. TRICKETT referred to with a shudder have become very rare occurrences—indeed, almost things of the past. At one period of English history causes that would occasion little inconvenience now were productive of distressing consequences. A financial crisis occasioned by the outbreak of war, or some other cause, paralysed industry in every direction. Probably there were hundreds who took part in Monday's demonstration who retain a vivid recollection of the times when tire unemployed with their famishing families paraded the streets in battalions, begging bread—willing enough to work, but unable to get it. Such scenes have been less frequent in Great Britain since the adoption of free-trade principles and since increased wealth made material progress more possible.

But how is the working man to protect himself against a recurrence of those evil times—times when any eight-hour system would have been impossible, and any movement to establish it hopeless? The working man must not forget that many circumstances have conspired to place him in a better position. And how good a position that is was aptly stated by Mr. JOHN YOUNG on Monday evening. He spoke from ample experience when he said there was a more harmonious feeling between employers and employed in this colony than in any country he knew of. His subsequent remark partially explained the reason of this: Those who are the employees of one decade are the employers of the next. He was, of course, speaking of this colony. But this condition of things would be impossible were it not for the general prosperity of the community as a whole. In spite of the teaching of a few protectionist advocates, the great majority of the working classes in this colony recognise the truth that no particular set of men can permanently benefit at the expense of the rest.

New South Wales has hitherto adhered to free-trade principles, and to this is attributable in a large measure the more prosperous condition of her working classes as compared with those of Victoria. If protection is to make a people prosperous, Victoria ought to be greatly ahead of her neighbours. But what a contrast between Monday's proceedings in Sydney and the proceedings during the past few days in Melbourne! The scenes which have been witnessed there were not unlike in many respects the scene depicted by the POSTMASTER-GENERAL as witnessed by him in London. If industrial enterprise is to expand, there must be no State interference with the use of capital—nothing that will cause a misapplication of capital and energy. Protection aims at the very reverse of this. It fetters the free action of labour and capital, and strikes at the very foundations of the prosperity of a community. There are vast industries yet to be brought into life in this colony, and their establishment will derive the best impetus from an unfettered action of the people and the growth of the population. If the happy state of things when the workmen of one decade become the employers of the next is to continue, there must be work to give and men to employ. The resources of this great country are vast, but protectionists would cripple the development of those resources by dictating the channels into which the two factors of human progress, labour and capital, shall be forced. At the same time they would close the door against the introduction of fresh producers and consumers, whose presence is necessary to secure the development of new industries.

Summoning representatives of the different classes of artisans employed in the railway workshops, as the COMMISSIONER did the other day, to consult with them in reference to a change in the work of the Department, was a new thing. But the motive which prompted it was a good one, and it ought to evoke a corresponding disposition on the part of the men. Of course, the COMMISSIONER could at once give directions for the proposed change of only one break instead of two in the eight hours of the day: but since the men as well as the COMMISSIONER have an official interest in making the best of everything, there was ground both of right and courtesy in appealing to them. They have got the eight-hour system, and now they ought to be prepared to adopt such other changes as that system implies. The loss occasioned by furnaces and machinery being kept idle during two breaks in a day will be no greater under the new régime than it was under the old one, but comparatively it will press more heavily. On multiplying the hours by the number of men employed it will be seen that the aggregate loss for a year is considerable; it is enough to seriously affect the profit and loss account of the railways. In other countries this change has had to be made, and the necessity for it here may compel a change whether the men will assent to it or not. At any rate, they will feel the consideration shown for their position in the matter, and a settlement should be prompt and amicable. There may be departments in which the rule need not be rigidly enforced, and since the object of the change is to save time and to increase efficiency, the COMMISSIONER will not attempt to enforce it merely for the sake of uniformity. The men are to have an opportunity at the works to discuss the subject, and their chief representative promised at least a courteous discussion. If such matters were more frequently taken up in this spirit, there would probably be fewer ruptures between employers and employees. If reason and the true benefit of all concerned could always arbitrate, they might not prevent all friction, but they would prevent a good deal. If this change is practicable, and consistent with the efficiency of workmen, a little discomfort to themselves, or extra strain upon them, they will no doubt cheerfully bear.

Again it is necessary to complain of delay in publishing some of the annual Government documents. October of 1883 has come, and when we are fairly into the the month, the Blue Book for 1882 makes its appearance. It is the same with the Statistical Register, fragments of which are published earlier in the year, but the book itself comes at a period so late that it is of little immediate use, and its subjects are nearly forgotten. Someone is in fault for all this, and if it is not the Department it must be the Government. Apparently the several Departments complete their returns in good time; for in some way or other information from them reached the official statist of Victoria, and his Year Book relating to all the colonies reaches us before our Blue Book is sent out. Actually we learn from him facts about New South Wales, and cannot conveniently learn them otherwise until long after he has had the information supplied to him, no doubt, by authority. Of what practical value can it be to publish in October, 1883, a statement showing names and salaries of persons in Government service a year or a year and a-half before? It might be of service to publish such a return for the current year before Parliament meets. In that case there would be time to look up the question of offices too heavily or too lightly manned, and also the question of excessive or insufficient remuneration. It is too late now to suggest that men who have left the service because they were insufficiently remunerated after years of waiting for promotion should be retained at a higher salary. And it is equally difficult to point out that some who are returned in this book might as well be dispensed with, because no one outside a department happens to know what is the staff of that department at the present moment. Presently estimates for the year 1884 will be laid before the House; how can one tell on looking at the returns for last year what those of next year ought to be? If this statistical business is worth doing at all it is worth doing well; and to do it well means that some one competent for the work be charged to do it. The value of statistics to all persons interested in the prosperity of the country cannot be placed too high; but that value depends upon statistics being fresh and accurate. There is another point. It is this:—The statistics of our own colony published by themselves are of less value than when placed with those of other colonies. We do not want to measure ourselves by ourselves only, but also by our neighbours. Only a statistical department, or branch of an existing department, can do well and quickly just what is wanted to be done. Up to a certain point comparative estimates are given in our Statistical Register, but if these estimates were more complete they would be of far more use to the public.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THIS morning's cablegrams contain several items of considerable interest. Regarding the colonies, Sir Stafford Northcote in a speech he made at Belfast accused the Government of want of sympathy with them. Mr. Murray Smith, in a letter to the Times, justifies the action taken by the Service Government in excluding the Irish informers from Victoria, and states that the Australian colonists were determined to prevent Australia being made the cesspit of Europe. The secretary of the London and River Plate Bank has embezzled £110,000, and absconded. A company is projected in London with a capital of £200,000, for stocking 4000 square miles of country at the mouth of the Victoria River, North Australia. A Tory candidate has been elected for Manchester, defeating the Radical candidate by a very large number of votes. It is authoritatively stated that the reports respecting the health of the Pope were without foundation, and that he is in his customary health. Latest accounts from Madagascar confirm previously received reports as to the precarious position of the French there, the Hovas having succeeded in reoccupying positions in the Sakalava country that were captured by the French in the early part of the war.

THE Ministerial party left by special tram from the Bridge-street terminus shortly after 10 o'clock yesterday, and reached the pier at Botany at 10.45 a.m. We have received from our own reporter (by carrier pigeon), from the National Park, the following brief account of the trip:—"Having proceeded on board the steamer Little Mat, the excursionists waited about half an hour for some members of the party who, having missed the special tram, had to come on by another. The delaying visitors having arrived, the steamer started across Botany Bay at 11.15 a.m. The weather was fine but cloudy. There was a large party assembled on board, including several members of both Houses of Parliament. The Premier, together with Messrs. Abbott, Reid, and Cohen, and several others, came hither by the steamer Ajax, which reached Port Hacking at 8.30 a.m., and arrived at the National Park about noon. The rest of the party got here at 2 o'clock, and all then partook of luncheon. The arrangements are satisfactory, and a very pleasant afternoon was spent. There is a good band in attendance."

IN another column is published a copy of a letter written by direction of the Postmaster-General, in reply to questions asked by the Secretary of State for the Colonies as to the date at which admission into the Postal Union is desired by this colony, the rates of postage proposed to be levied, and the equivalents in local currency for the sums of 5, 10, and 25 centimes. The substance of the letter has been transmitted by his Excellency the Governor in a despatch to the Secretary of State for the Colonies.

THE Acting German Consul in Sydney, Mr. Carl L. Sahl, has received a translation of a communication made by the Chamber of Commerce in Berlin, to the Chancellor of the German Empire and Minister of Trade, Prince Bismarck, respecting the packing of wool in jute-weavings. The document, a copy of which will be found in another column, has been forwarded to Mr. Sahl with a view of bringing the complaints mentioned therein to the knowledge of those interested in the wool trade.

IN another column we give an abstract of the principal portions of the report for the year 1882 of the Nautical Schoolship Vernon. It will be seen from the report that Captain Neitenstein and his officers have been doing good work during the year.

IT is satisfactory to learn from our Paris correspondent, who wrote on August 24, that the French annexation schemes in the Pacific, if they really existed, are not likely to be carried out just at present. The dissensions in the French Cabinet, the difficulties over the Madagascar and Tonquin affairs, and other smaller anxieties, for the moment are absorbing the attention of the French Parliament and public, as both are beginning to realise the gravity of the situation brought about by the foreign policy of the French Government and the anti-German propaganda of a section of the press. The Evenement counsels the withdrawal of troops from far-off expeditions, to prepare for the coming struggle "which Germany is determined to force on France." M. de Cassagnac's journal, Le Pays, declares that France is quite unprepared for war, being without money or men to face such an eventuality, while Germany is thoroughly prepared. Violent as M. de Cassagnac undoubtedly is against the Republic, his reasons are more cogent for the view he holds than are those of the other side. An abstract of journalistic opinion on the state of affairs in France is contained in our Paris correspondent's letter, which appears in another column.

THE seventh of our special letters on the Fisheries Exhibition is published in another column. It contains a brief description of the various sections representing the different countries from which exhibits have been received.

NEWS has been received from England of the success of another Australian student. Mr. G. E. Rennie, son of Mr. E. A. Rennie, Auditor-General, who left here in August last year, having obtained the Gilchrist scholarship, has passed the preliminary scientific examination of the University of London in the first division, taking first place in the first-class honour list for zoology and comparative anatomy, and third-class honours in chemistry. This examination is the first step in the course for the London medical degree. Mr. Rennie has also won the silver medal for zoology in Professor Lankester's class at University College. It is gratifying to see Mr. Rennie keeping up the high reputation he had gained at the Sydney University, and thus closely following in the footsteps of his brother, Dr. E. H. Rennie, who was the first Australian to get the much-coveted honour of D.Sc. at the London University.

THE immigrants who arrived by the ship Dharwar, and who landed on Thursday after having spent three days in quarantine, were on hire at the Immigration Depot yesterday from the hours of 9 a.m. and 12 noon. The demand for labour, especially of an agricultural class, notwithstanding the fact that a large number who arrived by the ship Smyrna were hired on Wednesday, was great. Both married couples and single men were eagerly sought after by agents representing farmers in almost every agricultural district in the colony. In many cases the immigrants were engaged so speedily that not more than half a dozen words were exchanged between them and their employers, and only in one or two instances were recommendations looked for. It was gratifying to notice, however, that when recommendations were needed they were forthcoming. The married couples and single men were hired at Port Macquarie, and numbers of them found homes in such districts as Grafton, Armidale, Ulladulla, Bathurst, Maitland, Orange, Dubbo, the Richmond River, and a number of other places for which they were supplied with passes. The married couples received £75 per annum, with board and lodging: and the single men obtained £36 and £45 per annum, with board and lodging. The hiring of the single women took place at noon at the Hyde Park Depot, and resulted very satisfactory. They obtained from 8s. to 10s. per week.

A MONTHLY meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held on Wednesday afternoon, at which the Hon. J. B. Watt occupied the chair, and the Hon. S. A. Joseph, and Messrs. W. G. Murray, T. Littlejohn, W. M'Millan, F. B. Lark, R. Rome, and W. A. Cottee were present. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. A letter was read from the chairman of the Underwriters' Conference held in Melbourne. It enclosed a copy of the resolutions agreed to in reference to an amended form of bill of lading. Mr. Watt intimated that a reply had been forwarded, and accompanied by a copy of a letter, addressed to the Chamber in London, on the same subject. A letter was read from Messrs. Gilchrist, Watt, and Co., agents for the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, enclosing a copy of a letter from the Postal Department at Washington, addressed to the secretary of the company at New York, and giving information relative to postal charges in the United States on Australian correspondence. This letter was published in the Herald a few days ago. A letter was read from the Brisbane Chamber, acknowledging the receipt of a letter re the bill of lading in question, and requesting to be informed when a reply on the subject was received from London. The Adelaide Chamber wrote a similar letter, which, in addition, stated that the London Chamber had been informed that it sympathised with Sydney's views with regard to the bill of lading. After this the system of giving receipts for goods at the railway station and some steamers wharfs was considered. It appeared that some of the receipts were signed in a way that was hieroglyphical, and that not only had goods been lost in consequence of a signature being repudiated, but generally it was impossible to ascertain the man who had given receipts for goods. Therefore, the secretary was instructed to suggest to the Commissioner for Railways and steamship companies, that each receipt should be officially stamped, and have impressed upon it the date on which the goods were received. Several accounts were passed for payment, and the meeting then closed.

THE monthly meeting of the Charity Organisation Society was held on Thursday last; Mr. E. Fosbery presided. Present—Mr. F. C. Griffiths and the secretary (J. Sidney). Trade accounts to the amount of £53 7s. were submitted and ordered to be paid. The secretary reported that during the month of September 127 applications had been made for relief, a decrease of 52 compared with the preceding month. Of this number, 31 were married couples, 43 widows, 5 deserted women, 4 single women, and 44 single men; 4 cases were refused, the addresses given upon inquiry proving fictitious; 7 special cases were dealt with, and further assistance granted.

THE usual monthly meeting of the Metropolitan Associated Fire Brigades board was held at the Redfern brigade station on Thursday evening. A report from the conference delegates was received. Applications from the Tamworth and Grafton Brigades for admission to the association were accepted. A letter was read by Mr. Bown from the superintendent of tramways, granting permission to firemen when on duty to attach their engines behind trams. An invitation from the united brigades to take part in the forthcoming demonstration was accepted. The meeting terminated with a vote of thanks to the chairman.

THE monthly meeting of the Committee of the Animals Protection Society was held at their rooms, Spring-street, on Wednesday, Mr. E. Fosbery in the chair. There were present Messrs. J. Stewart, Captain Fox, A. W. Gilles, C. H. Myles, J. Tait, J. R. Street, W. J. Weston, W. Beaumont, H. D. Maddock, J. H. Hunt, W. Bradley, J. Sidney (secretary), and G. Webbe (inspector). After the usual routine business had been transacted, the chairman submitted the draft of the tenth annual report, which was read, adopted, and ordered to be printed. It was then resolved unanimously to accord the hearty thanks of the committee to the chairman, Mr. E. Fosbery, for the very able services he had rendered the cause during the 10 years he has occupied that position; also to the hon. treasurer, Mr. C. H. Myles; and Mr. W. J. Weston for the use (gratuitously) of his rooms for the meetings of the society. The inspector's report for September showed—prosecutions, 27; convictions, 25; cases withdrawn, 2; cautions, 35; complaints, 10; investigations, 9.

THE annual meeting of the Highland Society of New South Wales was held at the society's room, Waterloo-chambers, George-street, last night. The chair was occupied by Dr. H. N. M'Laurin, and there was a good attendance. The annual report, giving interesting particulars concerning the operations of the society during the past year was read, together with a satisfactory statement of finance. An interesting discussion with regard to the operations of the society followed the reading of the report, after which the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—President: Sir John Hay. Vice-presidents: The Hon. Alexander Stuart, the Hon. A. Campbell, M.L.C., Hon. Professor Smith, C.M.G., M.L.C., Mr. John Sutherland, M.L.A., Mr. G. A. Murray, Dr. H. N. M'Laurin, Mr. John Rae, Mr. John Harris, M.L.A., Mr. W. G. Murray, and Mr. George Munro. The following councillors were also elected:—Messrs. F. Macnab, A. T. Telfer, Alderman John Taylor, A. M'Queen, A. M'Credie, and R. Grant. Mr. W. F. Martin was re-elected hon. treasurer, and Mr. John MacDonald was re-elected hon. secretary. A vote of thanks was tendered to the retiring officers—special mention being made of the valuable services rendered by Mr. George Christie—who, it was regretted, had to relinquish the duties of secretary owing to the pressure of other engagements. A vote of thanks was tendered to the chairman, and the meeting closed. The annual commemoration of the society will be celebrated on Monday, the 15th instant, at the Protestant Hall.

A PRELIMINARY meeting of residents and landowners in the Gosford district was held at the Royal Hotel on Tuesday evening last, for the purpose of founding an improvement association. The chair was occupied by the Rev. G. H. Johnson, and there were present among others Mr. Huntley, bank manager; Mr. Tucker, licensed surveyor; Messrs. Creighton, Kane, and Lill. The reverend chairman in opening the meeting spoke of the many difficulties under which the town and district laboured from want of such an association. Mr. Tucker gave the meeting a great deal of valuable information as to what was being done in the matter of the completion of the survey of the town. Mr. Kane said that the experience of 30 years convinced him that if the rocks which obstructed the mouth of the harbour were blown away the scour of the tide would wash away the bar. Mr. Huntley, in a very telling speech upon the increasing commercial importance of the town, suggested that an adjournment should take place until 3 o'clock on Saturday, 13th instant, which was ultimately agreed to; and the hon. secretary, Mr. Will Swinney, was instructed to issue notice of such adjourned meeting for the purpose of founding the association and appointing a deputation to wait upon the Colonial Secretary and lay before him the wants of the district. A vote of thanks to the chairman closed the meeting.

ON Thursday evening a social gathering took place at Camperdown, in the building known as the old Public school, to celebrate the event of its transformation into a neat and commodious Wesleyan Church. The building was crowded in every part, and many were unable to obtain admission. Sir George Wigram Allen presided, and addresses were given by the Revs. George Lane, J. A. Nolan, W. B. Boyce, and Mr. B. James, jun. The musical portion of the evening's entertainment was carried out by the Glebe-road Wesleyan Church choir, under the direction of Mr. Boxsell; and the following ladies and gentlemen also afforded their assistance:—The Misses Shipway, Wells, and Fellingham, the Rev. W. G. Taylor, and Messrs. W. H. M'Clelland and Morgan. The reunion was brought to a close shortly before 10 o'clock. The cost of the property, as it now stands, will be £1600, towards the liquidation of which about £800 (including amount received from sale of the old church) has already been paid or promised.

ON Thursday the annul wayzegoose of Messrs. Gibbs, Shallard, and Co.'s printing establishment took place at Clontarf. The steamer Admiral conveyed the employees and their families to Middle Harbour, where the day was agreeably spent in outdoor sports, including an archery competition for ladies, &c. Mr. J. T. Gibbs, head of the firm, presided at an excellent luncheon, supplied by the City Catering Company. After the usual loyal sentiments had been honoured and responded to, the toasts of "Messrs. Gibbs, Shallard, and Co.," "The Employees," "The Visitors," "The Press," and "The Ladies" were proposed and honoured. Foot-racing, dancing, &c., concluded the day's outing.

THE young woman, Clara Thomas, appeared before the Court of Quarter Sessions yesterday, on a charge of obtaining goods by false pretences, and was again acquitted. She must be either very fortunate in her transactions, or else she is one of the most persecuted women in Sydney. In April last she was charged before Judge Dowling with obtaining a hair-plait by false pretences from Mr. Wigzell, of Oxford-street, and was acquitted. In July she was charged before Judge Wilkinson with obtaining a dresspiece from Messrs. David Jones and Co., in the name of Mrs. Kyngdon, of North Shore, and was acquitted on the ground of mistaken identity. Yesterday she was charged before Judge M'Farland with obtaining a dresspiece from Messrs. Thompson and Giles in the name of Mrs. Sutton, of Five Dock, and was again acquitted on the ground, apparently, of mistaken identity. Two shop assistants swore positively that she was the woman, and Mr. Giles proved that she asked him to forgive her, and offered to pay twice the value of the goods if he would not proceed against her. The evidence for the defence was that of a man named Duffy, who said that Clara Thomas was at his house at North Willoughby on the day when the goods were obtained. The jury apparently attached more value to his unsupported testimony than to that of Mr. Giles and his two assistants, and acquitted the prisoner. The Judge expressed the hope that he would never see her there again.

AT the Quarter Sessions yesterday, Judge M'Farland sent three larrikins to gaol for three years for a dastardly and unprovoked assault which they committed on a man in Pitt-street.

FOUR Chinamen were yesterday arrested in Lower George-street on a charge of smuggling some tobacco into the colony. They were observed by Sergeants Higgans and Carnay walking along the street, their clothes presenting a rather bulky appearance. The officers, suspecting that they had goods concealed about them, took them to the No. 4 police station, where, on being searched, 20lb. of tobacco was discovered inside their clothes. They were then locked up. The prisoners were seamen on board the steamship Taiwan, which arrived from Hongkong on Thursday.

A REPORT was received by the City Coroner yesterday afternoon, to the effect that a man named Francis Graham, residing at Denison-street, Ultimo, had discovered the dead body of a newly-born male infant in a paddock off Mary Ann-street, Ultimo. The body when found was in a carpet bag which was almost new. The bag also contained a quantity of wearing apparel. The body was subsequently seen by Dr. Markey, and was conveyed to the South Sydney morgue. An inquest will probably be held upon it to-day.

IT was reported to the City Coroner yesterday that a child named Myra Fogarty, aged 3½ years, daughter of John Fogarty, had died at the Star Hotel, Devonshire-street, early yesterday morning. It appears that about half-past 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon last, the deceased fell from the balcony of the hotel on to the footpath, a distance of 17 feet, sustaining a fracture of the skull and injury to the brain. An inquest will be held upon the body at 9 o'clock this morning.

A MAN named Thomas Dunn was admitted into the hospital last night in an unconscious state and bleeding freely from the nose and left ear. He was passing through the Argyle-cut when he was knocked down by a horse and cart, driven rapidly by a man whose name has not been ascertained. The vehicle passed over his head and shoulders, inflicting a lacerated wound on the right temple. He regained consciousness shortly after his admission into the Hospital, but the injuries he received are considered to be of a very serious nature.

WHEN the Doric arrived at Auckland wharf there was a great rush to get on board her. A quartermaster was told off to prevent any one getting on the deck, and he had turned a number of persons back, when (says the New Zealand Herald) his Honor Judge Gillies passed through the crowd, and, in happy ignorance of the order given, and of what had occurred, went straight up the gangway. The crowd began to cry out, "Put him back, too; make no fish of one and flesh of another." But the remarks were quite superfluous. The quartermaster, in a twinkling, had the Bench in his vyce-like grasp. The Judge remonstrated; but the only reply was, "Can't help it, sir; if it was the ship's owner orders must be obeyed." At this juncture Mr. Batger, the local manager of the New Zealand Shipping Company, who was on board, got sight of what was going on, and, horrified at the contempt of Court which was being committed, began a series of pantomimic gestures to the sailor, to the effect that the Judge should pass on; but it was of no avail, and the officer on duty at the head of the gangway at last set matters right by releasing his Honor, who, throughout, kept his temper and self-control remarkably well. The crowd jocularly asked the quartermaster if he had ever had as much law as that in his arms before.

THE writer of "City Notes" in the Pall Mall Gazette says:—"An effort is being made to bring shipping shares more extensively upon the Stock Exchange. At present, it is stated, 14 millions out of the 200 millions of capital estimated to be invested in shipping property is all that is represented in the shares quoted in the official lists, and the great bulk of this will be the stock of the great passenger companies. The absence of a ready means of sale has always been regarded by investors as an objection to the holding of shipping shares. The steamship share-broker has recently sprung to the front as a much-needed medium between seller and buyer, and the Steamship Share Company was founded some 18 months since as a method by which holders of steamship shares, whatever might be the shipping company in which they were interested, might throw their shares along with shares regularly purchased into one common fund, wherein profits and losses would be averaged. This Steamship Share Company, it may be noted, has so far returned 25 per cent., but it is to be feared that the result of the current half-year's working will prove that the directors pursued an unwise policy in paying so large a dividend at the commencement of its career. But neither of the plans mentioned, it is maintained, is adequate to the requirements of the case, the Steamship Share Company not having a quotation on the Stock Exchange."

ON the subject of the approaching federal conference the West Australian observes:—"Although the main object of the conference is to devise some basis for concerted action in regard to one particular matter of vital importance to all these colonies, there seems ground for something more than a mere hope that from this meeting of delegates will result a germ that will rapidly grow into federal union of a permanent character—a union from which, we may remark in passing, no colony can possibly reap a larger benefit than Western Australia."

AN experiment, with the object of testing the effect of the fire of the 80-ton gun on fortifications, was (says a London paper) carried out on August 2, at Shoeburyness, in the presence of the War Office Committee and the Commandant and Staff of the School of Gunnery. A representation of one of the most impregnable forts at Spithead, 60 feet long by 20 feet wide, has been built up on the Marshes, and divided into four sections. In front of the two inner sections two iron targets, each nine inches thick, separated by a layer of teak, were placed, and it was against one of these that the first experiment was carried out. The gun was placed in position at about 200 yards from the target, and loaded with 450lb. of pebble powder and a shot weighing 1700lb. The gun was fired by electricity, and examination showed that the projectile, with an initial velocity of 1588, struck the target exactly in the centre, cut through both iron slabs and facings of granite, and was embedded about 6 feet in the concrete behind. The result of the experiment appeared to give great satisfaction. This representation of a fort has cost some thousands of pounds.

REGARDING the revolt in the Soudan, a letter dated Khartoum, July 27, from a correspondent of a German journal, contains the following:—"General Hicks Pasha intends to begin the march to Kordofan at the end of the rainy season, towards the end of August or beginning of September. He will probably select the fortified camp of Duem, about 100 miles south of Khartoum on the western bank of the White Nile, as the basis of operations. His army consists of 6000 regular infantry, 1000 Bashi-Bazouks, 500 cavalry, one battery each of Krupp and mountain artillery, and six Nordenfeldt mitrailleuses. A reinforcement of 2000 infantry, and another mountain battery, which started from Cairo at the beginning of July, are soon expected. About 3000 men will be left behind for strengthening the garrisons of Khartoum, Sennaar, Karkog, and Kana. By the great defeat of the rebels by General Hicks the whole province of Sennaar and both banks of the White Nile have been wrestled from the grasp of the False Prophet, all the principal sheiks and tribes up to the 15th degree of latitude having made their submission. Mohammed Achmet—which is the true name of the Mahdi—now only remains master of Kordofan. All reports received from there at Khartoum tend to show that the number of his adherents is daily diminishing, in consequence of their late defeat, and that serious dissensions have broken out between the Mahdi and his chiefs. While he was formerly at pains to take good care of his men, and make their life in his camp as agreeable as possible, he has now become an exacting tyrant, who punishes the slightest offences with the cutting off of hands and tearing out of tongues."

A REMARKABLE scene took place at the House of Commons on the 13th August. Some time ago Mr. Arthur Peel, M.P. for Warwick, engaged to take 40 of his constituents over the House. On Monday morning he was surprised to learn that one train had left with 300 persons, and that another was leaving with an equally extensive freight. Upon their arrival at Westminster the impression for the moment was that they formed a provincial demonstration in favour of Mr. Bradlaugh. The members of the party, including many women who carried children in their arms, were conducted in relays by Mr. Peel through the principal apartments of the House.

MR. MATHEW ARNOLD'S papers on the educational systems of the Continent (says the Daily News) are perhaps unique in their kind. Knowledge for knowledge's sake is the text on which Mr. Arnold has earnestly and eloquently preached during the 30 years and more of his task as an educational inspector. Who can deny that such preaching is sorely needed in this age of cramming and competitive examinations?

ON the war against monopoly the Bullionist remarks:—"The agitation which has sprung up simultaneously in the three leading communities of the world—England, France, and America—against the excessive powers of corporations, will extend in volume and area and increase in force. Attention has been thoroughly aroused to the evils and dangers of the monopoly system—of putting unconditionally into the hands of individuals powers which may be used to the serious detriment of the community. The fact of allowing any company or person to have a monopoly of the disposal of any article required by the public necessitates, it is felt, the imposing of restrictive terms to prevent an oppressive use of it. It is not merely the Board of Trade and its functionaries, nor even the House of Commons' Committees, which are in the conspiracy against monopolies. The House of Lords is still more arbitrary and exacting in the public interest. Nothing could more eloquently proclaim which way the wind is now blowing. It is dead against monopolies of any of the necessities or conveniences of life being secured in the interest of private parties at the expense of the public. It is possible that this tendency may be carried so far that it would infringe seriously upon individual liberty. That is a danger to be guarded against in the future. It has not arisen yet."

THE London correspondent of a Calcutta paper writes:—"The engagement of Viscount Garmoyle, the eldest son of Earl Cairns, to Miss Fortescue, the actress, threatens to cause a 'revolution' in English society. I hear that during the past week a considerable number of young ladies occupying good positions in provincial society have come to London to 'try the stage!' The manager of the Savoy Theatre (where Miss Fortescue was an actress) has had ten such applications within six days. One of these is said to be from the youngest daughter of an English Canon in a well-known cathedral city. Another is from the youngest daughter of an eminent Manchester physician, the girl being only 15! Innumerable applications have been made at other London theatres, most of them being from the upper middle classes. Apparently many girls think they have only to go on the London stage, and the hand of a duke or an earl will be offered to them forthwith. The proprietor of the Savoy has reason to be glad of the recent engagement. It has filled the building night after night. It is rather amusing, however, to know that the young lady, whom so many wish to see, is not there at all now. She left shortly after the engagement. So the actress who took her place is being quietly envied by the eager throngs, only a few finding out the mistake."

An error occurs in the list of Amsterdam Exhibition awards published yesterday. The prize for baking powder, &c., was awarded to S. P. Hogg and Co., Wynyard-lane, not C. Hogg.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

Mr. A. M. Giles telegraph stationmaster at Tennant's Creek, who accompanied the police troopers and Mr. Shirley to search for the murderers of Martin, telegraphed to the Postmaster-General from the north on Thursday the following report:—"At half-past 8 o'clock on the afternoon of Monday, October 1, when about 21 miles east by north of Newcastle, and during a temporary halt, our party was suddenly attacked by a large body of armed natives, including the murderers, against whom warrants had been issued, and whose tracks our party had followed since September 22. The natives first threw a boomerang, which struck the tracker's horse. After this they immediately advanced rapidly towards our party, throwing their spears, and yelling fiercely. Our men mounted their horses quickly, and as the blacks continued to approach, and would not halt, our party was compelled to use their firearms in self-defence. Several shots were fired, after which the natives retired into dense hedgewood scrub. They were followed by our men as far as it was possible to penetrate the scrub. The natives threw spears into the air, so that these weapons fell amongst the whites, but fortunately without inflicting any injury. The troopers were utterly unable to move through this scrub more than at a slow foot pace, and failing to find the blacks, they camped at dusk without having been able to effect any capture. Owing to the entire absence of water, our party had to leave this place and push on further. Rees and the black boy Gurner saw and recognised all the offenders who are wanted amongst the horde of savages, except the blackfellow Nambina, who, however, may have been present, but was not seen. The effect of our firing cannot be ascertained accurately, but it is believed that at least two of the offenders were severely wounded. There were fully 70 natives present in the attacking party. Their tracks show that they have gone past here, and have left our express camp in a southerly direction." Mr. Todd, the Postmaster-General, upon receipt of this report, arranged with the Commissioner of Police to telegraph to Mr. Giles this morning that he will make arrangements for a party going out to Attack Creek to verify the reports recently brought in by the natives respecting the murder of Readford and others who left Attack Creek for the Buchanan River on the 5th ultimo. The following telegraphic communications have since taken place on this subject:—Question 1. "Have you heard any rumour of the murder of Readford's party? If so, have you reason to believe its truth?" Answer 1. "Yes; I have heard the rumour of the murder of Readford's party; I think it must be some distance to the east of Attack Creek, as Shirley and myself, with the police party from Tennant's Creek, left Readford and his party camped on Attack Creek, about 10 miles to the east of the line, on September 5th. When last seen they were going to start for Correlia station at about 2 a.m., and they intended pushing through, the distance being about 90 miles, without water. I am afraid there is some truth in the report, as they would have to pass through a powerful tribe of natives—the Wagats. J. F. Uhr, who was with Readford, informed me that he intended to start for Bourke on his arrival at Correlia, and would wire to me from there. I think it most likely the natives attacked Readford and his party while they were asleep and fatigued with riding a long stage. Readford was an experienced bushman, and always was most careful in dealing with the blacks. Do you think it advisable to abandon the present pursuit, and proceed in search of Readford's party? Mr. Shirley says that the natives of whom he is at present in search are making south, and will most likely make for Attack Creek, as their tribal territory extends as far south as that place." To this telegram the following reply was sent: "As you think the present pursuit will lead you to Attack Creek, continue it. It is desirable that you get on Readford's tracks as quickly as possible, and verify the report. Do you think it advisable to start a party from Alice Springs to meet you?" The following telegram was next received:—"We will keep on the present pursuit, leaving here on Sunday. As we have horses to shoe, and Mr. Shirley is waiting instructions from Inspector Besley, we do not think that a party sent from Alice Springs will be necessary as they would take too long. We can muster a strong party here. Mr. Shirley and myself will do all in our power to ascertain the fact of the murder of Readford as quickly as possible, and will keep you well informed of the movements of our party and alterations in our route." It will be seen from these telegrams that mounted constable Shirly's party will return to Attack Creek as early as possible, and will follow the track of Readford. Mr. Giles has taken with him an interpreter for communicating with the natives. There can be no doubt that he will shortly be able to obtain further information. The natives at Kirschner's Ponds confirm the previous report from the natives of Attack Creek as to the murders of the white men; but the former say that only two whites were killed, and not all the party.

PARLIAMENT OF TASMANIA.

HOBART, Friday.

The Legislative Council this evening, by a majority of one, decided that the Government Railway Bill be read that day six months. The ground of opposition taken was that there had not been sufficient information given as to the proposal. The real reason is generally said to be the desire on the part of the Council to shelve all railway proposals. Great disappointment and indignation are felt owing to this unlooked-for decision. The member for Hobart, who voted against the measure, will be called on to resign his seat. In the House of Assembly, the Premier moved the adjournment of the House owing to the unexpected rejection of the Railway Bill by the Council, and said the House had to consider what was to be done under the circumstances. He said that "another place" had caused much time and labour to be thrown away. The Ministry, he said, will take into anxious consideration what course they will adopt, and inform the House on Tuesday next, and they would then say whether they could cause a reconsideration of the railway proposals to be made.

VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Government is in communication with the Governments of New South Wales, South Australia, and New Zealand with a view to inducing them to assimilate the regulations for importing sheep, cattle, and pigs to those in force here and in Queensland and Tasmania. The New Zealand Government has agreed to the proposal, but the other two colonies have declined.

Dr. Youl has been elected president of the Medical Board of Victoria, in the room of Dr. Gillbee, resigned.

At a meeting of the Medical Board to-day a letter was received from a lady, asking if, on production of a proper diploma, she could obtain registration in this colony. The board resolved that in the terms of the Act it must accept diplomas of females from properly-constituted bodies.

The Government has received a number of despatches by the mail regarding the defence question. As to the class of projectile to be used at Sydney and Melbourne, it is recommended that the Service chilled projectile, capable of penetrating a 6-inch armour plate at long range, be used.

The Ordnance Inquiry Board visited the warships Cerberus and Nelson to-day, and were highly pleased with both vessels. There are very few obsolete stores on board, and both vessels are in a generally satisfactory state of readiness for use.

Messrs. Gaunson, Vale, Woodgate, and Brown remain in the field for the Emerald Hill election.

A trial of a new gas made from waste fat, &c., which is said to give as good a light as, and to be much cheaper than, coal gas, was made to-day. It emitted a clear and steady light, and is very favourably reported on by Mr. Cosmo Newbery.

The report read at the annual meeting of the Victorian Discharged Prisoners' Aid Society showed that 589 prisoners had been assisted last year, and 4421 since the formation of the society, which was reported to be doing excellent work in reclaiming prisoners.

Mr. Moncure D. Conway delivered his third lecture, which dealt in a highly interesting manner with Carlyle and "Hero Worship," at the Athenæum this evening. There was a large and appreciative audience.

The Young Men's Christian Association has arranged a railway excursion to Frankston, instead of the usual bay excursion, on the Melbourne Cup day.

The weather is showery with occasional splendid downpours all over the colony. Reports from all parts of the country speak in most glowing terms of the effect of the present rains on the crops. Some of the Wimmera farmers expect 35 to 40 bushels per acre, and the crops generally are expected to be most prolific.

A combination is being formed at Kiata and the Nhill district to cart produce to the South Australian border.

A railway signalman named Benjamin Rashleigh, who recently summoned a Mr. Sneddin for assaulting him in his signal-box, was charged at the City Court this morning with grossly assaulting the daughter of Sneddin and other little girls in the signal-box prior to the above alleged assault. After hearing the evidence of the little girls, who are about 11 years of age, defendant was committed for trial.

The Herald states that Professor Miller is quite ready to meet Foley in Sydney in a glove contest again, but is at present in training for a wrestling match, and also for his match with J. L. Sullivan, which is coming off shortly.

A very fine specimen of coal has been found in Gippsland, in the parish of Mirboo. It is said the outcrop shows good coal along a face of 25 feet.

The Australian Frozen Meat Company have finished loading the Garonne with 8650 carcases of sheep, which are looking beautiful. The next steamer will take 7000 carcases. The company have entered into a contract with the Orient line.

During the last few days beautiful appearances in the sky in the evening have been supposed to be an Aurora Australis. The Government Astronomer, however, thinks it merely a thick haze in the higher strata of the atmosphere, and also that the phenomenon is partly attributable to the unusual brilliancy of the zodiacal light.

The board appointed to report on spark catchers offered to the Railway Department state that Driver Tyrer's is the most effective. The second place is given to one submitted by the department. Other inventions, of which there are several, are pronounced to be of no practical value.

This morning a servant girl at Brunswick, named L. Nichol, attempted to commit suicide in a most determined manner by cutting her throat, but she is likely to recover.

Complaints are general all over the country as to the scarcity of labour. With the prospect of an extraordinarily fine harvest, the farmers view with great apprehension the prospect of a dearth of labour to gather it in.

Further disclosures have been made regarding the alleged highway robbery said to have taken place near Framlingham, which tend to show that the articles alleged to have been stolen were left under peculiar circumstances at a station, and then removed by a girl to a road. The police are making active inquiries into the suspicious affair.

Sheepstealing has again been very rife lately in the Western district, and it has been found necessary to form an association for the mutual protection of landowners in that locality.

Lord W. Melville who is on a visit to Australia for the benefit of his health, is a passenger by the John Elder.

QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Friday.

The steamer Derwent, whilst coming up the river at about 1 o'clock this morning, ran into a boat containing a man and a boy. Their cries for assistance were heard and a boat was instantly lowered. The boy was rescued, but the man who was with him could not be found, and has not since been seen. This accident is attributed to the occupants of the boat, who carried no light. No one on board the steamer saw the boat until the collision took place.

The dead body of a man named Peter M'Laughlin was found early this morning, lying in the street. An inquest will be held.

An informality has been discovered in some of the returns of the Burnett election, which has had the effect of reversing the previous published result. Mr. Moreton, an Oppositionist, is now declared duly elected. The polling in four electorates, viz., Burke, Kennedy, Mitchell, and Warrego, took place to-day. The final result of these elections is not yet known, and cannot be definitely ascertained for some time owing to the number of far-distant polling places. It is considered certain, however, that two Oppositionists have been returned for the Kennedy. The Ministerial candidates are polling best in the other three electorates. The Hon. S. W. Griffith had an enthusiastic reception at Gympie last night. After his meeting several thousands turned out and took part in the demonstration, and a torchlight procession was held, accompanied by a band of music, which marched through the town to his hotel. Mr. Griffith and the member for the district were banqueted at Gympie to-night.

Mining: Nos. 3 and 4 Glanmire, at Gympie, crushed 846 tons, which yielded 433 ounces gold. The Lukenow prospectors had a fine breaking down of auriferous stone yesterday. No. 1 South Phœnix struck some gold bearing leaders at a depth of 470 feet.

The weather is fine to-day.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

It is understood that an action is being brought against the Government for £4000 damages, for injury alleged to have been sustained by two property-holders contiguous to the North Fort, which, they assert, has been erected on the public road. The Government had offered £900 compensation, which the property-owners declined.

Since the return of Mr. Goyder, the Surveyor-General, after his leave of absence, several important changes have been made in his Department. Mr. J. W. Jones has been appointed permanent head of a separate Department, under the title of Conservator of Water, and he is to be responsible to the Commissioner of Crown Lands. The office of Deputy Surveyor-General, recently held by Mr. Jones, will be abolished.

The wine committee of the Agricultural Society held a meeting to-day, when they recommended the Government to appoint Mr. John Jacob, of Moorodroo, inspector of phylloxera, during the absence of Mr. Hardy from the colony. The committee also resolved to request the Commissioner of Crown Lands to arrange that an inspector should pay an early visit to the infected Geelong district to obtain information as to the vine disease.

TASMANIA.

HOBART, Friday.

A requisition is in course of being signed calling on the Hon. Alexander M'Gregor to resign his seat, owing to the vote he gave in the Legislative Council against the Railway Bill. A public meeting on the subject will most likely be held on Monday. Great indignation and excitement prevail throughout the city at the rejection by the Council of the Government proposals for railway construction.

COUNTRY NEWS.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our own Correspondents.)

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

The schooner Maria Virginia, which left here yesterday for Auckland (N.Z.) with coal, put back to port this morning, having sprung a leak.

Mr. J. Fletcher, M.L.A., has received a letter from the Commissioner for Railways, intimating that the hours of labour on the goods shed, Newcastle, will be reduced for three months to 54 hours per week, as an experiment whether the system will be practicable.

At the miners' quarterly delegate meeting, held yesterday, the motion that the Hunter River Miners' Association take part in the forthcoming eight-hour demonstration here was rejected by a majority of 12. The delegates also resolved that, while not opposing the proposal of the Trades and Labour Council regarding courts of conciliation, they consider them inapplicable to the Miners' Association.

The Kennedy Family opened to a good house at the Victoria Theatre last evening.

The weather is fine.

William Blyth has been fined £2, or one month's imprisonment, for making a disturbance at the Salvation Army meeting at the Protestant Hall last night, and for using obscene language. The fine was paid. The Bench is determined to protect the army while its meetings are properly conducted. The police affirm that it is doing good in the city.

At the sale yesterday of land between Newcastle and Tighe's Hill, belonging to the Northumberland Permanent Building Society, 26 lots, comprising the whole block, were disposed of for £4001.

The Customs revenue for the week was £1143 0s. 8d.

ALBURY, Friday.

The rainfall here up to this evening was nearly 1 inch. The rain appears to have extended over a large area, and will be of immense value to the crops. It is still raining.

The Circuit Court was opened to-day by his Honor Judge Faucett. The only case tried was that of Franz Richter, who was convicted of assaulting an old man named Barby, and was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment.

BLAYNEY, Friday.

The weather is perfectly wintry again, being cold and wet.

The Blayney Athletic Club have decided upon offering a £50 handicap, besides numerous other prizes, to be run for on Boxing Day.

COWRA, Friday.

Mr. John Thomas West, coroner for the district, and a jury of seven held an inquest at the hospital last evening on the body of James Condon, who had been brought from the Sheet of Bark and died within three hours after admission. Dr. Bartlett performed a post-mortem examination, and gave evidence which showed that pneumonia was the immediate cause of death, which had been accelerated by alcohol. A verdict in accordance with the medical testimony was returned.

The weather is warm, but cloudy.

CARCOAR, Friday.

A man named A. Thomas, a resident near Cadia, has been committed for trial by the Carcoar Bench for cattle-stealing. He will be tried at the next Bathurst Sessions.

The Eureka Lodge I. O. G. T. celebrated its first anniversary yesterday afternoon with sports, &c., held at Stoke. A tea meeting, followed by a public meeting, was held in the Academy of Music in the evening. There was a large attendance. Several officers from the Sydney, Bathurst, and Rockley lodges were present. The meeting was a success.

The weather is rainy; light showers are falling to-day at intervals, with every sign of continuing. The grass is springing nicely throughout the district.

The coming season has grand prospects for the farmers and for the pastoral interests.

CAMDEN, Friday.

Mr. M'Court, M.L.A., addressed the electors of Camden in the School of Arts this evening. The audience was very fair, and accorded him a warm reception. Mr. F. Ferguson, J.P., presided. On the motion of Mr. Darcy, a vote of confidence was passed.

Slight rain fell to-day, and there is every appearance of more.

It is reported that Clifford, the Illawarra sculler, is going to settle down here.

GOULBURN, Friday.

The weather to-day has been very boisterous, raising clouds of dust; rain is very much wanted.

A large sale of city properties was held to-day, at which the prices realised, notwithstanding the tightness of the money market, were very high. The sale is considered very successful. Glenelg, the residence of Mr. D. J. M'Leod, agent for the Australian Mutual Provident Society, who is leaving for New Zealand, has also been sold at a high figure.

HILL END, Friday.

A fire occurred at the courthouse this morning at 3 o'clock. The stables and kitchen were totally destroyed, and a large quantity of forage lost. The courthouse and barracks were saved with great difficulty, and are somewhat damaged. The Joint Stock Bank and Weir's Hotel had narrow escapes. The Presbyterian church, at the rear of the courthouse, took fire, but was saved by the townspeople, who worked hard and well. The buildings were the property of Thomas Wythes, of Milton, and are not insured. Hodgson's store, close by, was also in danger.

LITHGOW, Friday.

The weather is very warm, and appears unsettled.

During the week 160 acres have been taken up as conditional purchases.

TEMORA, Friday.

The attendance officer for the district, Mr. Tierney, visited Temora yesterday, and was engaged hunting up the truants from school, a goodly number of whom are to be found.

Rain is falling here to-day in light showers.

A pair of young horses attached to a new buggy, the property of Mr. Fitzpatrick, took fright in Hoskins-street yesterday afternoon (through a portion of the harness giving way) and bolted, smashing the buggy to pieces. The two occupants, after going about a quarter of a mile, slid out behind, and escaped serious injury.

WOLLONGONG, Friday.

This district is beginning to look beautiful after the rainfall of about 3 inches last week. Clover is more abundant than for years past.

100 vessels left this port last month, and 105 the month previous.

The Roman Catholic people here, who have declined to accept a Government grant to improve their old burial-ground on the beach on condition that the site should be resumed, are covering with sand the exposed human bones, by private efforts.

A new colliery is likely to be opened shortly near Mount Kembla, on the Messrs. Atchinson's land. It is stated that this company intend to ship at Port Kembla.

Yesterday, the Rev. T. C. Ewing, of this town, and his son Norman, received somewhat severe injuries by being thrown from their buggy through the horse taking fright by part of the harness becoming loose. Mr. Ewing was badly cut on the face, as also was his son, who, in addition, had one of his arms broken. Help was at hand, and the father and son were taken into town, where they are now progressing favourably.

URANA, Friday.

Splendid rain is falling here to-day, and already about 80 points have been registered. It is still raining.

WAGGA WAGGA, Friday.

The unseasonable heat which has been experienced for over a week has passed away, and the weather has changed. At an early hour his morning rain commenced to fall steadily, and has continued throughout the day with slight intervals up till 8 o'clock this evening, when 60 points of rain had fallen. The barometer still shows a downward tendency. At a late hour this evening it was raining very hard. This welcome downfall is looked upon as being the best of the season.

WILCANNIA, Friday.

Heavy rain fell here this afternoon; over one inch has fallen, and it is still raining. Slight rain fell to-day all along the Darling.

All stock routes now are open. A large number of sheep are now available for the market, and will now be started.

YOUNG, Friday.

The Circuit Court opened this morning before Acting-Judge Stephens. The only criminal case was one from Temora, which did not terminate until 5 o'clock. A man of colour, named Robert Campbell, was indicted for administering poison with intent to kill. Prisoner pleaded not guilty, and as he was unrepresented by counsel, Mr. James Gordon by express request of his Honor undertook the case and made an able defence. The evidence, although to some extent circumstantial, was very complete, the principal witness being Constable Neville, who was complimented on the way in which he gave his testimony. The summing-up was most careful, and occupied an hour and a quarter. After a deliberation of 15 minutes, the jury returned a verdict of guilty, and prisoner was sentenced to death. His Honor promised to lay any evidence in the prisoner's favour before the Executive, but bade him not to anticipate a commutation of the sentence.

A public meeting to give an expression of opinion as to the law of libel and contempt of Court is to be held on an early date.

Slight rains have fallen, and the weather is still threatening.

A GOODS TRAIN ON FIRE.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our own Correspondent.)

LITHGOW, Friday.

The goods train due at Tarana at midday on Wednesday last took up at Locksley two trucks of hay consigned to Sydney. These trucks were placed next the engine. After proceeding some distance a spark from the engine, as it is supposed, lodged in the hay and set it in a blaze. The fire was first observed by the engine-driver, M'Dougal, shortly before the train reached Tarana, when a dense volume of smoke was seen issuing from one of the hay trucks. M'Dougal at once stopped the train, and having uncoupled the burning truck from the rest of the waggons took it on to Tarana, where a copious stream of water was poured on the burning mass, and the fire was extinguished. There were 18 loaded waggons in the train, most of which, with their valuable freight might have been destroyed, had not the driver acted promptly as he did. The novel sight of an engine swiftly passing along with a truck on fire behind it, caused some excitement along the line.

A MYSTERIOUS AFFAIR.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our own Correspondent.)

LITHGOW, Friday.

A somewhat mysterious affair is reported from Tarana as having occurred on the railway. On Thursday, at a place about a mile on this side of the station, a respectably dressed elderly man was found lying near the line unable to move, and apparently much hurt. He was placed in the brake van of a passing goods train, and was taken on to Tarana, and subsequently on to Bathurst, where, after he had undergone medical examination, it was found that he was suffering from concussion of the brain. With great difficulty, as the sufferer was partly unconscious, it was ascertained that his name was John Bourke, and that he was a farmer residing near Raglan. It was ascertained subsequently that he was a passenger in the mail train on the previous night; but by what means he came by his injuries no one in the train, who was asked, seemed to be aware. The guard, on being questioned, stated that two men were passengers by the mail to Raglan, but neither of them got out, although the train stopped there. Mr. Bourke lies in an unconscious state at Tuck's Hotel, Bathurst, his condition being most critical.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

THE TURF.

There is every prospect of the Sydney Turf Club meeting being a success at Randwick to-day. Half-a-dozen events are set for decision, and most of the races promise to produce good finishes. Books have been opened upon the Favourite Handicap and the Farewell Handicap, and 1000 to 10 is offered on the field. Last night Stockdale ruled as first favorite for the Farewell Handicap at 5 to 1, and Wallangra was next in request at 6 to 1, and 7 to 1 was the best offer against Bristol, while the prices of the others ranged from 100 to 10 downwards.

Yesterday Archie was backed for all the money in the market at 6 to 4 for the Victoria Derby.

Mr. A. F. Smart, of Mona, has purchased the speedy Maribyrnong Plate filly Charming from Mr. Fennelly, but the price given has not been stated.

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs the following scratchings for the Hunt Club Meeting:—Hurdle Race, Bendigo; Flying Stakes, Sportive; Hunt Club Cup, Minalis, Sir Garnet, Antelope, Baronet. For the Caulfield Cup: Bryan O'Lynn, Boniface, Redbank, Loiter, and Vernet.

THE NEW SOUTH WALES CRICKET ASSOCIATION.

The adjourned annual general meeting of the members of the New South Wales Cricket Association was held at the Exchange Hotel last evening. There were about 50 members present, and Mr. P. B. Walker, vice-president, occupied the chair. Before proceeding to the business, Mr. R. Teece desired to take the ruling of the chairman as to the legality of the meeting. In the minutes of the proceedings it was there stated that the meeting was adjourned for a week, and as it was a fortnight since it was adjourned he contended that it was desirable that the ruling of the chairman be taken. The chairman was of opinion that, as Mr. M. H. Stephen had distinctly stated that the meeting had been adjourned for a fortnight, it was legally convened, and it was competent for the meeting to have the clerical error in the minutes rectified. Mr. Urquhart notified that he wished to withdraw the following motion standing in his name:—"That rule 2 be expunged, and the following substituted in its stead:—'The management of the association shall be vested in a committee, which shall consist of all delegates from all cricket clubs, as hereinafter provided, also one trustee from the New South Wales Cricket Association ground and one from the Domain cricket ground.'" He stated he had been induced to take that step owing to a suggestion of a conciliatory nature having been thrown out by the trustees, who were desirous of meeting a sub-committee of the association in conference, the basis of which was the recognition of the rights of the association with regard to the ground. Mr. Teece, in a meeting of this character, thought it was necessary for Mr. Urquhart to produce some documentary evidence; they ought not to take evidence of a hearsay character. Mr. Urquhart declined to give any particulars as to the suggestion, and stated he was perfectly satisfied, and wished to withdraw from the position he stood in. Mr. Cohen also wished to have some definite statement as to why the motion was withdrawn. Mr. J. Clayton then moved the next resolution as follows:—"Every cricket club numbering 30 members, whose subscription is not less than one guinea, payable annually, shall be entitled to send one delegate to the committee of the association, and an additional delegate for every additional 20 members, or such fractional part thereof as shall not be less than 15, provided that the number of paid-up members on the roll for the previous season shall, except in the case of clubs formed after the close of the season, be taken to represent the strength of a club, up to the 30th November in each year. From the 1st December in each year clubs must be represented on their strength for the current season." Mr. Clayton pointed out the benefits which both senior and junior cricket clubs would receive if his motion was carried. The alteration would make the junior clubs take more interest in the affairs of cricket. There need be no apprehension lest clubs which were not respectable might gain admission to the association, as the delegates would take care that any such organisations but would gain representation. Clubs having 45 members would be entitled to two delegates, and the increased representation would benefit senior clubs, as with their large number of members they would be more numerously represented. He disclaimed any desire to have junior cricket represented at the expense of senior cricket. Mr. Ellis seconded the motion, which was carried. Mr. S. Lindeman said it had been thrown out that a conference was to be brought about between the association and the trustees of the ground. If a sub-committee were to be appointed for that purpose, he was of opinion that the cricketers should nominate that committee. He reviewed at length the position between the association and the trustees, and affirmed the right of the cricketers to demand the whole control of the management of the Association cricket ground. He thought the cricketers should relieve the trustees of their liabilities, and take over the entire management. Mr. Lindeman then moved the following resolution, which was seconded by Mr. D. Gregory, but rejected after a very long and acrimonious debate, on the ground that the motion was not the original one read by the chairman, the objection being put by Mr. R. Teece, who further stated it could not be legally put:—"1. That in view of the relations existing between the trustees of the Association ground and this association, it is desirable that a committee be appointed to confer with the trustees in order to bring about some definite and satisfactory understanding. 2. That this meeting adjourn to this day three weeks in order to receive the report of the committee. 3. That such committee consist of Messrs. Hiddilston, Walker, Bevill, and the hon. secretary and hon. treasurer of the association." In speaking to Mr. Lindeman's motion Messrs. Clayton, Urquhart, Cohen, and other speakers, deprecated the length which Mr. Lindeman had gone, and declined to support that gentleman on the ground that, as the trustees were willing to meet the association in a fair and liberal spirit, it was but right that such friendly overtures should be accepted.

CRICKET.

The cricket season will be formally opened to-day on the Association Cricket Ground with a match between 21 players from the ranks of the junior cricketers and a strong senior eleven. The match will take up two Saturdays, and in order that the game may be played out play will commence each day at noon. D. W. Gregory will handle the "colts" team, and with his ripe experience no doubt anything of promise will be brought to the front. The turf is in good order though rather dead, so that the young bowlers will meet the strong batting opposed to them under favourable conditions, for with 21 smart fieldsmen properly posted the seniors will find it difficult to score. The following are the names of the contending teams:—J. Cleeve, Downes, Fletcher, Garrett, A. Gregory, Hiddelstone, Jones, H. Moses, Nunn, Powell, and Rigg, Adams, Conservative; Whiting, Sullivan, Maidment, Corio; Wills, Waverley Mechanics; Aitken, Ashfield; J. Ferris, Eastern Suburbs; M'Credie, Arundels; C. Richardson, — Richardson, Halligan, King, Belvidere; Patrick, Noble, Warwicks; G. Tooher, S. Deane, F. Moses, Alberts; C. Smith, Manly; Baxter, Carthona; Lee, University; captain, D. W. Gregory.

The cup match between the Orientals and Surrey United will be resumed at 2.15 this afternoon, on the cup wickets, Moore Park. Seven wickets of the Orientals are down for 68 runs, with Kitchen and Kidman at the wickets. This match is creating some excitement in junior cricketing circles.

A committee meeting of the Ironside testimonial was held last evening at the Cambridge Hotel, when the secretary was instructed to wait on Mr. Ironside and inform him of the amount received and ask him what form would he desire the testimonial to take. Mr. Rainford kindly offered his hall for the presentation, which will take place at the Cambridge Hotel next Friday evening, the 19st instant. The final meeting of the committee will take place to-night, when all arrangements for the presentation will be made.

The Carlton's first eleven will open their season to-day against 13 of the Carthona's, on the Domain. The latter it will be remembered figured very prominently last season in the Furness Cup contests, so a good match may be expected. The Boys, however, feel confident of success.

KENNEL CLUB.

A meeting was held yesterday in the rooms of the Agricultural Society, George-street, for the purpose of forming a Kennel Club, the object of the club being the improvement of the various breeds of dogs by means of periodical shows and trials, and such other means as may be deemed fit. It is proposed to hold shows and trials of dogs at least once a year. The management of the shows and trials, &c., of the club will be as far as practicable carried out on the lines of the English Kennel Club. Mr. J. H. Carruthers occupied the chair, and read a circular which had been forwarded to a number of gentlemen who, it was thought, would be likely to become members of the club. Such a club was much needed in Sydney, especially now that the importation of dogs was prohibited. Similar clubs existed in the other colonies, and as an example of their popularity it was mentioned that at the Dog and Poultry Club Show held a few weeks ago in Melbourne it was estimated that on the last day of the show fully 12,000 persons visited it. A code of rules was adopted, and it was determined to ask his Excellency the Governor, Lord Augustus Loftus, for his patronage to the club. Mr. Walter Lamb was elected president of the club, the Hon. George Thornton, Messrs. E. F. Stephen, and E. T. Wrench, vice-presidents; Mr. A. Grey, hon. secretary; Mr. Jas. W. Weir, hon. treasurer; Mr. Anthony Willows, hon. veterinary surgeon.

The following gentlemen were elected council:—Messrs. W. J. Halloran, R. B. Baynes, H. E. Lord, F. Fowings, F. Gannon, J. Castles, J. H. Carruthers, A. Bruce, W. E. Langley, and J. H. North. In concluding the meeting, the chairman pointed out that one of the causes of the non-success of previous dog shows was the want of proper accommodation and attention. He thought the club should petition the Municipal Council for a grant of land next the Australian Agricultural Society's ground for club purposes. It was pointed out by some of those present that the neglect of the police in enforcing the Dog Act was the cause of many mangy dogs wandering about the streets and infecting healthy animals. The neglect of the police and of the Inspector-General in not seeing that the law was enforced was severely commented on. The number of diseased dogs in the streets of the city was not only a disgrace, but a positive danger. A vote of thanks was passed to the chairman, and the hon. sec. was instructed to convey the thanks of the club to the Agricultural Society for the use of its rooms. About 50 gentlemen have signified their intention of becoming members of the club.

BALMAIN REGATTA.

In another column will be found the programme of the Balmain Regatta, which will take place on the Prince of Wales's birthday, 9th November, 1883. It will be seen that it includes races for all kinds of boats, both pulling and sailing. Regret is felt that none of the yachts from Victorian waters are likely to compete, as there is an event of a similar kind to take place in Hobson's Bay at the same time.

RIFLE SHOOTING.

The usual quarterly prize shootings of the Rifle Club in connection with First Regiment Volunteer Infantry were held during the quarter ending 30th September. The undermentioned are the prize winners and their scores:—

A picnic in connection with the Sydney Football Club is to take place next Saturday, at Chowder Bay. It will be seen by advertisement that entries for the sporting events close next Thursday evening.

The committee of the Victorian Coursing Club, our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs, have fixed for the season 1884 seven meetings, commencing on April 11. The Waterloo Cup is fixed for July 16, 17, and 18. The sale of Messrs. Wagner and Fanning's greyhounds is announced for the cup week, and will include Rhodanthe, the winner of the Australian and Waterloo Cups; Prosperine, winner of the previous Australian Cup, and Farderougha. Fifty saplings are also to be offered at the same time.

MINING INTELLIGENCE.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our own Correspondent.)

BRAIDWOOD, Friday.

The boring machine sent by the Government to Araluen for prospecting if a second bottom exists arrived to-day. It is considered that it should be employed in other localities in the district.

BLAYNEY, Friday.

The escort took 837oz. of gold for the Mint, 522oz. of which came from Brown's Creek.

CARCOAR, Friday.

The monthly escort took 829oz. 13dwts. gold. The monthly yield at Brown's Creek Gold-mining Claim yielded 523oz. retorted gold, which is supposed to be the greatest monthly yield of this mine. The manager has pushed on the main drives at the bottom level 140 feet, at the same time working the part of the mine available, namely, the surface cutting, about 30 feet deep; this, with a few runs of dirt from the middle workings at a depth of 90 feet, supplied the crushing grist. Lately the crushing has been considered handsome stuff put through, especially whilst the manager was working the permanent levels drives with vigour. It has cost the company over £2000 to perform this work in about seven months' time. The present prospects of the mine are improving. Grant's Amalgamated Company lodged to-day in the City Bank 39oz. 9dwts. of gold from a crushing on their lease.

LITHGOW, Friday.

Messrs. M'Intosh and Oakes are making active preparations to start copper-smelting works at Eskbank. Ore can be procured from Burraga and the Cowflat mines, and some is already on the ground ready for smelting.

TEMORA, Friday.

Lucas and party continue to obtain good specimens of gold out of the run recently discovered by them. The yield for the past week was about 24oz.

The report of the Hawkins Hill Consolidated Gold-mining Company, Limited, presented at a meeting of the shareholders in London on the 23rd July, stated that sufficient quartz had not been raised during the year to cover the expenditure. The receipts had amounted to £2289, against an expenditure at mine of £6921, Krohmann's Amalgamated, the Great Amalgamated, the Cornelian and other abandoned mining properties had been purchased for £514. The amount of calls in arrear, £7575, was chiefly due in respect of a call which had not been responded to by colonists, and the directors had issued a notice to all shareholders in arrear to the effect that their shares would be forfeited for non-payment within a specified timed. In the interests of the company the directors had engaged the services of a competent mining engineer, who was on his way to Sydney, to make a thorough examination of the mine, to examine the opinions of Messrs. Parrott and Slee respecting the property, and to report fully whether it would be desirable to have a series of borings made to test the nature of the underlying strata, and generally to report upon the character and cost of the works he would recommend to be carried out.

Mr. J. Morcombe reports having received the following telegram from Gympie:—"346 tons quartz from 3 and 4 North Glanmire yielded 429oz. gold. Dividend of 5d. declared. An additional 10 stampers now engaged on the stone."

The mining manager of the Great Central Copper-mining Company, Limited, reports, under date 1st instant:—"South Mount Hope. During the past month in Hodge's No. 1 shaft, 10-fathom level, the north end has been extended 20 feet 5 inches, the lode turning out 6 tons of ore to the fathom. The winze has been sunk 31 feet 2 inches, giving 14 tons to the fathom. In Hodge's No. 3 shaft the 10-fathom level south has been extended 17 feet 5 inches, the lode is at present small. In Hodge's No. 5 10-fathom level we have driven 15 feet west; but have not yet reached the lode. M'Kenzie's shaft has been sunk 4 feet 11 inches; ground pretty light. In the Comet No. 1 shaft the chamber at the 15-fathom level is being cut and ends opened out. The adit level south has been extended 12 feet 9 inches. Ore raised during the month, 151 tons; delivered to the smelting works, 288 tons; and ore smelted, 338 tons; rough copper made, 44 tons, and 25 tons of regulus of 25 per cent."

AMUSEMENTS.

SYDNEY LIEDERTAFEL.

Last night at the Protestant Hall the 10th concert of the Sydney Liedertafel was given, and, as usual, the room was crowded, the audience on this occasion being composed of gentlemen only. The programme was an excellent one: introducing several new numbers; and Mr. J. Ashcroft Edwards had arranged it so judiciously that every performance was heard to the fullest effect. Since the last concert the Liedertafel choir has been strengthened, and last night about 56 singers were upon the platform. The first part song given was Flemming's Integer vitæ," an ancient composition of quaint beauty, full of majestic harmony. The melody, sacred in style, was sung very sympathetically, the voices giving the effect of a swell on a grand organ. Another part song, "Union," followed immediately, and was an excellent contrast to its predecessor. This is a stirring patriotic song given with verve and dash and power, which gained it hearty applause. Otto's "The Dance" has often been given by the society, but never so effectively as it was at this concert, and the audience tried hard to obtain a repetition of it. "The Little Church" is a simple and very melodious composition by Becker, illustrative of a picturesque little church, standing alone, high on a mountain side, "A relic of years long passed away." An earnest, devotional strain pervades the whole composition, and the tinkling of the bell is cleverly suggested by the voices, while there is a final burst of praise, supposed to come from a congregation of worshippers, which the singers last night gave with thrilling effect. Abt's "Vineta" was well sung, and the "Liedertafel Polka" went crisply. The "Wine Galop" is a very stirring song, thoroughly Liedertafel music, suggestive of a band of jovial revellers carousing in some village on the Rhine, and alternately praising their liquor and pledging their sweethearts. "The Ruby tide set flowing" is one of Kücken's happiest efforts, a baritone singing a tuneful melody, echoed by a strong chorus; and "Lovely woman governs all," another of Kücken's part songs, is little inferior to it. Both were sung with great taste, and will bear repetition at several future concerts. A capital string orchestra, led by Herr Hage, played a couple of compositions so well that one would have liked to have heard each repeated. The first was a waltz and march by Volkmann, admirably interpreted by the conductor, the orchestra responding to his every direction, and expressing with thorough sympathy every shade of feeling in the composition. The Liedertafel orchestra have never done better than in their performance of this delicately beautiful movement, and they were equally successful in the subsequent march—a somewhat commonplace melody, in a rich and refined setting, given on the strings alone, suggestive rather of the march of a troop of handsome Amazons than of a body of rough soldiers moving to the martial rattle of the drum. The "Pizzicato Polka" (Strauss) was a pleasant novelty, and came with the effect of a score or two of mandolins. The quartette of 'cellos—Lachner's "Serenade"—was comparatively ineffective; but Mr. Charles Huenerbein's pianoforte solo, De Kontski's paraphrase of "Faust," was played with such vigorous effect that the performer was rewarded with a prolonged burst of applause. Herr Patek's 'cello solo, Röver's "Transcription of Schubert's Litany," was a very artistic performance, the merit of which was fully recognised by those who listened to it; and Mr. J. Parkes' solo—Legedre's "Souvenir de Poiton"—on that difficult instrument, the trombone, was a triumph of skill and perfect intonation, his variations being admirable. Mr. Hallewell sang Dr. Arnold's "Flow, thou regal purple stream," and Loder's "The Diver," and Mr. A. H. Gee sang Roeckel's ballad, "I cannot say good-bye," each number being exquisitely given.

"Taken from Life" was repeated last evening in the Theatre Royal before a good audience. This evening, "Pluck," a drama written by Messrs. Pettitt and Harris, will be produced. Great preparations have been made for putting the play on the stage in a thoroughly complete and attractive manner. "Pluck" is said to be one of the best of modern sensation dramas, and as the scenery has been painted by Mr. George Gordon, and the many mechanical effects attended to by Mr. Renno, there should be little lacking to ensure the success of the play. At the Masonic Hall large audiences are still the rule, and last night's attendance was no exception. To-night there will be a change of programme. At the Opera House the Polks in "Sam'l O'Posen" are still attracting large audiences. Last evening at the Gaiety a complimentary benefit was given to Mr. J. L. Hall and Miss Jessie Grey. An excellent programme had been prepared, and it is to be regretted a larger audience than assembled was not present to make the benefit a substantial tribute to the undoubted talent of Mr. Hall and Miss Grey. Byron's comedy, "Old Soldiers," and the farce "Toodles," with a ventriloquial performance by Mr. Millis between the plays, formed the programme. To-night the "Widow" and "Ixion" will be performed, and Mr. Charles Heywood and his birds and Mr. George Lawless are announced to appear, in addition to the already strong company of this theatre. At the Academy of Music "Kidnapped" was repeated, and to-night in addition to this play the "Limerick Boy" will be given.

To-night there should be a large audience at the Protestant Hall, when a popular concert—one of the series of really excellent "Saturday Popular Concerts"—will be given, the proceeds from which are to be handed to the Charles Packer fund. Apart from the splendid programme prepared, containing the names of Madame Rosalie Merz, Miss St. Clair, Messrs. Hallewell, Hinchy, Jackson, Huenerbein, and Herr Trancik, the object to which the proceeds of the concert will be given should be a warm appeal to all loyal lovers of music. The tenor solo from "David" and the aria "The Penitent Thief," from "The Crown of Thorns," the works of the late Mr. Packer, are among the songs to be sung.

The Balmain Coldstream Brass Band will perform this afternoon, at 3 o'clock sharp, at Callan Park Asylum grounds, the following programme:—March, "Milano;" valse, "First Love;" schottische, "Clotilda;" quadrille, "Inspiration;" valse, "Sweethearts;" march, "Adieu;" polka, "Chase;" galop, "Turtle Dove;" finale, "God Save the Queen."

The Newtown local brass band will perform in the grounds of the Prince Alfred Hospital this (Saturday) afternoon, weather permitting, at 3.30, the following programme:—March, "In Summer Twilight," by R. Smith; quadrille, "The Abbotsford," by Carlo Zotti; valse, "Happy and Gay," by J. S. Jones; schottische, "Willowdale," by W. Phillips; march, "Little Hands," by F. S. Jones; quadrille, "Songs of the Day;" valse, "Gipsy Queen," by C. H. R. Marriott; galop, "Royal Review;" National Anthem. Thos. H. Locksedge, bandmaster.

On Monday evening a concert will be given in the Town Hall, Petersham, in aid of the organ fund of Christ Church, Enmore. A very long programme, embracing no less than 18 vocal and instrumental selections of music has been drawn up, among the singers being Dr. Ellis, Mr. Rodd, and Miss Cowley. Mr. Hugh Duff will act as conductor.

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs that Messrs. Williamson, Garner, and Musgrove have arranged for the production of several theatrical novelties to be played by new-comers, chiefly burlesque and comedy performers.

CARPETS AND CHOLERA.—At the last quarterly meeting of the Kidderminster Town Council, Mr. Alderman Willis brought forward the following resolution:—"That the borough member be requested to immediately ask the Government what steps, if any, have been taken to disinfect this woole, carpets, rugs, and other textile fabrics arriving in the country from the East, before allowing them to be distributed to the public." He said he had no need for making any apology for bringing that motion forward, because not only were the members of that council taking steps to prevent the spread of cholera in our midst, but it could be seen from the London papers that the Government were on the alert to prevent any outbreak of the disease coming amongst us in this country. It was quite impossible for any man having anything to do with the textile trade of this country to be ignorant of the filthy rubbish imported into it from Egypt called wool, but which was more like dog hair in reality. It might be thought he was putting the thing too plainly, but if the public insisted upon having low-priced articles it was only right that they should be made aware of what they were getting. That was as regarded the wool. And then they came to the wretched stuff that was brought over, bale after bale in hundreds of thousands of bales, to the public as the productions of the finest looms of the East. They were the carpets from those Eastern houses and mosques—the prayer carpets—that had become almost saturated with filth. The thing was, let them warn the public of what they were, and if after that they used them, and so introduced cholera into their households, they would have no one to blame but themselves. He begged to move that resolution, and hoped the Mayor would second it. The Mayor said he should have no objection to second it. The motion was put to the meeting and carried unanimously.

HOT COUNTRIES.—ACIDITY OF STOMACH, BILLIOUSNESS, FEVERS.—"Though unasked by Mr. Eno, or any one interested in the manufacture of Fruit Salt, or rather the crystallised Salts of various fruits, I nevertheless take great pleasure in saying that I have personally used this remedy, and know it not alone to be excellent but really invaluable. Especially must this be the case in the hot countries of the East, where acidity of the stomach, billiousness, and fevers are so common.—J. M. Peebles, M.D., author of 'Around the World'; 'Travels in Polynesia, China, India, Arabia, Egypt,' " &c. &c.—[ADVT.]

COMMERCIAL.

WOOL, PRODUCE, AND STOCK REPORT.

WOOL.—The catalogues offered this week were of little or no importance. The best lots of scoured realised to 19½d, and greasy to 9½d. The new season's fleece continues to come to hand freely, and Messrs. Mort and Co. have announced that they will hold their opening sale with a large catalogue on the 17th instant—the day on which the sales in Melbourne are to be opened.

SHEEPSKINS.—There was brisk competition for the sheepskins offered this week, and late prices were fully maintained. Best sold at from 6d. to 7½d., others from 1½d. per lb.

TALLOW.—627 packages were offered at yesterday's sales, 378 being sold. Prices were scarcely so high. Best beef may be quoted at £33 to £34 5s.; mutton, £35 to £36.

HIDES.—6760 were submitted at yesterday's auctions, and 5750 were sold. Extra heavy hides brought last week's prices; others were scarcely so dear. Light hides in good demand. Extra heavies, 4d. to 4½d.; medium, 3½ to 3½d.; light, from 3d. Calfskins realised to 8s. Kangarooskins in request at up to 30s. per dozen. Horsehides sold well.

HORNS AND BONES.—There was a good demand for horns at the last sales, up to 40s. per 100 being paid for large sound ones; others from 5s. Bones were in active request at from £4 to £11.

HAIR.—There is no change to notice in produce under this head. Horse tail commands 15d. to 18d.; mane, 9d. to 11d.; and cow from 4d. to 15d.

Beeswax, 8d. to 10½d.

LEATHER.—The demand was very light at this week's auctions. Sole and harness were in slightly better request, other descriptions being dull of sale. Quotations:—Sole—heavy, 11d. to 12d.; medium, 9d. to 10½d.; light, 8½d. to 8½d.; kip—best, 16d. to 17d.; medium, 13½d. to 15d.; cow twood—best, 18d. to 21d.; medium, 14d. to 16d.; yearling twood, 19d. to 24d.; calf twood, 21d. to 27d.; mixed calf, 24d. to 30d.; harness, 12d. to 14d.; bag, 8s. to 10s.; bridle, 8s. to 11s. 6d.

STORE CATTLE.—Business in store cattle is quiet. Bullocks are worth from 50s. to 70s. Mixed cattle in limited demand at 30s. to 40s.

STORE SHEEP.—There is very little doing in store sheep owing to the drought rendering it impossible to travel them. Shorn wethers may be quoted at 4s. to 5s. 6d.; ewes, 7s. to 9s.; unshorn, 7s. to 9s.; ewes, 9s. to 12s.

STATIONS.—The tightness of the money market and the unsettled state of the land question continue to operate against the transaction of business under this head. The only sale reported this week was of the Balbiair station, in the New England district.

MESSRS. BRUNKER AND WOLFE'S REPORT.

Fat Cattle: 1730 yarded for the week, about equal proportion on each day. The market was dull excepting for prime picked pens, which made 21s per 100lb. We sold in Maitland 54 bullocks (Dangar Brothers) at £7 8s to £8 15s, 40 bullocks (H. Rourke) at £4 19s to £7 9s, 30 bullocks (estate late J. Brown) at £5 5s to £5 10s, Binnie's bullocks £5 11s to £8 5s, Power's bullocks £5 6s to £6 7s, and several small lots at various prices. Fat Sheep: 18,300 penned for the week's supply. Thursday's market showed signs of improvement for anything prime; 56lb. wethers worth 15s. We sold 1503 wethers (Dangar Brothers) at 12s 7d to 14s 1d; 1107 ewes (G. P. Fitzgerald) at 11s 5d, 204 ditto (culls) at 9s 9d—Maitland. Pengelly's wethers at 12s 11d to 14s, Binnie's wethers at 13s, Binnie's wethers at 12s 6d, Taggart's 15s 3d to 16s 6d, Brown's ewes 7s 5d to 7s 6d, Doyle's wethers (shorn) 8s 9d to 9s 3d, Taggart's lambs 9s 4d to 13s 3d, Lupton's ditto 9s to 11s 3d. Fat Lambs: Market glutted, over 1600 penned to-day; best made to 9s, others from 5s up to 7s 6d. We sold 370 Perett's at 8s 3d, Elsley's to 9s. Fat Calves: Market well supplied this week with prime quality; prices lower. We sold Brown's at £1 13s 6d to £2 5s, Markwell's at 21s to £1 10s, Keys' 15s to £1 17s, Hills' £1 5s to £1 8s. Fat Pigs: Market firm at last week's quotations. We sold 210 for various owners at 19s to 60s. Wool: The catalogues submitted during the week did not include any attractive lots. The new clip is coming in freely, and all available storeroom rapidly filling up. The first sales of any note are expected to be held about the middle of the month. We quote—Washed fleece, 14d to 22d; and greasy ditto, 8d to 11d per lb. Sheepskins: A much larger supply than usual were offered at this week's sales. At our store all the available space provided was fully taken up. Competition ruled brisk for all full-woolled clean skins, which brought to 6½d per lb, short-woolled from 3½d, and pelts from 1d per lb. Tallow: Prices declined fully 20s per ton. Butchers' mixed lots brought £31 to £34 5s per ton. Hides: Best heavies firm at 4d to 4½d, others from 3½d per lb.; horsehides, 3s 6d to 7s; calf and yearling skins, 1s to 8s 6d each. Hair: Horse mane and tails, 13d to 19d; cowtails (clean), 8d to 14d; dirty, 5d to 8d per lb. Horns, large, 30s to 40s; medium, from 15s; and tips, from 3s per 100. Bones: Shanks, 5s to 10s 6d per cwt.; common bones, 45s to 60s per ton. Hoofs, 3s 6d to 6s 6d per cwt. Wax, 9d to 11d per lb. Honey, 5d to 6d per lb. Bacon, 7d to 8d per lb.—October 4.—[ADVT.]

HORSE MARKET.

MR. GEORGE KISS.—The market is still very bare of all kinds of horses, but the quantity forward was greater than last week. The demand for good useful saddle and light harness horses is better at the present than I have seen for years, and those forward sold readily and well at from £10 to £20; first-class ditto ditto (few of which came to hand) brought from £25 to £45, by auction and privately. Young upstanding van horses are wanted by several people (for town uses principally), and realised, I consider, splendid figures, and ranged from £20 to £33. Active draught are without alteration in prices. Extra heavy draught were not so well represented, but what were knocked down improved on prices of previous week, and exchanged hands at from £27 to £43. No carriage horses were offered; if young, well grown, and matched, good colours, &c., will bring from 70 guineas to 120 guineas. I sold a small lot of useful harness horses for shipment at from £14 to £24 each. No cows came under the hammer.—October 4.

MESSRS. WILLIAM INGLIS AND CO.—The market but poorly supplied with horses of almost every description this week, but more especially for superior harness horses. Heavy draught stock were fairly represented, and sold at about late rates, and well-bred harness horses are required and would sell well if to hand. At the bazaar our sales were as follows: 17 head of heavy draught horses and mares, from £38 to £45; 30 head of cart-horses, from £18 to £28; 15 head of well-bred harness horses, from £18 to £23; 30 head of useful harness horses, from £10 to £15; 20 head of light harness horses, from £5 to £10; very light horses, 15 head, £1 to £5. At the Camperdown Yards we sold 30 head of heavy and light horses, for Mr. D. M'Kinnon, at quotations.—October 4.

T. COSGROVE AND CO.—The supply of horses forward this week was very good, and prices well maintained, especially for strong, active, light harness horses. We had some very nice draught horses from Maitland and the South Coast district, and although a few first-class animals reached high figures, ordinary draughts are anything but firm. Van horses sold readily from £24 to £33 10s; buggy horses, £27 to £35; well-bred saddle and harness horses, £30 to £45 each. In light horses we did a big trade; suggetty cart horses, £18 to £26 each; no carriage pairs to hand. A few nice cows went through our hands this week, top price £12 10s. The usual number of vehicles and turnouts changed hands at satisfactory prices.—October 4.

MELBOURNE LIVE STOCK MARKET.

[MESSRS. R. GIBSON AND CO.'S REPORT.]

MELBOURNE, OCT. 3.

Fat Cattle.—1618 head penned, 216 of which arrived from Queensland, the remainder from Victoria. The quality throughout was much better than of late, which, together with the warm sultry weather, caused a great dulness, and prices unexpectedly fell from 15s to 20s per head. We quote—Best bullocks, £11 to £12 (extra, £13 12s 6d); good, £9 10s to £10 10s; second, £6 10s to £7 10s; others, from £5; best cows, £7 to £9; others, from £4. We sold 55 bullocks and cows from Kiewa; 44 bullocks for Mr. J. Grieve, Bungowannah; 42 cows and bullocks for Mr. W. Symington, Kiewa; 31 cows and bullocks for Messrs. J. and R. Goldsworthy, Kergunyah, to £10 12s 6d; 30 cows and bullocks for Mr. B. Mitchell, Bethanga, to £10; 26 cows and bullocks for Sir W. J. Clarke, Bald Hill, to £12; 21 cows and bullocks for Mr. J. Mitchell, Bethanga, to £11 5s; 14 cows, for Mr. J. Lobban, Round Hill, to £9 5s; 11 cows and bullocks, for Mrs. Jenson, Yackandandah; 10 bullocks for Mr. J. Miller, Noorilim; 10 cows and bullocks for Mr. J. Gowling, Kergunyah; 10 bullocks for Mr. J. Symington, Wangaratta; 10 bullocks for Mr. W. Fraser, Tallygaroopna, to £11 15s; 10 bullocks and cows for Mr. W. Mitchell, Lower Bethanga; and small drafts for Messrs. Joyce, Hann, Morrison, and Henry.

Fat Calves.—75 yarded; a few good. The market was dull at late rates. Best, 55s to 65s; good, 35s to 45s; second, 20s to 30s; inferior, from 10s. We sold: 11 for Mr. D. Gorman, Beveridge, and Mr. W. Mitchell, Bethanga.

Fat Sheep.—12,637 yarded, the largest proportion being medium to good, very few prime. Sales were very brisk, and prices advanced 6d to 1s per head. We quote: Best merino wethers, 15s 6d to 16s (extra, 17s); good, 14s 6d to 15s; seconds, 13s to 14s; others, 10s up; best crossbred wethers, 17s to 18s (extra, higher; good, 16s to 16s 6d; seconds, 14s to 15s; others, 12s 6d up; ewes as usual. We sold: 1101 crossbred and merino wethers for Mr. O. Simms, Cornelia Creek, at 18s and 15s 6d respectively; 860 crossbred wethers for Sir W. J. Clarke, Bald Hill Estate, at 17s; 202 merino wethers for W. Fraser, Tallygaroopna, at 17s—the top price of the market; 200 for Mr. J. Inglis, Benalla station, at 16s 6d for crossbred wethers. 16s for merino wethers, and 10s for ewes; 62 crossbred ewes and merino wethers for Mr. R. M'Adam, Barrakee; 45 crossbred ewes for Mr. M. O'Connell, Bacchus Marsh, to 13s; and several drafts for Messrs. P. Grant and D. Robertson.

Fat Lambs.—Only 2900 forward, principally useful qualities, with a small proportion of prime. Sales were unusually brisk, at prices fully 1s per head advance on last week's rates. We quote—Best, 10s 6d to 11s 6d; good, 9s to 10s; seconds, 7s 6d to 8s 6d; others, 6s up. We sold—301, for Mr. G. Simmie, Cornelia Creek, at 10s; 102 for Mr. M. O'Connell, at 9s; 102 for Mr. J. Inglis, Benalla station, to 9s; 64 for Mr. H. Ennis, Barrakee, at 9s 6d; 53 for Mr. R. M'Adam, Barrakee.

Store Stock.—We have sold (in conjunction with Messrs. C. L. Griffith and Co., at Albury), 132 store bullocks.

TRAMWAY MISMANAGEMENT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The manner in which the authorities countenance and permit the daily overcrowding of the Government tramcars is a matter of surprise to everyone, to say nothing of the discomfort caused travellers thereby, or the dangerous consequences that may, and in all probability will, result therefrom. One would think that the Government would set an example in the respect of proper regulation of traffic; and, to say the least, the present system of this dangerous overcrowding shows a niggardly, grasping spirit on the part of the Government. The overcrowding has assumed such proportions that many passengers, to ensure a seat to Woollahra, Waverley, or Newtown, are compelled to go to the terminus in Bridge-street, and thus often put to the expense of taking a car there for that purpose; and it really is frequently a matter of impossibility for many to get a seat, or even standing room, in a tramcar anywhere on the route the other side of King-street.

Contrast this tram-overcrowding allowed by the Government, who thus profit to the extent of the fares carried above the proper number, with the regulations made by it for the prevention of the overcrowding of omnibuses and other licensed vehicles and steamboats. An omnibus driver, if he is caught carrying only one passenger above his licensed number, is summoned to the police court and fined £2, and his plea that he could not prevent the passenger getting on is of no avail. A master of a steamboat, if he carries over his licensed number, is liable to be fined so many pounds (I believe £20) a head for each passenger so carried. Now, there is no doubt that if a private company had these tramways the Government would have long since made regulations for its management, and fixed heavy penalties for overcrowding. And the Government having taken the monopoly of the conveyance of the citizens from the city to their homes, and thus run the 'buses off the lines, should study the convenience and comfort of the public, and provide adequate accommodation. Last evening the tram leaving for Woollahra at about 6 (motor No. 36, last car No. 48) carried about 200 passengers more than it had room to seat. The sight of it in Elizabeth-street was shameful—the steps and platforms were all crowded, many were standing on the ledges at the sides of the cars, people were standing between the seats, the passages on the outside between the seats and the rails were crowded, and numbers were sitting on the rails themselves.

It is a matter of common occurrence for only one tram-car to meet some of the early morning trains, and thus many are compelled to walk from Redfern to their offices or places of business. Further, if the tram time table for Newtown be compared with the railway time table, it will be seen that many of the trams and trains leave Newtown at almost the same time, instead of between times. Surely, too, the fare from Redfern to the city should be 1d. It is to be hoped that immediate steps will be taken to rectify the present objectionable state of things.

I am, &c., A CONSTANT TRAVELLER.

Sydney, Elliott Brothers; Melbourne, Felton, Grimwade, and Co.; Adelaide, Faulding and Co.
Sold by all chemists and druggists.

GRIMAULT and CO.
PHARMACEUTICAL CHEMISTS.
PARIS: RUE VIVIENNE, 8, PARIS.

DUSART'S SYRUP OF LACTOPHOSPHATE OF LIME.
This preparation enriches the blood, strengthens the bones, and improves all the vital energies.
Phosphate of Lime is the substance most necessary to life; indispensable for the formation and nutriment of the bony system as for the transformation of food into muscular fibre. Without it the body wastes away, and it is to supply the lack of the Lactophosphate of Lime that Dusart's Syrup is so useful, and it is of inestimable benefit for Convalescents, Weak and Old People, and Rickety Children, who find in it the Calcareous Elements entering into the Constitution of the Bones. Well adapted to Ladies in the Family-way, Wetnurses (whose milk it enriches), and to stop Children's Diarrhœa.

ASTHMA. ASTHMA.
GRIMAULT and CO.'S INDIAN CIGARETTES.
Asthma, Nervous Coughs, Chronic Laryngitis, Hoarseness, Loss of Voice, Facial Neuralgia, and Insomnia, are rapidly relieved by using these Cigarettes.

DISEASES OF THE CHEST.
GRIMAULT and CO.'S SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITE OF LIME.
Persons suffering from catarrh, consumption, colds, or obstinate coughs, and generally those afflicted with diseases of the chest, bronchia, or lungs, should use Grimault and Co.'s Syrup of Hypophosphite of Lime, which, prescribed for years past by the medical authorities of all countries, has invariably effected wonderful cures. By the use of this syrup the cough is calmed, nocturnal sweats disappear, and the appetite rapidly improves—a fact soon demonstrated by an increase of weight and improved appearance. Grimault's Syrup is of a rose colour, and contained in flat oval bottles.
Sick Headache, Neuralgia.—Grimault and Co.'s Guarana.—This medicine owes its curative virtues to the great quantity of Caffein which it contains. Dr. Wilks, of Guy's Hospital, declares in the British Medical Journal that Guarana acts "like a charm." "Guarana Powders are a certain remedy for sick headache."—The Lancet, August 31, 1872. It is the most valuable remedy against Diarrhœa, Dysentery, and all disorders proceeding from derangement of the stomach or bowels.

STEEDMAN'S SOOTHING POWDERS
FOR CHILDREN CUTTING TEETH.
CAUTION TO PURCHASERS.
The value of this well-known Family Medicine has been largely tested in all parts of the world, and by all grades of society, for upwards of FIFTY YEARS. Its well-earned extensive sale has induced SPURIOUS IMITATIONS, some of which, in OUTWARD APPEARANCE, so closely resemble the original as to have deceived many purchasers. The proprietor, therefore, feels it due to the public to give a special caution against the use of such imitations.
Purchasers are therefore requested carefully to observe the four following distinctive characteristics, without which none are genuine:—
1. In every case the words JOHN STEEDMAN, Chemist, Walworth, Surrey, are engraved on the Government stamp affixed to EACH PACKET.
2. Each SINGLE POWDER has directions for the dose, and the words "John Steedman, chemist, Walworth, Surrey," printed thereon.
3. The name Steedman is always spelt with the two EE's.
4. The manufacture is carried on solely at Walworth, Surrey.
Sold in packets by all Chemists and Medicine Vendors at 1s 1½d and 2s 9d each. Sold in Sydney by ELLIOTT BROTHERS.

Testimonials can be had on application.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated publicly in Court that Dr. J. Collis Browne was undoubtedly the inventor of Chlorodyne, that the whole story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, and he regretted to say it had been sworn to.—Times, July 13, 1864.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne.—The Right Hon. Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians and J. T. Davenport that he had received information to the effect that the only remedy of any service in cholera was Chlorodyne.—See Lancet, December 31, 1864.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne "is prescribed by scores of orthodox practitioners. Of course it would not be thus singularly popular did it not 'supply a want and fill a place.'"—Medical Times, January, 13, 1866.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is the best and most certain remedy in coughs, colds, asthma, consumption, neuralgia, rheumatism, &c.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is a certain cure for cholera, dysentery, diarrhœa, colic, &c.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne.—Caution: None genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle. Sole manufacturer, J. T. Davenport, 33, Great Russell-street, London. Sold in bottles at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, and 11s. Agents, Sydney, ELLIOTT BROTHERS.

PEPPER'S QUININE AND IRON TONIC possesses all the powers of these valuable tonics in banishing diseases and symptoms traceable to weakness. It rouses and develops the nervous energies, causing increased action of all the nerve centres, enriches the blood, promotes appetite, dispels languor and depression.

PEPPER'S QUININE and IRON TONIC strengthens the nerves and muscular system, improves digestion, animates the spirits, thoroughly recruits the health and strength. Bottles (32 doses), 4s 6d. Sold by chemists everywhere. Insist on having Pepper's Tonic. Made only by J. Pepper and Co., London.

SULPHOLINE LOTION.—An External Means of CURING SKIN DISEASES. There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine," and commence to fade away in a few days. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches, scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic, while old, enduring skin disorders that have plagued the sufferers for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalculæ which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produces a clear, healthy condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists, and ELLIOT BROTHERS, Sydney. Bottles, 2s 9d. Made only by J. PEPPER and CO., London.

TARAXACUM and PODOPHYLLIN.—This fluid combination, as a stimulant to disordered liver, is safer than calomel, blue pill, or destructive antibilious medicines. In all cases of congestion or liver complaint, Taraxacum and Podophyllin sets the sluggish liver in action, moves the stomach very gently indeed, giving a sense of clearness and comfort within a few hours. The symptoms of liver derangement—headache, torpidity, costiveness, flatulence, heartburn, sense of over-repletion, shoulder pains, repugnance to food, general discomfort and depression—are quickly dispelled by Taraxacum and Podophyllin. Prepared solely by J. PEPPER and CO., London. Insist on having the correct preparation. Bottles, 2s 9d and 4s. 6d. Sold by Chemists everywhere.

DERMATOLOGY.
JAMES H. ADGER, Dermatologist,
Office: 131, Elizabeth-st., Sydney, treats successfully all diseases of the skin and scalp, loss of hair, premature blanching, and general cultivation and growth of the hair; and, as a result of this experience, he may point to his flattering success during several years' practice in this city, without reference to the many special cures he has affected, as the best proof of the general efficiency of his system of treatment.
Mr. Adger may be consulted at his office, 131, Elizabeth-street, where letters and testimonials are open to inspection, which must satisfy the most sceptical, signed as they are by persons of the highest positions in society. It will be obvious that no person could have obtained such names as an endorsement of his professional ability without constant proof of merit.

THIS DAY, SATURDAY.

FIRST GRAND SUBDIVISION
of the
CAMPBELLFIELDS ESTATE, situated adjoining the
MINTO STATION,
of the
GREAT SOUTHERN RAILWAY,
3 miles on the Sydney side of CAMPBELLTOWN.

DAY OF SALE,
6th OCTOBER, 1883,
ON THE GROUND,
at 2 o'clock.

About 2000 ACRES of this rich Land have been subdivided as follows, viz.:—

THE TOWNSHIP OF MINTO,
having Allotments of about HALF AN ACRE EACH, with ROADS from 99 FEET to 66 FEET WIDE.

SUBURBAN SITES
FOR VILLA RESIDENCES, ranging from 3 to 15 ACRES EACH.

AGRICULTURAL and GRAZING FARMS, varying from 15 to 27 ACRES EACH, and so arranged that buyers may obtain LARGE BLOCKS up to 180 ACRES free from intersecting roads.

TITLE UNQUESTIONABLE.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from the HON. S. A. JOSEPH, as agent for the proprietors of the CAMPBELLFIELDS ESTATE, to sell by public auction,

ON THE GROUND,
THIS DAY, SATURDAY,
at 2 o'clock p.m.,

The above extensive, valuable, and well-known property, subdivided into THREE CLASSES of INVESTMENT, viz.:—

THE TOWNSHIP of MINTO, containing 160 ACRES of the estate, immediately adjoining the MINTO RAILWAY STATION, has been laid out with much care into allotments, averaging about half an acre each, having 66 feet frontages to wide roads and streets, the principal road, running along the railway fence, being 99 feet wide, and none of the streets are less than one chain in width.

THE SUBURBAN VILLA SITES, of which there are about 130 in number, range in size from 3 acres to 15 acres, and have been so arranged that buyers may obtain large blocks suitable to their requirements. They have all frontages to wide roads, and a large area of them consists of cleared land of rich soil, which some years since was under cultivation and noted for its crops.

On LOT 148, containing 14a. 3r. 14p., partly enclosed with fencing, and fronting a 99-feet road, is a well-built weatherboard residence, having brick chimneys, and containing verandah on three sides, hall, six rooms, and outhouses, with good tank in centre of yard.

On LOT 149, containing 11a. 3r. 30p., adjoining the above, is a well-built weatherboard house with brick chimneys, having verandah in front, and containing five rooms. About one acre of the land has been laid out and planted as a garden and orchard.

On LOTS 6, 23, 111, and 214, are various small improvements; and on LOTS 134 and 135, of 3 ACRES EACH, stands the old HOMESTEAD of the Estate, occupied by Mr. P. Scanlon, the present lessee of a portion of the estate.

Outside the Suburban Sites the remaining portion of the land has been subdivided into AGRICULTURAL and GRAZING FARMS, containing various areas, ranging from 15 TO 27 ACRES,
and so arranged that buyers may obtain large blocks extending to 180 acres free from intersecting roads.

Many of these farms are cleared, and when fenced will be ready for immediate cultivation.

THE TERMS OF SALE ARE LIBERAL—10 PER CENT. CASH DEPOSIT, 15 PER CENT. by promissory note at 3 months' date without interest, and the BALANCE at 1, 2, and 3 YEARS, with interest added at 6 per centum per annum, without mortgage.

BUYERS of £500 and UPWARDS may let TWO-THIRDS of their purchase money remain on MORTGAGE for 5 YEARS, bearing interest at the rate of 6 per centum per annum, payable quarterly.

A SPECIAL TRAIN will leave REDFERN STATION at 12.45 SHARP THIS DAY, TICKETS for which can be obtained at the AUCTIONEERS' ROOMS at a COST of TWO SHILLINGS each for the RETURN JOURNEY.

FREE LUNCHEON will be provided on the ground, and the SALE will COMMENCE immediately afterwards.

PLANS ON VIEW AT THE ROOMS, and LITHOGRAPHS are now ready for issue.

Messrs. NORTON, SMITH, WESTGARTH, and SANDERS, of Spring-street, Sydney, are SOLICITORS for the vendors, and the estate has been laid out and clearly marked by Messrs. ATCHISON and SCHLEICHER, surveyors, Pitt-street.

KATOOMBA.—Sale of Business and Residential Sites, at the Rooms, on Wednesday next. Hardie and Gorman.

WOLLONGONG, MOUNT KEMBLA.

516 ACRES, 2 ROODS, 20 PERCHES.

To be Sold by Order of the Executors.

In the Estate of the Late Hon. Robert Owen, M.L.C.
By order of the Executors.

RICH MINERAL AND CULTIVATION LANDS.

This fine property adjoins the Mount Kembla Coal Company's Freehold, and consists of five (5) blocks of 83a. 1r. 20p., 112a., 108a., 112a., and 106a. 1r. respectively, together 516a. 2r. 20p. distant, by very fair municipal roads, about 6 miles from steamers' wharf at Wollongong, and about 7 miles from Port Kembla Bay. The Illawarra Railway Line, in course of construction, is distant three miles from the property. The elevation is 1276 feet above sea level, and the views of the ocean and coast line from Jervis Bay on the south to Botany Heads on the north, with the Illawarra Lake and the fertile Illawarra Plains in the foreground are perhaps the grandest and most picturesque in Australia, and when the railway is open this part of the country will be much sought after, on account of its healthy, salubrious, and vigorous climate as well as for its scenery and well known character of soil.

THE MINERAL WEALTH
of this property is very great. The three top seams of coal and the seam of kerosene are leased on a royalty to the Mount Kembla Company, who are now raising their coal from the top seam in the estate and paying royalty on same. In addition there are two seams of coal, the fireclays and iron ores underlying the top seams, which can in the future be worked or leased on royalty.

THE WHOLE TO BE SOLD IN ONE LINE.

To Capitalists, Investors, Speculators, and Others.

HARDIE and GORMAN have received instructions from the EXECUTORS in the ESTATE of the late Hon. ROBERT OWEN, M.L.C., to sell by public auction, at their SALE ROOMS, PITT-STREET, SYDNEY, at 11.30 o'clock,
WEDNESDAY, 21st NOVEMBER,
The whole of that grand property as detailed above, including the right and interest of the Executors under the lease to the Mount Kembla Company.

The auctioneers feel confident that with the construction of the Illawarra Line (now in progress) an immense impetus will be given to the surface and mineral lands of this district. Arrangements to inspect, and to ascertain full particulars about the property, which is being sold under the provisions of the will of the late Hon. Robert Owen, M.L.C.

Messrs. HOLDSWORTH and EVANS, Pitt-street, Sydney, are Solicitors to the Estate.

SALE DAY,
WEDNESDAY, 21st NOVEMBER.

PROPERTIES UNSOLD.

HARDIE and GORMAN announce that the undermentioned PROPERTIES were NOT SOLD at the recent auctions, and that sales by private treaty will now be entertained:—

PITT-STREET, close to the Exchange.—A highly-important Estate, comprising Nos. 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, and 36, Pitt-street, a substantial block of buildings, all let, and producing £1298 per annum. The land possesses the noble frontage of 143 feet 3 inches. The position of this property is undeniably one of the very finest in the city. Title freehold.

BRIDGE-STREET and ELIZABETH-STREET.—An exceedingly valuable Block of vacant Building Land, situate in the very heart of the city, and possessing 102 feet frontage to Bridge-street, 100 feet frontage to Elizabeth-street, by 85 feet along a lane. Title freehold.

The land possesses 29 feet 1 inch frontage to Goulburn-street, and 60 feet 6 inches frontage to Dixon-street. Title freehold.

GEORGE-STREET WEST and BAY-STREET, situate fronting the junction of the Newtown-road. A thoroughly sound and improving investment in this thriving and busy part of the city, comprising a Shop and Public-house, known as the Huntsman's Inn, fronting George-street; also 3 Shops and 3 Dwelling-houses adjoining, situate in Bay-street. The whole let and producing £418 16s per annum. The land has 54 feet frontage by a depth of 150 feet. Title, leasehold, lease about 64 years to run, subject to the nominal ground rent of £30 per annum.

WOOLLOOMOOLOO, No. 98, Riley-street, being a Baker's Shop, together with Dwelling-house in the rear, let and producing £91 per annum. The land has a frontage of 20 feet by a depth of about 100 feet. Title, freehold.

SUMMER HILL.—A most attractive and substantially built Gentleman's Residence, standing in prettily laid out grounds, situate and known as Monteza, fronting the Liverpool-road. The house, standing well retired from the road, is in first-class decorative order throughout, and contains drawing-room, dining and morning rooms, 4 comfortable bedrooms, bathroom, servant's room, kitchen, and outoffices, also stabling in the rear. The pleasure grounds are tastefully laid out. The land has a frontage of 100 feet by a depth of 200 feet.

BURWOOD.—A most enjoyable detached Cottage Villa of pretty elevation, occupying a pleasant position in the Liverpool-road, surrounded by first-class residences, and containing ample accommodation for the requirements of a small family. This land has 60ft. frontage, by a depth of 190ft. Title, Torrens'.

STANMORE.—A desirable Family Residence known as Bournville, situate in Cavendish-street, a few yards west of Merchant-street, and overlooking the highly-improved grounds of W. H. Paling, Esq. The residence, which is thoroughly well built, is admirably suited for the occupation of a gentleman's family. The rooms are cheerful, lofty, and well-ventilated, and the fittings throughout are of the very best quality. Title, Torrens'.

PETERSHAM.—A comfortable Villa Residence, situate at the corner of Wardell-road and Fraser-street, containing dining and drawing rooms, 4 bedrooms, together with domestic and other outoffices. The land has 82ft. frontage, by a depth of 182ft. There is a pretty flower garden in front, and a productive kitchen garden in the rear. Title, freehold.

RANDWICK.—A compact Freehold Property, situate next to Donnelly's Halfway House, and almost fronting the entrance to the racecourse, comprising a substantial and comfortable Cottage, erected upon a valuable block of land possessing 43 frontage to the main Randwick-road, and having a depth of 100 feet to a lane 20 feet wide.

LANE COVE.—40 acres of really good Land, suitable for cultivation or profitable subdivision, situate close to Lane Cove-road, and within a mile of the proposed railway to North Shore, being a grant to Joseph Roberts. Title, freehold.

FOREST LODGE, close to John's-road and the tramway.—A sound investment in 2 Shops and a Cottage, situate in Ross-street, and let to good tenants. The land has 30 feet frontage by a depth of 125 feet. Title, freehold.

SURRY HILLS.—No. 8, Bellevue-street, known as Bellevue House, built of brick on stone, and containing 5 rooms, kitchen, washhouse, &c., and stabling in the rear. The land has about 16 feet 5 inches frontage by a depth of 75 feet. Title, freehold.

Full particulars and cards to view can be had on application at the Rooms, 133, Pitt-street.

FIJI.

RICH SUGAR LANDS and COCOANUT PLANTATION, RIVER FRONTAGE.

To be sold by public auction, to wind up a partnership account, on the 31st day of October, at Sydney, a valuable Block of LAND, situated on the Wainunu River, in the Island of VANUA LEVU, in the British colony of Fiji, containing 638 acres, and known as WAINABAU. Title, Crown grant, free from encumbrances and indefeasible. It is all GOOD FARMING LAND, no high hills, but gentle undulating tableland. It has about 1½ mile frontage to and on the right bank of the WAINUNU RIVER, about a mile from its mouth, and averages about three-eighths of a mile back from the river. There are about 50 ACRES of COCOANUTS planted by the late proprietor, and will soon come into bearing. The whole is well adapted for this industry, the adjoining proprietor having 500 acres planted and promising well. 150 acres, including the nuts, are cleared; the remainder is heavy bush suitable for converting into sawn timber. It is well situated for a central sugar mill. A large native population in its vicinity could grow cane for the mill on their own account, and from whom plantation labourers could be obtained. The south-east trade winds are fair to and from Levuka, and the estate is about 50 miles distance therefrom. Lands in the vicinity of sugar mills have realised £10 and £20 per acre. This is a splendid chance for speculators.
HARDIE and GORMAN, Auctioneers,
133, Pitt-street, Sydney.

The AUCTIONEERS have the deed of this estate and the plan in their possession, and will be glad to afford the fullest possible information. The property is for ABSOLUTE SALE, to close the accounts of the late firm of WINGATE and BROOKS, and the opportunity to purchase is such as but seldom offers.

KENMORE ESTATE.

To Gentlemen requiring a thoroughly comfortable, well-situated, and compact
SUBURBAN HOMESTEAD or STUD FARM.
Within a few minutes' drive of Railway Station,
GOULBURN.

To Graziers, Speculators, and Capitalists.

Lot 1.
KENMORE HOUSE and GROUNDS, comprising—
227 acres 1 rood of Rich Alluvial Soil, subdivided as follows:—
2 Lucerne Paddocks, about 30 acres
3 Cultivation Paddocks, about 80 acres
2 Grazing Paddocks, about 100 acres
Orchard and Kitchen Garden, about 10 acres.

THE HOUSE
(which is situated in a most pleasing and elevated position, overlooking as it does the city of Goulburn and surrounding plains), contains
8 ROOMS, with verandah, store rooms, laundry, kitchen, servant's room, bathroom, and all necessary outbuildings, including substantial brick stable of 4 stalls, coachhouse and harness room, with hayloft (over all), large barn, loose boxes, farm stable, stockyards, cow sheds.

THE ORCHARD
is stocked with choice varieties of fruit trees.

On the property is erected an Aldhouse Windmill, which supplies the house, laundry, and stables with water from the Wollondilly River.

The House is surrounded with well-chosen Ornamental Trees, Shrubs, and Flower Garden.

The property has a frontage of about one mile to the Wollondilly River.

Its proximity to the city (being connected as it is by the new Bridge) enhances its value to a most considerable extent, and affords an opening to speculators to embrace this golden opportunity of securing some of the Most Beautiful BUILDING SITES in the Southern Districts, such as may never again be offered in the Goulburn market.

There are
40 ACRES NOW UNDER CROP
for Hay, exclusive of the growing crops of lucerne, which
WILL BE SOLD WITH THE PROPERTY.

Lot 2.
PADDOCK, containing
193 acres 3 roods 20 perches of rich Agricultural Land, situate on the Tarlo-road, a short distance from the homestead.

Lot 3.
ADJOINING THE ABOVE.
and extending to Taralga-road (to which it has a frontage of nearly 1 mile), comprises 848 acres 0 rood 8 perches of Excellent Grazing Land, thickly grassed, and well watered in the driest seasons.

The whole of the above properties are WELL WATERED and THOROUGHLY FENCED.

JOSEPH J. ROBERTS has received instructions from Mr. H. Payten (who intends visiting Europe the beginning of next year) to sell by auction, on the Ground,
ON AN EARLY DATE,
The above desirable properties.

TERMS: One-third cash; balance at 2 and 3 years.

The Auctioneer wishes to call attention to the following facts:—

AS A DEPOT FOR STOCK,
KENMORE, as a whole, cannot be surpassed. Its proximity to the Goulburn sale yards and the Railway trucking yards enables the owner to take immediate advantage of every fluctuation in the Goulburn and Sydney markets.

AS A FATTENING PROPERTY
KENMORE has no superior. Every acre is richly and thickly grassed, and a review of the Sydney Auctioneer's reports will show that Mr. Payten's stock are generally found in the top list.

AS A PROPERTY FOR SUBDIVISION
KENMORE is unique, for, by a judicious survey, every acre would contain an eligible building site, commanding splendid views on all sides.

AS FARMS
the property is first-class, the land being rich and proven to be highly adapted to the growth of crops and all English fruits.

AS A GENTLEMAN'S HOME,
KENMORE is all that one could desire—in a clime unsurpassed, occupying an easy and commanding position, within comfortable range of metropolis, surrounded by all the necessaries for affording a pleasant and, at the same time, a retiring occupation.

MOORABINA.

WILKINSON, GRAVES, and LAVENDER (in conjunction with J. S. BROWN, Dubbo) have received instructions from the proprietors, Messrs. BAIRD and STRAHORN, to sell by auction, on FRIDAY, 2nd November, at Menzies' Hotel, Melbourne, at 2.30 p.m. sharp, immediately after the sale of Marrawillah, their
on Eyre's Creek, in the North Gregory District, Queensland, consisting of the following blocks:—Moorabina, Fen, Ludlow No. 2, Wodonga No. 4, Baird, Fen East, comprising an area of about 500 square miles of magnificent open rolling downs, and on the frontage flooded plains, very richly grassed and studded with a great variety of fattening herbs.

The country is watered by the Herbert or Eyre's Creek, Four-mile Creek, and several other creeks.
The improvements consist of the necessary huts, drafting and branding yards, &c.
With the station will be sold about 1800 to 2000 superior cattle, principally males, all of which will soon be fat.
Moorabina would make a grand sheep property, and will be found well worthy of attention.
For further particulars and letters to inspect apply to
WILKINSON, GRAVES, and LAVENDER,
Sydney, Wagga Wagga, or Hay;
or to J. S. BROWN, Dubbo.

Preliminary Advertisement.

FRIDAY, 2nd NOVEMBER, 1883.

POSITIVE AND ABSOLUTE SALE,
a Consequence of Dissolution of Partnership by Effluxion of Time,
of the
MARRAWILLAH or CLUNEY STATION, situate in the North Gregory District in the Colony of Queensland, adjoining Mr. M'Gregor's Cuttiburra, and Mr. Field's Sandringham Stations, with all Cattle, Horses, Station Implements and Plant thereon, together with all Buildings and Improvements on the Station.

WILKINSON, GRAVES, and LAVENDER, in conjunction with M'DERMOTT, LOUGHNAN, and SCARR, have received instructions from the proprietors, Messrs. Baird and Machattie, to positively sell by public auction, at Menzies' Hotel, Melbourne, on FRIDAY, 2nd November, at 2.30 p.m.,
The above magnificent property, in consequence of the dissolution of partnership by effluxion of time, and neither of the partners will bid for the property.
Marrawillah or Cluney comprises an area of 1184 square miles of really magnificent sheep country, watered by about 50 miles of frontage to the west side of the same river, and 30 miles of double frontage to King's Creek.
With the station will be sold about 6000 or 7000 head of as high-class cattle as there are in Australia, of the celebrated Club brand, which brand took champion prize for best fat bullock, and first prize for best pen of three fat bullocks at last Sydney Show.
Marrawillah will make a magnificent sheep property, and the herd are of particularly good ages for realisation.
More full particulars in future advertisement.
Inspection is earnestly invited as the property is for positive and absolute sale.
For letters to inspect apply to Wilkinson, Graves, and Lavender, Sydney, Wagga Wagga, or Hay; or to M'Dermott, Loughnan, and Scarr, Sydney or Melbourne.

REYNOLDS and DUERDIN have been favoured with instructions to SELL by PUBLIC AUCTION, at Menzies' Hotel, on FRIDAY, 26th October, PINKILLA STATION,
situate in the South Gregory and Warrego districts of Queensland, adjoining the well-known and valuable stations Thurlungra, Nickavilla, Comongin, and Ardoch, comprising an area of 477 SQUARE MILES,
Together with 2000 head of well-bred cattle,
About 50 head horses.

The country consists of fine open downs and Mitchell grass plains, intersected by light mulga ridges, covered with a great variety of edible shrubs and herbs of a very fattening nature.
The whole is well grassed with Mitchell, blue, and various other grasses. Abundance of salt and cotton bush.
The country is well adapted for sheep and the growth of wool.
Plenty of timber for improvements and building purposes.
Watered by the Werribill, Warmunah, Barjie, Bunjindery, and Merry Weatherio Creeks, on which are numerous large waterholes, nine substantial dams, all of which are now full. There are several good springs, and a good well yielding an abundant supply of splendid water. At the head station there is a large and permanent waterhole. The creeks are all clay bottomed, and consequently will retain water for a long period. The improvements consist of good homestead, dwelling-house of six rooms, kitchen, and harness room, large eartshed, good stockyard, capable of working 6000 head of cattle. The cattle consist of 2000 head of well-bred mixed cattle, viz.:—
1050 head station-bred
400 cows, bred by Cobb and Co., Cudnappa
300 bullocks, bred on the Clarence, and fit for market
300 breeding cows, bred on Clarence.
Total, 2000.
15 well-bred bulls, most of which are Glenormiston bulls.
There are about 50 head of first-class stock horses, 20 of which are well-bred mares in foal to the thoroughbred horse Lycurgus, by Leonidas, bred by C. B. Fisher, Esq.
Thoroughbred entire.
Extensive plant given in.
Pinkilla station is distant 115 miles from Thargomindah, the proposed terminus of the Mitchell railway extension, 85 miles from Adavale, from which place there is coach communication to Muckadilla railway terminus.
We beg to call especial attention to the fact that nearly all the country is splendid sheep country, and well adapted for the growth of wool.
The carrying capabilities of this run are estimated at about 75,000 sheep, or 10,000 head of cattle, in all seasons.
At the same time, we may mention that the stock have been on the run all through the late drought, and have never been short of feed or water.
For further particulars apply to REYNOLDS and DUERDIN, 62, Collins-street West, Melbourne.

The above magnificent estate, with all stock, farming implements, household furniture, carriages, &c., as above described.
Sale to commence at 11 o'clock sharp. Luncheon provided.
The auctioneers, in placing this magnificent estate before the public, must, in justice to its real worth, call particular attention in first instance to the great extent and grand quality of the land to be submitted. They can, without fear of contradiction, assert that the whole of the freehold land is of the best wheat-growing description in the western district. Fully 4000 acres consist of rich alluvial flats, well adapted for lucerne fattening paddocks. The Bell River, having a continual flow of the purest water in all seasons, runs through the whole estate. At present there are 200 acres under crop. The grazing ground is splendid sound sheep country.
The homestead consists of a substantial BRICK HOUSE of 9 rooms, kitchen, laundries, coachhouses, stables, and other buildings in splendid order. The surrounding scenery is of surpassing beauty, and is improved by well-arranged flower gardens, tastefully set off with choice ornamental trees of various descriptions. The orchard comprises several acres, and has planted therein fruit trees of all varieties, including the grape, which grows to great perfection. There are no less than 20 substantial-fenced paddocks throughout the estate, those adjacent to Homebush are surrounded by artificial hedges of hawthorn, &c.; several are laid down with lucerne.
Other improvements consist of large stockyards, sheepyards, woodshed, in fact everything necessary for the working of such an estate.
THE STOCK, as enumerated above, are of the purest strains, and have been got together after many years of careful selection.
THE HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE is of modern make and choice description, and everything necessary for a gentleman's residence.
